Russian Civilians Are Hurled Into Desperate Defense Stand Before Hard-Pressed Capital

Nazi-Minded F. D. R. Blasts President of Germans, Asks Panama Flees Arms for Ships

Supreme Court Swears In De La Guardia, Friend of U. S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. PANAMA, Panama, Oct. 9. Arnulfo Arias, Nazi-minded president for a year of this vitally placed republic on the bridge of the Americas, was disclosed today to have fled to a Cuban exile a few hours after his cabinet had banned the arming of U. S. ships under Panama registry, and tonight the country had its second new president in the passage of three hours.

The jails closed on several of Arias' supporters, including his so-called strong man, the Panama City mayor. In the face of stringent precautionary measures the country seemed orderly.

Friendly to U. S. It was indicated the new regime would co-operate more fully with the United States than did Arias.

(Interviewed in Havana, Cuba, to which he fled by plane, Arias declared he was "greatly surprised" by his replacement as president of Panama and said he had expected to return.)

Arias slipped out of the country before dawn Tuesday, but the news was let out only today. By nightfall these successive happenings had turned Panama's political position upside down.

1. The second vice president, Ernesto Jaen Guardia, was sworn in this noon as provisional president by the supreme court, but by mid-afternoon he had resigned and the cabinet he had appointed called on Ricardo Adolfo de la Guardia to be president. He was subsequently sworn in and appointed practically the same cabinet. De la Guardia, a long-time associate and ranking cabinet officer of Arias.

LEST YOU FORGET—Pretty Elizabeth Hargrove will be a flower girl today. She's sitting atop a stack of 600 buckets of forget-me-nots to be sold on the streets by 1,000 Atlanta women for the benefit of disabled World War veterans. In the buckets are 55,000 flowers.

U. S., British Missions Urge Prompt Help

Returned Experts Believe Reds Will Continue If Moscow Falls.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Russian civilians joined the outnumbered Red armies of the center last night in a supreme and desperate effort to break the blunt German wedges still advancing on Moscow with ever-increasing strength.

In deep forests and broad plains more than 100 miles west of the capital and 200-odd miles to the south these mighty Nazi offensives were met with new Soviet lines.

The German high command asserted that the last fully effective Russian armies on the eastern front were fatally encircled and Hitler's military spokesman claimed flatly that Russia was beaten, although acknowledging that much more blood would have to be shed to complete the victory.

60 Divisions Circled.

These Red armies described as encircled were officially estimated in Berlin to aggregate 60 to 70 divisions. Russian divisions at full strength are about 20,000 men, but while German figures implied that as many as 1,400,000 Soviet troops thus might be trapped it was acknowledged in effect, that the total was much lower. One Berlin commentator remarked that some Soviet divisions of late had been found to contain not thousands but only several hundreds of men.

In any case, the Nazis claimed not only that all Russia's armies in her west were broken, but that there was no longer a single effective Russian command.

Meanwhile, the British and American supply missions returned to England from Moscow for a supreme effort to sustain imperiled Russia to the last, on the theory that if Moscow falls the armies beyond the Urals still may forestall a German lunge at Britain.

Missions Confident.

Members of both missions expressed confidence that Moscow would hold out against the present offensive, and some declared that even if the capital should fall Russia would continue the fight.

Headed by W. Averell Harriman, of the United States, and Lord Beaverbrook, of Great Britain, the experts conferred on their London train with representatives of the British government and the American embassy.

While they were reporting that there was no panic or any sign of one in Moscow, the British press warned the public with a unanimity that might have been inspired that Russia's armies are in the gravest of danger and must be aided to the utmost.

Admiral W. L. Harrison Standley, of the United States mission, said he believed that if the Germans took Moscow the Russians were fully prepared to move their lines back and continue the fight.

"The Germans may have tem-

Chinese Push Greatest Drive In Four Years

Chiang Claims Capture of Ichang From Japanese.

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 9.—(P)—A Chinese communique said tonight that two columns of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's troops had entered Ichang, main objective of the current Chinese offensive, after recapturing 11 strategic points in its environs.

The communique said Ichang, the westernmost point of Japanese penetration, now was partly occupied and that Chinese forces might soon be in complete control.

In a manifesto on the occasion of the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Chinese republic, Chiang Kai-shek urged the Chinese people to stand firm and vigilant.

(Japanese army sources in Shanghai acknowledged that the greatest Chinese offensive in four and one-quarter years of warfare now was under way.)

Grid Player Dies After Touchdown

DUNLAP, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(P)—Clark Green, 17-year-old senior, died in the dressing room here today shortly after scoring the last touchdown in Whitwell's 19-0 victory over Sequatchie Valley High.

A physician said he died of a heart attack and had suffered no injury in the game. The youth was still in his uniform when he succumbed.

Petition for Dissolution Of ALCOA Is Denied

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(P)—Federal Judge Francis G. Caffery today denied the government's petition for dissolution of the Aluminum Company of America and the so-called trust of which ALCOA and 24 corporate co-defendants were alleged to be members. The count also denied petitions for injunctions against any or all of the defendants named in the government's anti-trust suit.

Two Socially Prominent Girls Here Stage Double Elopement

Barbara Mallet and Medora Fitten Amaze Families and Friends Beyond Words; Young Married Couples Not Overly Excited About It.

By FRANK DRAKE. Two pretty and popular young Atlanta girls yesterday created a furor in the city's society circles by pulling a double elopement in the dead of Wednesday night down Jonesboro way.

They are Barbara Mallet and Medora Fitten, whose names have flitted through the society pages of the newspapers since they were little tots, but today Barbara is Mrs. Axel Dodson, and Medora is Mrs. Alexander Houston.

The families and friends, numerous friends too, were amazed beyond words and just didn't know what to say yesterday when the news of the two-way wedding got bruited about the town, but the

Turner's Wife Says He Escaped Prison 'For My Honeymoon'

Liberated 41 Convicts To Get Publicity, She Adds.

By DEAN BROOME.

Forrest Turner's soft-voiced, brown-eyed wife—who for three years has been a bit of a mystery woman to police—yesterday told state patrolmen her notorious escape artist husband broke out of the Dallas prison camp "to give me a honeymoon."

She added quickly that the freeing of the 41 convicts in the road gang near Manchester—which led to Turner's capture—wasn't a part of the original plans.

"Forrest just wanted the publicity," she said.

Betty Ann Turner, who says she married Turner three years ago but had to forego a honeymoon when police closed in, then told how Forrest chuckled with pride as he listened to radio reports telling of his wholesale delivery of the road gang.

She told how he listened eagerly to two news broadcasts while he, with the girl, S. J. "Slim" Scarborough, Fred Stewart and a kidnaped convict guard and highway engineer lay in hiding in Harris county.

A desire to get his name in the newspapers, she said, was the only thing that motivated him to free the prisoners and kidnap two men.

Betty Ann said Turner and Scarborough picked her up in front of the Broadway Cafe on Solons Urged To Wipe Out Hindrances in Neutrality Law.

(Text of Roosevelt's Speech on Page 8.)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Denouncing the Nazis as "madmen" and "modern pirates," President Roosevelt today asked congress to wipe out "crippling provisions" of the United States neutrality act.

First of all, he asked repeal of that statute's ban on armed merchant ships, "as a matter of immediate necessity and extreme urgency."

To this, he added a request that congress give its "earnest and early attention" to a second amendment, rescinding the provisions which forbid American vessels to enter belligerent ports and specified combat areas.

"It is time," the President said, "for this country to stop playing into Hitler's hands and to unshackle our own."

Forceful Message.

Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations went to the capitol in a directly and forcefully worded special message, which as a literary product alone, some were saying, would rank with the best of his state papers.

It piled argument upon argument in an apparent endeavor to anticipate all the objections that will be voiced by the opponents of his foreign policy and reached one of its several climaxes in a statement that:

"Hitler has offered a challenge which we as Americans cannot and will not tolerate."

"We will not let Hitler prescribe the waters of the world on which our ships may travel. The American flag is not going to be driven from the seas either by his submarines, his airplanes of his threats."

"We cannot permit the affirmative defense of our rights to be annulled and diluted by sections of the neutrality act which have no realism in the light of unscrupulous ambition of madmen."

Our Course Determined.

"We Americans have determined our course."

"We intend to maintain the security and integrity and the honor of our country."

"We intend to maintain this policy of protecting the freedom of the seas against domination by any foreign power which has become crazed with a desire to control the world. We shall do so with all our strength and all our heart and all our mind."

The receipt of the message found the house debating a $5,985,000,000 appropriation for the lend-lease program of helping Great Britain, with Representative Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia, asserting that "we are going to see to it, if we can—and I think we can—that planes and tanks get on the battle line to be used against Hitler."

At the other end of the capitol, the Senate Banking Committee had just approved a $1,500,000,000 increase in the borrowing capacity of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to be used in the defense drive, and it had heard the federal loan administrator, Secretary of Commerce Jones, say he would be back for even more money in two or three months.

Meanwhile, administration leaders, highly confident of enough votes to authorize the arming of American ships, at least, proceeded with their plans for the legislation. Hearings before the House Foreign Affairs Committee are to start on Monday, and some hope to have the bill through the house by the end of next week.

Warmer Weather Is Forecast Today

More warm weather with partly cloudy skies is in sight for today. Dropping to the cooler regions last night to give Atlantans a rest from the day's heat, the mercury will return to 86 degrees today, the weatherman forecast. The lowest will be 66, four degrees warmer than yesterday's low point.

Non-Essential Public, Private Construction To Be Prohibited

Unparalleled Veto Power Over 11-Billion-Dollar Building Industry Is Invoked by Supply Priorities and Allocation Board.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(P)—Invoking unparalleled veto power over the $11,000,000,000 construction industry, the Supply Priorities and Allocation Board prohibited today the start of any non-essential public or private construction which would divert vital materials from the defense effort.

SPAB issued a policy ruling that projects which it deemed unnecessary to "direct national defense," public health or safety would be barred for the duration of the emergency from "priorities" on such vital metals as steel, copper, bronze, aluminum and brass.

"Priorities" is a system under which materials are rationed out, first to defense industry and then, if the supply is not exhausted, to civilian uses.

Coincidentally, Donald M. Nelson, OPM priorities director, and SPAB executive director, ordered iron and steel scrap placed under full priorities control, effective Saturday.

Further evidencing a sudden spurt of defense activity, it was learned that a "crack down" on misuse of aluminum priorities was pending. An unidentified Chicago manufacturer was ordered here for a hearing on charges he obtained "a considerable quantity" of aluminum by using defense preference rating, then disposed of the metal for nondefense purposes.

SPAB's decision to take drastic action in the construction field leaves it the final veto power over items ranging from post offices, new homes and courthouses to the proposed $200,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway and all of the other 150-odd projects in the pending rivers and harbors bill. SPAB officials said each project would be weighed on the basis of two questions: whether the construction involves use of appreciable quantities of vital materials and whether it is necessary to national defense, public health or safety.

Excessive Blowing Of Horn Is Illegal

Mayor LeCraw yesterday signed an ordinance with the following provisions:

1. Barred the sounding of horns when vehicles are standing still except to prevent accidents.

2. Outlawed horn blowing when a car is in motion unless the machine has been decelerated and the brakes applied.

3. Prohibited the use of sirens or other unusual noise-making devices on privately-owned cars.

Violation is punishable by a fine not exceeding $100 and 30 days in the stockade, either or both, in the discretion of the trial judge.

There's Never a Dull Moment In War Games, Martin Says

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of stories about Georgia soldiers now engaged in the extensive maneuvers of the First Army in North and South Carolina.)

By HAROLD MARTIN.

UNDER A BUSH, SOMEWHERE IN SOUTH CAROLINA, Oct. 9.—(By Courier).—Covering an Army maneuver is like hunting 'possums without dogs in unfamiliar terrain without a lantern.

You never know what you are going to find. You soon quit worrying, and begin to wonder whether anybody is going to find you or not.

After our tremendous feat of last night in locating the headquarters of the 30th Division, where it lurked, blacked out, in a wood four miles east of a place we are not permitted to call by name for fear our manuscript will fall into the hands of the enemy, we considered ourselves a woodsman of the pure Davy Crockett strain.

Hence, when a tall young lieutenant roused us from our reverie in the misty morn and asked us if we would like to accompany him to a place near-by, where some Red prisoners were being held, we went along without a qualm. We reached the spot, the yard of a vacant farmhouse, to find seven unhappy looking young men. Three of them were asleep, two with their mouths open. Two others, one with red whiskers and one with black, were sitting against a tree talking about the

Collier's Terms Talmadge
'Unattractive Little Sourpuss'

Editorial Says Governor Is Making People and State "Look Foolish Without Giving You a Run for Your Money."

Describing Governor Talmadge as "an unattractive little sourpuss who is making you and your great state look foolish without giving you a run for your money," the October 18 issue of Collier's Weekly today carries an open letter to Georgians on its editorial page which accused the chief executive with using "every time-discounted appeal to race prejudice and passion that has been invented since the War Between the States."

The publication charged the Governor was doing Georgia "no good and much harm" and compared his antics with the Scopes monkey trial of Tennessee. It went so far as to say that the Governor didn't even measure up to the late Huey Long, pointing out that Long was "an economic screwball and a potential American Hitler," but at least he had magnetism and vitality.

The attack on the Governor grew out of recent wide publicity accompanying the ouster of two well-known educators, Dr. Walter D. Cocking, formerly of the University of Georgia, and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, former president of the Georgia Teachers' College at Statesboro, on charges that they advocated racial equality. News accounts of the "trial" and subsequent removal of the two professors were circulated throughout the United States and numerous editorials have bitterly attacked the Governor's interference with the University System. Following is the full text of the Collier's editorial, labeled an "Open Letter to Georgians":

Dear Citizens of Georgia:

You haven't asked us for our opinion; but just the same, our opinion is that your Governor Eugene Talmadge is doing your great state no good and much harm. Remember what a black eye the Scopes monkey trial gave Tennessee? Well, Mr. Talmadge is doing your commonwealth a similar disfavor.

Intelligent educators in Georgia advocate improved educational opportunities for colored youngsters. They do not advocate social equality between southern whites and southern blacks. Talmadge accuses them of advocating social equality, and proceeds to hound as many of them out of their jobs as he can. He uses every time-discounted appeal to race prejudice and passion that has been invented since the War Between the States.

This chicanery hurts you in every conceivable way. It postpones solution of your racial problems—real problems and very tough ones, for all the airy dismissals of them by some northern intellectuals. It takes your poorer white people's minds off improvement of their own economic condition, and inflames them with profitless hatreds. It diverts much of the mental energy of your intelligent white people (of whom you have plenty) into unproductive channels.

To add insult to injury, Talmadge hasn't even the picturesque full-bloodedness of the late Huey Long. Huey was an economic screwball and a potential American Hitler, but at least he had magnetism and vitality, and made good newspaper and newsreel

Wage Increase
Is Slated for WPA Workers

1,000,000 Persons To Be Affected on November 1.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(P)—An 8.5 per cent wage increase for almost 1,000,000 WPA workers, effective November 1, was announced today by Howard O. Hunter, Work Projects commissioner.

A flat $5.20 a month increase was granted to $34,000 workers who now earn less than $90 a month, and Hunter said he was working on an increase for workers making over $90. He indicated no raise would be granted to bring any wage to over $100 a month. The increases do not affect 106,000 workers now employed 40 to 48 hours a week on defense projects. The commissioner explained that the income of these workers already had been increased.

The hike lifts the average pay for the whole country from $60.20 to $65.40 a month—8.5 per cent—but the percentage of increase will be much higher for the lowest paid groups, because of the flat general increase of $5.20. WPA wages now vary from $31.20 in rural areas of the south to $94.20 to populous regions of the north and west.

Hunter told a press conference the raise in pay was an effort to meet the higher cost of living. He said food costs had climbed 18 per cent in the two years since the last WPA wage adjustment was made.

Japan Feared Near New Clash With America

By The Associated Press.

Japan is moving toward a new crisis in her relations with the United States which may wreck her present government, place the empire's destinies more completely in military hands and open a new phase of her program of conquest, according to trustworthy advices reaching the Associated Press in New York.

The Japanese have felt that for the last six weeks there has been an encouraging truce in the long-drawn steadily-worsening friction with America. They date the truce from the delivery late in August of a personal message from Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye to President Roosevelt. They indicate that hopes they placed in that gesture have been disappointed and that the truce is nearing an end. They blame American unreadiness to match that gesture of conciliation.

Developments Pictured.
Persons in close touch with developments in Japan and able to draw on information not permitted to pass the censor give this picture.
Japanese leaders fear a break with the United States is impending. Konoye has let it be known that he will not accept responsibility if this comes. If his effort to come to some sort of understanding, even a transitory and superficial one, with America fails, if there is not early improvement in trans-Pacific relations, the Konoye cabinet will fall.

It will be replaced by one of generals and admirals or at least one even more under the domination of the "Greater East Asia,"

Axis-bound military clique than ever before. Names of likely successors to Konoye already are being discussed, among them General Jiro Minami, who was war minister when the program of conquest began in Manchuria 10 years ago, and others of like background.

Konoye Discouraged.
Konoye is reported to have asked rather hopelessly, "What good did it do me to change the cabinet?" referring to his reconstitution of the government just three months ago to get rid of Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, who was held chiefly responsible for the alliance with the Axis and the neutrality pact with Russia.

This was a move to regain a measure of diplomatic freedom of action, to permit Japan to take stock of the world and see whether something could be done to avoid a clash with the United States.
Konoye made such an effort when he sent his letter to Mr. Roosevelt. Its contents have remained secret but the Japanese really believed there was a chance of coming to some kind of terms. No such hopes were expressed in Washington. Americans felt that a reconciliation of their declared policy of all-out aid to Britain, Russia and to China, and Japan's program of conquest in alliance with Germany and Italy called for fundamental concessions the Japanese were not ready to make.

Six Weeks' Truce.
But for the last six weeks the President has omitted specific mention of Japan from his verbal attacks on the Axis. Ambassador Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura was known to be continuing "explanatory" talks with Secretary Hull. On the surface there was calm, although mutual freezing of assets halted trade between the two countries and trans-Pacific steamship services were suspended.

The storm clouds seem to be gathering again. For one thing the successes of the German army against Russia are provoking new clamor for action by the Japanese militarists. They are preparing a mighty army in Manchukuo, apparently for a drive into Siberia. If the Russian army in the west collapse they are expected to insist that an unparalleled opportunity to end forever the Russian menace in the east must be seized. And a failure to reach understanding with America will strengthen this insistence.

The present Konoye government and the masses of Japan have no trouble with the United States. But the government's position, with its own militarists and the Germans both pressing for action, is nearly desperate.

Germany's Interest.
The German interest is to keep Japan and America hostile to each other, bring them to war if possible. Some of the Reich's ablest diplomats are concentrating in the Orient to promote this. Whether Japan lunges at Singapore and the Dutch East Indies in the south or Siberia in the north the break with America will be nearer.

American and British economic measures against Japan are beginning to take effect and economic experts believe they will produce progressively more hardship in the next two or three months. One Tokyo newspaper says Japan is "choking," has had no imports of oil or steel for many weeks. Foreign commerce, except that with the conquered areas of the Asiatic continent, is practically finished.

The winter just ahead promises to be the worst in memory for the Japanese masses. The summer rice crop was damaged by typhoons and floods. Quantities of other food crops have rotted in the sodden fields. Fuel is scarce. No private automobiles may be operated. Clothing is shoddy.

But the Japanese do not blame themselves or their government. The resentment is against America and other nations that "do not understand" them.

Wise Loan Plan Helps Workers Rid Themselves Of Pesky Debts.

Past due bills with their host of nagging collectors and bothersome calls can now easily be wiped out with the help of a sound, business-like loan plan worked out by a leading Atlanta financial institution.

Under this plan, announced recently by the Southern Security and Investment Corporation, almost anyone who has a job can immediately get from $50.00 to $1,000.00, and repay in small monthly amounts over a period of a year or even 18 months. Security may be a plain note, endorsement, auto, furniture, diamonds, or nearly anything of value. Legal interest rates are charged and loans can usually be refinanced to provide additional cash if necessary.

Readers of this advertisement who need money to pay past-due bills or for any other purpose are invited to visit the offices of the Southern Security and Investment Corporation, located on the 4th Floor of the 22 Marietta Street Building. The financial experts at friendly "Southern Security" are glad to discuss your particular financial problem and help you find the simplest solution.

British Tommies Verge on Mutiny, H. G. Wells Says

By H. G. WELLS.

For North American Newspaper Alliance.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Technically all of the British Empire, with the exception of southern Ireland, is at war. Actually the mass of German people, assisted by all the Quislings in the world, are fighting with the utmost vigor and persistence to conquer the whole world, and the British are in part resisting.

But the only forces that are fighting the Germans wholeheartedly are the British Air Force, the Russian people, the British fleet, some American ships and a miscellany of British-led forces in the Near East.

We have considerable accumulations of troops in the Near East, but they are not yet fighting the Germans. They have been cleaning up one of the little mistakes of that most disastrous individual, Field Marshal Lord Ironside, of Archangel. For Riazah Shah, of Persia (Iran), who has blockaded our co-operation with Russia, was Ironside's creation.

In Great Britain we have, it is true, some millions of men under arms, but they are not actually fighting; they are being of hardly more use to our magnificent Russian allies than if they were occupying the moon. The rank and file of these paralyzed armies of ours are on the verge of mutiny. Let not Dr. Joseph Goebbels rejoice at that. They want to get at the Germans.

Time for Plain Speech.

To relieve their tension, that remarkable Spitzbergen expedition was devised, in which, for no earthly reason, we burnt up a lot of badly needed coal. Look at Spitzbergen on your map. The time is overdue for perfectly plain speech about our relations to the Soviet Union. Since the beginning of the Russo-German war, with the exceptions I have named, British military performance has not impressed mankind, but has been hesitant and undecided, and the reason for this indecisiveness is the thinly concealed distaste of our ruling class for honest co-operation with the Russian people.

It is no good for Ernest Bevin (minister of labor) to shout "Quisling" at me for saying that. The truth is more blatant even than Ernest Bevin. The Russians, after the intolerable indignities and disasters of 1914-17, got rid of their Czarist tophammer, to the infinite dismay of our British tophammer. We have a large literature written from our tophammer point of view, from Sir Samuel Hoare's ridiculous "The Fourth Seal" to General Bridgwood's "Memories."

No Effort to Understand. These people made not the slightest attempt to understand what was happening in that great tragic country, Russia. They knew hardly anything of Bolshevism except that it assailed their privileges and pretensions and encouraged the lower classes, and on that account they were blindly and frantically anti-Bolshevik.

An Oxford University Press pamphlet on very little is illuminating on this point. While the British government was making a peace at Versailles that was to "end German aggression forever," it was at the same time co-operating with German armies in the Baltic provinces against the Bolsheviks. There was a German army of 25,000 men there under General von der Goltz.

The Germans were actually beginning then "the Second Punic War," as they now call it, before the first was fairly ended. The signing of the Versailles treaty produced a certain diplomatic embarrassment, which was not over

In a single night, by inventing a Russian prince and declaring the army of Von der Goltz his subjects and so White Russian citizens.

Attempt to Be Honest.

Our governing class has not changed its anti-Bolshevik bias simply because the Germans have launched an ill-judged onslaught against Russia. I believe there has been a very honest attempt on the part of a number of men, who at bottom care more for England than for their class privileges, to come around to a rational attitude, but I am bound to say that I still detect considerable resistance to fighting all-out with Russia as an ally and a tendency to find excuses for unhelpfulness.

The British people have to overcome that reluctance. It is the way to disaster. We cannot afford to half-help our stoutest ally. Reactionary-minded people, who dream of sneaking back presently to the dear old order of things, would do well to ponder the fact that at the words "It is for Bolshevik Russia," our munition workers have blazed with astounding enthusiasm.

In a war against totalitarian assault, the only thing to do is to fight. It is not enough to "take it." You have to "give it."

False Heroism.

After your home has been blown to smithereens and your mother killed and you have been kicked about as hard and contemptuously as a human being can be kicked, it is not really heroic to wait for the next booting and be photographed with an idiot grin and holding your thumbs up and saying "We can take it."

Don't take it. Fight. There is no other way out for you but defeat and dishonor, and if some anti-Bolshevik military expert gets in your way to prevent you from doing so, you must treat him as an enemy.

Which brings me to these maneuvers and military exercises that are going on here and in America. They are astounding. Instead of turning our attention to the business in hand, we are indulging both here and in America in the most extraordinary shadow-boxing it is possible to imagine. I find the illustrated papers full of stupendous military goings-on. Before me as I write is a picture of "Britain's mechanized might; an imposing spectacle of a complete armed division as seen by its majesty."

Made for Show?

It took King George an hour and a half in a scout car to inspect it. There it was, complete and up to date. Up to date now—if it is going to fight now. But a year hence it will be out of date. Has it been made just for show?

Reactionary propaganda gets into a great fuss at the mere idea of attempting any sort of landing upon the continent. It counts up the shipping and material needed to transport that little army, not allowing for return journeys, the difficulty of keeping up supplies and reinforcements.

Always they assume that Jerry will be ready at a long-appointed spot. But is there going to be a long-appointed spot? Are our military authorities such fools as to appoint that? Have they really made up their minds where that division is going? Then by high road and low road alike, Jerry knows and will be in sufficient force to meet it and we may reckon on disaster.

But suppose that even our own high command does not know for certain and has plans worked out for landing this force at 30 different points. Then Jerry will have to be ready in superior force at 30 different points. That will tax rather heavily those statistical German divisions that scare our military experts.

No Need for Secrecy.

It really does not matter if Jerry knows all those thirty plans, so long as we keep him guessing which is to be used. The more plans the better. There is no need for secrecy. We hold the air sufficiently to survey the enemy from the Arctic to tropical Africa, a long, indented front, including the Baltic and the Mediterranean. Measure it. Are we to suppose that Jerry has constructed an invincible Maginot Line along that vast front?

We have the advantage of inner lines and everywhere now we have eager friends who will sabotage Jerry's communications and supplies. Even our military experts must have observed that Jerry has a way of feeling for a weak place along a line and pushing hard when he finds it. Why should we not be feeling with major raids and minor raids for his weak spot? We have tens of thousands of bright boys fretting to do a job of that sort.

CADET-ARTIST—Cecil A. Alexander Jr., 23-year-old graduate of Yale, yesterday began training as a naval air cadet, but before he went in the service he presented Lieutenant Commander S. M. Nordhouse (left) and the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board with his painting of a new type naval bomber now under experiment. Young Alexander is the son of Cecil A. Alexander, of 1111 St. Charles place, N. E., and already has nearly 100 hours of flying time to his credit. A new class of cadets began training at the Naval Reserve Air Base here yesterday.

Our "blimps" insist that none of this accumulating material shall be put into action until it is trained to the very highest pitch of efficiency. But the best way to learn to fight is to fight.

Most of our "military experts" display abject inferiority to the military science of the Germans and yet they will not learn anything from them in this matter. The Germans do not hesitate to put boys in their teens into the fighting line. Our newspapers note the youth and the elderliness of prisoners we take. Those raw boys and old stuff cost only a third of the highly expensive soldiers, full of health and beans, that we are employing in shadow-boxing exercises.

We are not only using this A-1 material. We are letting it spoil. That is something that needs stressing. We are letting it spoil. That is something that needs stressing. This shadow-boxing is already producing a sense of unreality in our community as a whole.

People who were prepared to make heroic sacrifices a year ago are beginning to wangle small indulgences. Soldiers on what one might call inactive service are definitely disposed to introduce a factious element in the maneuvers.

Ashamed of Uselessness. The modern British Tommy is often as sensitive and intelligent as his officer. He is ashamed of being useless to Russia, of being called up out of civil life for ineffective drilling, and his frustration inclines him towards derision and insubordination.

If people lose their sense of reality of this war, they will lose their sense of gravity of a foolish peace. All this talk of the war going on to 1943 is helping the enemy. Its effect will be to prepare people by sheer boredom for a patched-up peace early in 1942.

After a few months more of this heroic shadow-boxing, the Atlantic communities will feel that practically they have done all that was expected of them and will be quite prepared to celebrate another Armistice Day.

We hear all sorts of guesses at the policy Germany is pursuing now. Obviously, Lord Van Siltart's long-term, implacably military Germany wants to drag the United States into this va before the shadow-boxing changes over to grim reality.

Yet Another War. After the failure of the Hess peace offensive—and how near that came to success and how much we owe to our Prime Minister for averting it—we can still only guess—it is plain that the enemy realized that the Britain he was fighting had the likeness of a bull terrier rather than an anti-Bolshevik fool.

The British have tasted their own blood, they have been blistered and bombed, and they will have no peace but a complete German defeat.

But America has yet to be bloodied. It is haunted by the shadow of a grave social conflict and may be content to accept this shadow-boxing as a real war and a Germany scotched, but not killed, as victory. In which case the third, last and most disastrous puny war may be expected in about 12 years from now.

JUVENILE CRIME UP.

Juvenile crime in Britain is increasing to an alarming degree, according to the home office and board of education. Since the war started, juvenile crime in Britain has increased by 41 per cent, and in some months, it has increased by 65 per cent over the last peace-time figures.

F. D. R.'s Day

By LEE CARSON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(INS) TIME AND HALF: Morning and more work came early for Mr. Roosevelt today, lasted longer than he or the waiting world expected as he wrote and rewrote his message to congress. Having apined for hours after dinner last night, the President fully expected to have his message on revision of the neutrality act polished off in jig-time.

But it was 11:45 when the President finally handed the finished product to Secretary Steve Early, while Vice President Wallace and Dr. Vannever Bush, scientific research director, warmed the bench outside his door.

SPEED: Between the time V. P. Wallace and Dr. Bush dropped a bit of late information on new martial inventions and lunchtime, the President went into high gear, speeded to catch up with his schedule and self. Oilman Edwin Pauley, of California, and Postmaster Frank Walker, got approximately three minutes lopped from their allotted 15-minute appointments.

Special Envoy to Rome and the Vatican Myron Taylor ducked silently in and out within 10 minutes. Mayor LaGuardia and Budget Director Harold D. Smith took more time, wanted to tell the President the estimated costs of the newborn office of facts and figures (Office of Civilian Defense) and a little matter of equipping the unarmed forces of home defense volunteers with necessary paraphernalia.

OUT FOR LUNCH: Needing a breather and a little time to himself, the President hung out the net sign, lunched alone at his desk with a book he has been intending to get around to for quite some time. After less than an hour out, the stenographic fleet was buzzed in to take dictation.

ILLS OF HUMANITY: Secretary of War Stimson, General George Marshall, Selective Service General Lewis Hershey, filed in at a given signal, 10 minutes later. Medical Examiner Domo Colonel Leonard E. Rountree arrived at a dog-trot, joined the party in the President's office. Subject under fire was the appalling physical condition of American youth—uncovered by draft examination.

Dr. Rountree presented his finished report on the disabilities. 50 per cent of the draftees were rejected for physical reasons. The President, already determined to take action, told them he would shortly reveal a plan to not only put the rejectees back in shape but guard future manpower against physical disarmament.

SHIFTING STATUS: Undersecretary of State Welles, who hasn't been dropping by to see the President very frequently since Cordell Hull came back to work, dropped by this afternoon. As always the State Department and Welles enforced quiet on the chat with Mr. Roosevelt.

HOME EARLY: After a series of long, drawn-out and very tough days the President folded shop early, put the lid on the executive office, and went home to the White House at 4:45 this afternoon for tea, a few laughs with friends.

German Guns Shell

Agar Proposes Immediate U.S. Entry in War

Lindbergh's Cousin Favors Repeal of Neutrality Act.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Augustus F. Lindbergh, half cousin of the flyer, and Herbert Agar, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, were applauded today by the "Continental Congress for Freedom" when the former advocated repeal of the neutrality act and the latter, "War—Preferably Tomorrow."

Sitting directly in front of the speakers was Mrs. Dwight Morrow, mother-in-law of Charles A. Lindbergh. Like Augustus Lindbergh, she disagreed with the flyer's views on foreign policy.

She is a delegate from New Jersey to the two-day continental congress, which is sponsored by the Fight for Freedom Committee and is attended by delegates from the 48 states.

Agar would get into the war by creating an aggressive attitude on the part of the people that would uphold a decisive action by the administration. Such a decisive action, he said, would be to send the American merchant fleet, convoyed by the American Navy, "straight into British harbors." Hitler would have to fight back, he said.

America's entry into the war would boost morale among the conquered people and really put this nation to work producing day and night, he asserted. He said this country has the world's greatest navy and the greatest armed force. Troops, he continued, could be landed in the Near East, where the war might be decided.

Agar expressed hope that the continental congress would pass resolutions that would force the war issue. He was named chairman of the resolutions committee on which are serving Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Melvyn Douglas, actress; President James B. Conant, of Harvard University, and others. Augustus Lindbergh, Birmingham, Ala., attorney, told the gathering "I find that all the people who think, think like you do. But there are a lot of people who don't think."

Specialist Army Urged by Lodge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Senator Lodge, Republican, Massachusetts, advocated today a specialist army for the United States made up of professional soldiers receiving increased pay.

He told the senate that from his experiences in maneuvers in Louisiana last month he believed there must be one type of Army for hot weather, another for cold, one type for covering wet, swampy ground and another for dry climates.

Lodge, a reserve captain who served with the Second Armored Division, commented also that the burden of protecting the country should fall less heavily on civilians. He proposed using the standing army as a nucleus for training civilians.

Midway Community Wins Awards at Fair

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Oct. 9. Midway community took top honors in the awards at the Middle Georgia Fair, in progress here. Midway school tied with Peabody and Coopers for first place in the school division.

Coopers community took second prize in the community exhibits.

Baldwin county rural communities and schools were largely represented at the fair.

Schenck Says $100,000 Cash Settled Strike

Movie Magnate Admits Payment at Trial of Labor Men.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Nicholas M. Schenck, film executive, asserted under cross-examination in federal court today that George E. Browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees (AFL), had settled a threatened New York City theater strike in 1935 at a cost of $100,000.

Schenck was the first government witness in the trial of Browne and William Bluff, west coast labor leader, on charges of extorting $550,000 from four major film companies.

Local 306 of the Motion Picture Projectors Union talked of calling a strike unless a new contract with higher wages was granted, Schenck said, and Charles Moskowitz, general manager of Loew's Theaters in New York, appealed to Browne to intervene. Schenck quoted Moskowitz as saying that Browne had declared the strike talk could be ended but that "our end of it will cost $100,000."

The witness said that as president of Loew's Inc., he told Moskowitz "for God's sake do the best you can but don't close up the theaters."

So that the payment would appear in order on the company's books, Schenck said, a man from Chicago named Mort Singer was employed and paid $100,000 by check.

Earlier, Schenck testified that he and another executive tossed $100,000 in cash on Bluff's bed in a room at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria in 1936 some months after Bluff had demanded payment of $2,000,000 under threat of wrecking the motion picture industry.

PERMITS MOUNT.

ROME, Ga., Oct. 9.—Maintaining a pace of better than $1,000 a day through the first eight days of the month, building permits in Rome leaped to $9,397 by Wednesday. Included in the permits were four for dwellings to cost at total of $7,375.

VICTIM—Nicholas M. Schenck, movie executive, testified yesterday that he and another executive gave William Bluff, West Coast labor leader, $100,000 in cash as the result of Bluff's original demands for $2,000,000 from the motion picture industry.

New Pictures Described as Entertaining

One Is Dramatic, Engrossing; Other Light and Swell.

By LEE ROGERS.

Two good, entertaining motion pictures enliven the movie box for Atlantans.

"Hold Back the Dawn," at the Fox theater, is dramatic and engrossing, with Charles Boyer making love in his style that gets all the women, in particular, this time, Olivia de Havilland and Paulette Goddard.

Light and swell is the Rialto's "You'll Never Get Rich," in which Fred Astaire gets a new dancing partner in Rita Hayworth.

"HOLD BACK THE DAWN"
A dramatic triumph for Paramount Pictures is the gripping "Hold Back the Dawn," which opened yesterday at the Fox theater with Charles Boyer turning in a smooth performance as the foreigner seeking to crash the gates of the United States—and seduced by two beautiful women, Olivia de Havilland, a school teacher, and Paulette Goddard, an adventuress.

The scene is chiefly set in Mexico, a border town where foreigners hole up in a little sticky, hot hotel to await a quota number. To such a place comes Boyer. Only he has been preceded by his former dancing partner of the Paris days before Hitler. She has gotten into America by marrying an American, whom she promptly divorces.

Head over heels in love with Boyer and wanting to get him with her in the States, she schemes with him to marry a girl and follow her own successful procedure. Olivia de Havilland, a school teacher with a station wagon full of kids on a Fourth of July outing, drops below the border. Boyer schemes successfully to win her unsophisticated love. Olivia, playing the same sweet role she did as Melanie, takes the bait. Courtship is a matter of only 24 hours. But when Boyer goes soft for the girl, Paulette tells her the real story. Fast events lead to a happy, though near tragic climax.

The entire cast and the direction and production are excellent. Walter Abel is masterful again in the supporting role of the immigration inspector, determined to trap Boyer, and who finally lets him on a mad dash to Los Angeles.

The story is told in novel fashion. It begins with a fellow walking into the Paramount studios to sell a story. It unfolds from there without a break. Never conventional. Imagination and ingenuity were used throughout. Mitchell Leisen directed.

ASTAIRE AND HAYWORTH MAKE FINE DANCING TEAM

Next to Boris Karloff with his make-up on, Fred Astaire is possibly the ugliest man on the screen. As to his face.

But you forget that when he dances. And he has a number of dances all by himself—in the Army camp guardhouse as Private Curtis in "You'll Never Get Rich," which started yesterday at the Rialto. He's nearly as good as Bill Robinson, which is superlative in praise.

Rita Hayworth is his new dancing partner. If she isn't as good as Ginger Rogers, she's almost. They're a joy to watch.

The story—following the Hollywood cycle, is told against an Army camp background. Astaire, a private, pretends to be a captain, steals uniforms, slips out of camp and renews his courtship of the swank Rita. Being a rich private, he maintains an apartment in town—which adds to the trouble and keeps Private Curtis in the guardhouse about nine-tenths of the time. He is released only to put on a show, staged by Robert Benchley. And I might say in passing that neither the late Mr. Ziegfeld nor the current Mr. DeMille ever built more costly sets—for an Army camp show.

There's a lot of good comedy, provided by fellow privates over whom Astaire has exerted his wondrous charm. They're usually in the guardhouse, too. —D. S.

REWARD OFFERED.

Lanier county's commissioners have offered $250 reward for other supposed assailants of former Governor Rivers in last week's bizarre attack by Horace W. Bickel at Rivers' Lakeland home. Word of the action was received yesterday by County School Superintendent Jere A. Wells from the former executive in a personal letter.

Evalyn McLean Weds Reynolds At Quiet Rites

19-Year-Old Heiress Is Fifth Wife of Senator.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Robert Rice Reynolds, 57-year-old North Carolina senator, today married 19-year-old Evalyn Washington McLean, his fifth wife.

The ceremony was private, performed by a municipal court judge at "Friendship," the fabulous home of the blonde heiress to the Washington-McLean fortune. The only relative present was Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, mother of the bride.

The bridegroom arrived alone in a convertible coupe a few minutes before the wedding. Earlier, five florist trucks drove into the estate, the drivers telling bystanders they were under orders not to talk.

Judge Robert E. Mattingly, an old friend of the McLean family, performed the ceremony, then departed in a taxicab, which had just delivered a three-layer wedding cake.

Reynolds wore a double-breasted gray checked suit and the bride a brown spangled dress, decorated with a corsage of orchids and roses.

The couple left immediately by motor for a honeymoon at Miami, Fla., and Havana, Cuba, planning to stop en route at Raleigh, N. C., capital city of Reynolds' home state—a "sentimental" gesture, the senator's friends said.

The new Mrs. Reynolds is a daughter of the late Edward Beale McLean, Washington publisher. This was her first marriage. Mrs. McLean, owner of the "Hope diamond," is the daughter of the late Tom Walsh, Montana copper millionaire.

Reynolds is chairman of the Senate Military Committee.

The couple's engagement was revealed several weeks ago and an application for a marriage license filed last Saturday. A three-day waiting period, a District of Columbia requirement, expired yesterday.

Friends said the senator and his bride had known each other for about two years and that Reynolds was often a guest at "Friendship." They will make their home there upon returning to Washington from their honeymoon in about 30 days.

Of Reynolds' past marriages, two ended in divorce and two by death. He has three children by former marriages, all older than the senator's bride.

State Oil Taxes Bring $7,395,614

Fuel oil taxes collected by the state during September totaled $2,395,614.13, Assistant State Treasurer Horace Hixson said yesterday.

Of this, $385,354.55 was allocated to the counties, $397,272.73 to the State Board of Education and $1,541,418.17 to the State Highway Department.

Counties receiving checks included: Bibb, $1,981.66; Chatham, $2,162.29; Clarke, $1,095.61; Colquitt, $3,462.48; Crisp, $1,891.64; DeKalb, $2,364.21; Floyd, $2,685.79; Fulton, $4,494.58; Glynn, $2,322.02; Lowndes, $4,292.20; Muscogee, $2,891.60; Richmond, $4,484.54; Spalding, $1,511.51; Sumter, $3,012.16; Thomas, $5,107.20; Tift, $1,893.27; and Ware, $3,856.72.

Major General Loses Job; Army In Efficiency Drive

CAMDEN, S. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—A division commander in the Carolina maneuvers lost his job today, only the fourth day of the two-month field test of the First Army. Major General Clifford R. Powell, well-known in New Jersey politics, was replaced as commander of the 44th Division.

The action, by Major General Lloyd R. Fredendall, commander of the Second Army Corps, and with the approval of Lieutenant General Hugh A. Drum, Army commander, came a few hours after a colonel, two lieutenant colonels and two majors of another division in Fredendall's corps of the 28th (Maryland-Virginia-District of Columbia) had been replaced.

First Army Headquarters announced it was "believed" all the officers were over the age limit the War Department set for their grades. Like General Powell, all were assigned to "special duty" at headquarters pending reassignment. The Second Corps is composed of the 44th, 28th and 26th (Pennsylvania) Divisions.

Prior to the start of the first day maneuvers Monday, General Fredendall told officers the two-month test must be regarded "as an opportunity to improve your own efficiency. Those who failed, he added, "must expect to be replaced."

General Drum, after a morning conference with Powell, announced formally that the 44th Division commander had requested assignment as commander of Fort Dix, N. J., home post of the New Jersey and New York National Guardsmen, in the 44th.

In this position he would have only the administrative duties incident to operation of the camp and instead of training soldiers or commanding field troops, would head the permanent "housekeeping" force of about 2,000 there.

Powell's request was forwarded to the War Department with the Army commander's approval, General Drum said, and Powell would be on "temporary duty" at Army Headquarters pending a decision from Washington.

General Powell, 48 years old, will be succeeded, at least temporarily, by Brigadier General James L. Muir, 53-year-old son of the late General Charles Muir. During training groups of men of the 44th Division were in the news for publicly protesting regulations and the extended service act.

is friendly toward the United States.

2. All police were held in barracks against the possibility of an uprising; not a single policeman was visible on the streets; all Panama leaves for U. S. soldiers and sailors from the Canal Zone were cancelled; Panama City and Colon were declared "off limits" for U. S. officers and men.

3. Mayor Nicolas Ardito Barletta, of Panama City, known as the iron man of the Arias regime, was jailed and it was reported that the staff of Arias' mouthpiece, the newspaper La Tribuna, was under arrest.

4. The government suspended gambling concessions, and slot machines were removed from saloons and cabarets, pending an investigation of their legality. In Colon, intoxicated celebrators were heavily out of bars.

Most people knew nothing of the changes, however.

(From Bogota, Colombia, it was reported that Arias, after a year of constant discord with U. S. military and civil authorities of the Canal Zone, had made sweeping demands on the United States, involving heavy payment for the right to defend the Canal Zone.

Planned Getaway.

(Forecasting failure, however, he was said to have planned his getaway a month ago. Actually he left the morning after the cabinet council had complicated U. S. plans to arm Britain-bound merchantmen by deciding to cancel Panamanian registry of any vessel so armed. A number of American-owned ships are carrying supplies to Britain under the Panama flag.)

(In Washington, however, Secretary of State Hull declined to pass judgment on today's developments.)

Arias, 40-year-old physician who received his medical education in the United States and once practiced in Boston, flew first to Barranquilla, Colombia, and thence to Cienfuegos, Cuba.

He claimed that no news of his departure be published and he did not designate a successor.

Reports from Havana said he was seen in the Cuban capital as early as yesterday morning, using the incognito of A. Madrid, his mother's name.

Vice Presidents Missing.

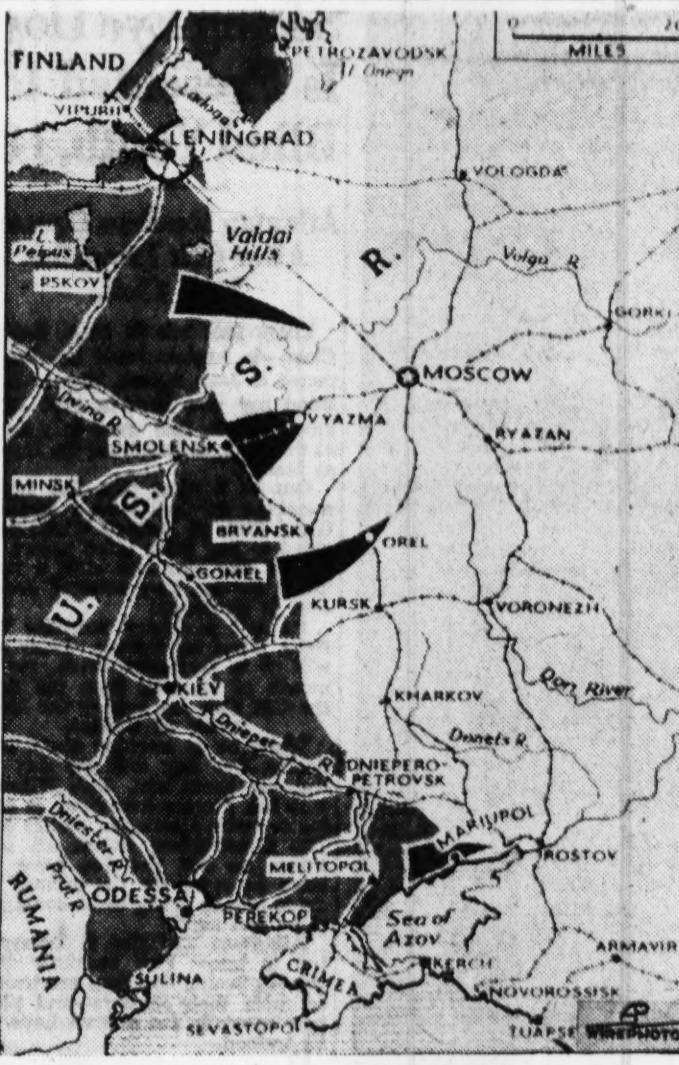

After Arias was out of the country, the supreme court was unable at first to find any of the three vice presidents, and prepared to swear in De la Guardia, who was Arias' minister of justice.

At the last minute, however, Jaen Guardia arrived from Mexico, where he had been serving as the Panamanian ambassador. He took the oath at 12:40 p. m. today.

After Jaen Guardia had resigned and De la Guardia had taken over, the government issued a manifesto calling on everyone to be calm.

De la Guardia, like Arias a physician, had been taken into the cabinet by the former president from the superintendency of Santo Tomas hospital. He is in his forties.

Since he took office a year ago, Arias had proclaimed a policy of "Panama for the Panamanians," revised the constitution, and had legislation adopted barring Negroes and Asiatics from citizenship.

BERLIN CLAIMS RUSSIANS TRAPPED—This is the military situation as claimed yesterday by the Nazis: Leningrad cut off in the north; the last fully effective Russian armies encircled in two areas in center before Moscow, and a complete Russian army surrounded near Melitopol. Reds admitted fall of Orel, periling communications between Red center and Ukrainian armies. Checked area indicates German occupation.

procurer," he said, "but I don't think they will discourage the Russians. The morale of the Russian people surprised me. They are standing up to the strain much better than I expected."

Immediate aid from Britain and America, it was indicated, will be in expanded supplies. Responsible sources could offer no real hope for the reopening of a western land front on Britain's initiative.

London sources said the Germans seemed to be trying to establish an ultimate line from Archangel to Astrakhan, putting the richest and most productive part of Russia in their hands and blocking supplies from Britain by way of the Persian gulf and Iran, thus leaving Vladivostok as the only route for outside help.

Army's Industries.

But Russian sources contend their eastern armies have their own industries and own supply establishments which support the big Red armies behind the Urals—provided tools and raw supplies keep coming.

One source said: "Moscow has not fallen and there still is plenty of chance that the Germans will be checked there, but even if the worst happens, the Russians are prepared to fight on behind the Urals to the east Caucasus on the south, as long as they have arms. Remember the Caucasus mountains guard the oil fields and it is in the Caucasus where the British could join the Red forces."

One of the gravest immediate dangers of the German push in the center, however, was said to be that the supply arteries to Moscow from Iran, via Tiflis, may be cut. Russian abandonment of Orel cuts one important north-south rail line and hampers movements of men and material to meet the undulating pressure of the German offensive, the British pointed out.

Fresh Positions.

After retreating from Orel, Marshal Semion Timoshenko's forces occupied fresh positions north of the town and stubbornly sought there to break the unending onslaughts of German tank columns.

About Vyazma to the west of Moscow the Russians were bitterly contesting the second Nazi advance.

The situation behind the Red Army lines remained calm and orderly, so far as could be learned, and life in Moscow went on as usual.

But the position was clearly grave, although not disastrous. To the almost limitless Russian millions the Soviet press appealed: "Realize the gravity of the situation, the greatness of the danger and abandon all complacency. Strain every effort to repulse the new attacks of the impudent enemy."

Every Red Army man must realize the gravity of the present moment.

That moment was grave indeed, for the midday communiqué of the Soviet command acknowledged that the German offensives—the greatest of all the war—had not been checked. Although the invaders were declared falling by the thousands, their lines grew only longer, for fresh German divisions after division was being hurled into every hard-pressed Russian point.

Savage Fighting.

The fighting proceeded with an epic savagery about Vyazma, and near Orel, where the Russians made perhaps their greatest stand in attempting to block the Nazis' northward push. Bryansk, to the west, was admittedly outflanked.

Orel itself was finally lost to the Russians after a three-day battle in which the town changed hands three times. First, said Soviet dispatches, the Russians abandoned it under heavy attack; then stormed and recaptured it and at last withdrew in the face of overwhelming numbers.

There was wild and violent action, too, in the far south along the upper shores of the Sea of Azov about Melitopol where a southern German offensive synchronized with the thrusts at the center was trying to beat its way eastward toward Rostov at the mouth of the River Don and at the gateway to the Soviet Caucasus.

The situation in this Ukrainian theater was not stated in detail.

Here and there over the transfixed central front German parachutists were floating down behind the Russian line; 200 were reported wiped out in a single area.

At the northwestern end of the front about Leningrad German pressure was reported still relaxing. The Leningrad garrison continued counterattacks, but these, although strong, were acknowledged to be only local.

In the south about Melitopol, a strategic point on the railroad which links the Crimea with the Russian mainland across a causeway, Russian troops were reported assaulting the invaders at front and flank in an effort to defeat evading tactics by which the Germans were seeking to break between the Soviet lines in the beginning of their familiar encirclement maneuvers.

Aid to Foes Of Hitler Asked By Ramspeck

Occasion Is Address Before Professional Women's Club Here.

Advocating "all possible help to every country that fights against this attempt at world domination as the 'realistic method of self-defense,'" Representative Robert Ramspeck addressed the Business and Professional Women of Atlanta at a luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club yesterday on "Facing the Facts."

Only the British empire and Russia stand between Hitler and control of all the earth except the Western Hemisphere, Ramspeck said.

"If he defeats them, he must turn to this hemisphere and then we will stand alone against the greatest military power the world ever has known. This ruthless power will be reinforced by the slave labor of the conquered nations."

Ramspeck said the lease-lend policy was "entitled to the full support of every loyal citizen" and that those who refused to obey the law "are not being loyal citizens under our system of government."

"I do not question their right to retain their opinions," Ramspeck declared. "They have the right to vote for candidates at the next election pledged to change the policy, but those who sabotage the effectiveness of the law are bordering upon treason."

Ramspeck was introduced by Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, chairman of the club's legislative committee and of the legislative committee of the state federation.

Maneuvers Never Dull, Harold Martin Finds

Bronx. They were referring feelingly to the Bronx as God's country, and we gathered they felt it far superior to the lonely corner of the Carolina woods in which they found themselves at the moment.

Two others were playing with a kitten. We don't know where they found the kitten. We don't know where soldiers find all the dogs and cats and goats and whatnot they collect. We have come to the conclusion that if this Army was as well equipped with weapons as it is with pets it would be the most formidable fighting force in the world.

We don't know whether there is any significance in it or not, but not far from where a young man is talking into a radio microphone. He keeps saying, "One dog one two one dog two go ahead one dog one two." We don't know whether he is passing on some message of great military import, or taking a morning census of the command post pets.

But to get back to the prisoners. We listened to the young lieutenant trying to elicit valuable military information from them. They wouldn't tell him anything. They wouldn't even tell him who won the last game of the World Series, a point in which he vitally was interested, having been out of touch with the outside world for some time. They looked at him suspiciously when he asked this, figuring it was some kind of a trap.

Finally he gave up. We could go on back to command post if we wanted to, he said. He was going to wait until somebody was captured who could tell him how the series came out. We started back by ourselves. We walked for 30 minutes until finally we saw some soldiers asleep under a tree near a house. When we got a little closer we recognized the man with the red whiskers and the man with the black whiskers. The lieutenant seemed surprised to see us. We said we came back looking for our pipe. We pretended to look for the fictitious pipe for awhile, and then started off again. That time it took us nearly 40 minutes to make the circle. The kitten saw us first and came out and rubbed our leg, as if greeting an old friend.

Morale Very Low.

By this time the lieutenant realized we couldn't find our way home and sent a guide along. It took four minutes to make the trip. Our morale was very low.

Morale, we find, fluctuates. Ours, when we crawled into a borrowed sleeping bag and snuggled down to get our rest, was very high. Until we found that the sleeping bag must have been made for a midget. We felt like an entrant in a potato race. We felt better later, when a kitchen sergeant, prowling through the woods long before the crack of dawn, booted a sleeper lying near us and ordered him to get out there, he was on it. He had erred slightly in location, it seemed. The man he kicked was the mess officer.

The ensuing conversation cheered all who heard it except the sergeant. But the lifting of the spirits didn't last. The oak tree under which we lay started shedding its acorns. An acorn, falling from a height of 60 feet or more, strikes the skull like a falling bomb. We scuffled around and found a tin hat and placed it over our head. We went to sleep, lulled by the thumping of the acorns on our hat. It is a soothing sound.

Vigorous Language.

Two hours later we were awakened by the sound of vigorous language. The man sleeping under the truck next to us had forgotten he was under the truck and had sat up suddenly, striking his head on the differential. We looked about us in the darkness. The woods sparkled with the twinkle of candle flames. Upon the early breeze there drifted the odor of frying bacon. We arose and staggered toward a cluster of lights.

We found a table, covered with green oilcloth, set up in the depth of the woods. Around it the command post officers sat, hair combed, freshly shaven, ties neatly knotted. With the politeness you might expect to find at a formal dinner, they were passing the eggs and bacon and canned cream and marmalade. For the first time, we understood why the Army drills its officers in manners as well as in the arts of war. Courtesy must be ingrained into the very bone to survive in the early dawn after a man has slept all night on the ground.

We were able to take some note on the morale of the private soldier at this time, too. We expected to find the man in the ranks a particularly grumpy soul at such an hour. Instead he was going about his tasks singing merrily while Private Roger Gardner, of Griffin, Ga., made sweet music upon the mouth organ.

The only man who did not seem in the best of spirits was Private Harold "Face" Thaxton, also of Griffin. Private Thaxton used to slap the bass in orchestras around Atlanta. He loves to slap the bass. He was very sad because they told him positively he couldn't bring his bull fiddle on maneuvers.

Text of President Roosevelt's Plea for Neutrality Changes

Chief Executive Says Pattern of Future as Hitler Hopes To Shape It, Is as Clear and Ominous as the Headlines of Today's Newspapers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's message to Congress on revision of the neutrality law follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

It is obvious to all of us that world conditions have changed violently since the first American neutrality act of 1935. The neutrality act of 1939 was passed at a time when the true magnitude of the Nazi attempt to dominate the world was visualized by few persons. We heard it said, indeed, that this new European war was not a real war, and that the contending armies would remain behind their impregnable fortifications and never really fight. In this atmosphere the neutrality act seemed reasonable. But so did the Maginot Line.

Since then—in these past two tragic years—war has spread from continent to continent; very many nations have been conquered and enslaved; great cities have been laid in ruins; millions of human beings have been killed, soldiers and sailors and civilians alike. Never before has such widespread devastation been visited upon God's earth and God's children. The pattern of the future—the future as Hitler seeks to shape it—is now as clear and ominous as the headlines of today's newspapers.

AMERICANS ARE NOT NEUTRAL IN THOUGHT

Through these years of war, we Americans have never been neutral in thought. We have never been indifferent to the fate of Hitler's victims. And, increasingly, we have become aware of the peril to ourselves, to our democratic traditions and institutions, to our country, and to our hemisphere.

We have known what victory for the aggressors would mean to us. Therefore the American people, through the Congress, have taken important and costly steps to give great aid to those nations actively fighting against Nazi-Fascist domination.

We know that we could not defend ourselves in Long Island Sound or in San Francisco Bay.

That would be too late. It is the American policy to defend ourselves wherever such defense becomes necessary under the complex conditions of modern warfare.

Therefore, it has become necessary that this government should not be handicapped in carrying out the clearly announced policy of the Congress and of the people. We must face the truth that the neutrality act requires a complete reconsideration in the light of known facts.

MATTER OF ESSENTIAL DEFENSE OF U. S. RIGHTS

The provisions which I suggest do not call for a declaration of war any more than the lend-lease act called for a declaration of war. This is a matter of essential defense of American rights.

In the neutrality act are various crippling provisions. The repeal or modification of these provisions will not leave the United States any less neutral than we are today, but will make it possible for us to defend the Americas far more successfully, and to give aid more effectively against the tremendous forces now marching towards conquest of the world.

Under the neutrality act, we established certain areas as zones of combat into which no American flag ships could proceed. Hitler proclaimed far larger areas as zones of combat into which any neutral ship, regardless of its flag or the nature of its cargo, could proceed only at its peril. We know now that Hitler recognizes no limitation on any zone of combat in any part of the seven seas. He has struck at our ships and at the lives of our sailors within the waters of the western hemisphere. Determined as he is to gain domination of the entire world, he considers the entire world his own battlefield.

SHIP SINKINGS ARE CONTINUING
Ships of the United States and of other American republics continue to be sunk, not only in the imaginary zone proclaimed by the Nazis in the north Atlantic, but also in the zoneless south Atlantic. I recommend the repeal of Section 6 of the act of November 4, 1939, which prohibits the arming of American flagships engaged in foreign commerce.

The practice of arming merchant ships for civilian defense is an old one. It has never been prohibited by international law. Until 1937 it had never been prohibited by any statute of the United States. Through our whole history American merchant vessels have been armed whenever it was considered necessary for their own defense.

It is an imperative need now to equip American merchant vessels with arms. We are faced not with the old type of pirates but with the modern pirates of the sea who travel beneath the surface or on the surface in the air destroying defenseless ships without warning and without provision for the safety of the passengers and crews.

Our merchant vessels are sailing the seas on missions connected with the defense of the United States. It is not just that the crews of these vessels should be denied the means of defending their lives and their ships.

ARMS ADD TO SAFETY OF U. S. SEAMEN

Although the arming of merchant vessels does not guarantee their safety, it most certainly adds to their safety. In the event of an attack by a raider they have a chance to keep the enemy at a distance until help comes. In the case of an attack by air, they have at least a chance to shoot down the enemy or keep the enemy at such height that it cannot make a sure hit. If it is a submarine, the armed merchant ship compels the submarine to use a torpedo while submerged—and many torpedoes thus fired miss their mark. The submarine can no longer rise to the surface within a few hundred yards and sink the merchant ship by gunfire at its leisure.

Already we take many precautions against the danger of mines—and it seems somewhat incongruous that we have authority today to "degauss" our ships as a protection against mines, whereas we have no authority to arm them in protection against aircraft or raiders or submarines.

The arming of our ships is a matter of immediate necessity and extreme urgency. It is not more important than some other shipping provisions in the present act, but anxiety for the safety of our crews and of the almost priceless goods that are within the holds of our ships leads me to recommend that you, with all speed, strike the prohibition against arming our ships from the statute books.

OTHER PHASES OF ACT NEED CORRECTION
There are other phases of the neutrality act to the correction of which I hope the Congress will give earnest and early consideration. One of these provisions is of major importance. I believe that it is essential to the proper defense of our country that we cease giving definite assistance which we are now giving to the aggressors. For, in effect, we are inviting their control of the seas by keeping our ships out of the ports of our own friends.

It is time for this country to Give Your Feet An Ice-Mint Treat. Get Happy, Cooling Relief For Burning Callouses—Put Spring In Your Step. Don't groan about tired, burning feet. Don't moan about callouses. Get busy and give them an Ice-Mint treat. Feel the comforting, soothing coolness of Ice-Mint. Rub Ice-Mint over those ugly hard old callouses, as directed. See how white, creamy like Ice-Mint helps soften them up—chances they'll go away. Get foot happy today the Ice-Mint way. Your druggist has Ice-Mint.

stop playing into Hitler's hands, and to unshackle our own.

A vast number of ships are sliding into the water from American shipbuilding yards. We are lending them to the enemies of Hitlerism and they are carrying food and supplies and munitions to belligerent ports in order to withstand Hitler's juggernaut.

Most of the vital goods authorized by the Congress are being delivered. Yet many of them are being sunk; and as we approach full production requiring the use of more ships now being built it will be increasingly necessary to deliver American goods under the American flag.

We cannot, and should not, depend on the strained resources of the exiled nations of Norway and Holland to deliver our goods nor should we be forced to masquerade behind the flags of our sister republics.

NEED CONSISTENT ACTION AND POLICY

I earnestly trust that the Congress will carry out the true intent of the lend-lease act by making it possible for the United States to help to deliver the articles to those who are in a position effectively to use them. In other words, I ask for congressional action to implement congressional policy. Let us be consistent.

I would not go back to the earlier days when private traders could gamble with American life and property in the hope of personal gain, and thereby embroil this country in some incident in which the American public had no direct interest. But, today, under the controls exercised by the government, no ship and no cargo can leave the United States, save on an errand which has first been approved by governmental authority. And the test of that approval is whether the exportation will promote the defense of the United States.

I cannot impress too strongly upon the Congress the seriousness of the military situation that confronts all of the nations that are combating Hitler.

We would be blind to the realities if we did not recognize that Hitler is now determined to expend all the resources and all the mechanical force and manpower at his command to crush both Russia and Britain. He knows that he is racing against time. He has heard the rumblings of revolt against the enslaved peoples—including the Germans and Italians. He fears the mounting force of American aid. He knows that the days in which he may achieve total victory are numbered.

OUR DUTY TO SEND MORE AID TO ALLIES
Therefore, it is our duty, as never before, to extend more and more assistance and, ever more swiftly to Britain, to Russia, to all peoples and individuals fighting slavery. We must do this without fear or favor. The ultimate fate of the Western Hemisphere lies in the balance.

I say to you solemnly that if Hitler's present military plans are brought to successful fulfillment, we Americans shall be forced to fight in defense of our homes and our own freedom in a war as costly and as devastating as that which now rages on the Russian front.

Hitler has offered a challenge which we as Americans cannot and will not tolerate.

We will not let Hitler prescribe the waters of the world on which our ships may travel. The American flag is not going to be driven from the seas either by his submarines, his airplanes or his threats.

We cannot permit the affirmative defense of our rights to be annulled and diluted by sections

Seeing Eye Dog Is Presented to Blind Youth, 18

Atlanta Realizes Dream After Gift From Detroit Club.

There just has to be a Santa Claus—to explain what has happened to Jack Wilson, 18-year-old blind boy who lives at 1245 Hill street, S. E., and goes to school at the Georgia School for the Blind at Macon.

Out of a clear sky, the 1,500 members of the General Motors Girls' Club at Detroit, Mich., decided to buy some blind person a Seeing Eye Dog and after a national survey, they selected Jack. And he is happy!

He left yesterday morning by Delta plane for Detroit. Later he will go to Rochester, Mich., for a month of training with the dog the GM girls are buying for him.

While he is learning about his Seeing Eye dog and the dog is learning about him, Jack Wilson, who has literary ambitions, is going to write a series of stories for The Constitution, telling all the things he and his dog have to learn in order for the animal to guide him as safely as he could go if he had sight.

Atlantans will find it interesting to know how carefully the famous Seeing Eye dogs are trained with their masters—and also how carefully the masters have to be trained.

Jack, whose stories will be "by lined" in this newspaper, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilson, and his father works on the assembly line at the Fisher Body plant here.

Ever since he was a small boy and learned about the Seeing Eye dogs that give sight to the blind, Jack has wanted one with all his heart and soul. But he might never have gotten one—except for the girls of the GM Girls' Club way up on the other side of the Mason and Dixon Line.

These girls, the secretaries, the typists and the office workers at the big GM plant in Detroit, formed their club some time ago and lunched together and had social functions for their own entertainment. The club branched out more later and sponsored lectures and performances by celebrities and also began giving two stage plays each year. They made money and accumulated quite a bit. Early this year they cast about for some worthy way of spending it.

Finally they decided to purchase some deserving blind person a Seeing Eye dog and GM's officials swung into action. A survey of GM's 81 plants all over the nation was made and from that survey, Jack Wilson, of Atlanta, was selected to receive the fine animal.

He is a student in the eighth grade at the School for the Blind and has done exceptionally well in his studies, making the honor roll time and again. He is especially adept at reading Braille.

Fisher Body officials told him of his good luck a few days ago, and the supervisors of the plant have been having Jack's fare to and from Detroit defraying all expenses except those to be paid by the GM Club girls.

After a month at the Seeing Eye school, Jack will return to the school at Macon, with his intelligent dog as his constant companion. Pets aren't allowed at the school, but Jack's Seeing Eye dog will sleep in the dormitory with him.

Jack has been blind since he was six months old, but pretty soon he will have eyes again—the eyes of a Seeing Eye dog.

Tobacco Prices Steady at Raleigh

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Although prices were slightly lower on the new bright tobacco belt yesterday, leaf grades advanced $1 a hundred on the middle belt and other grades were steady.

The United States and State Departments of Agriculture said new bright averages were:

Orange leaf, good 42, fair 41, low 32, common 26; orange smoking leaf, good 43, fair 42, low 38, common 29; lemon cutters, good 46, fair 44; lemon lugs, fine 43, good 41, fair 43; nondescript, best thin 10, best heavy 9.50; commonest crude 5.50.

Middle belt averages:

Orange leaf, fine 44, good 42, fair 38, low 32, common 21; orange smoking leaf, fine 44, good 43, fair 42, low 36, common 26; lemon cutters, good 45, fair 44, low 43; lemon lugs, choice 44, fine 43, good 41, low 27; nondescript, best 8.50, best heavy 8.75, commonest crude 5.50.

of the neutrality act which have no realism in the light of unscrupulous ambition of madmen. We Americans have determined our course.

We intend to maintain the security and the integrity and the honor of our country.

We intend to maintain the policy of protecting the freedom of the seas against domination by any foreign power which has become crazed with a desire to control the world. We shall do so with all our strength and all our heart and all our mind.

Duke Is Author Of Legal Textbook

An erudite legal textbook, "Outline of the Georgia Substantive Criminal Law," written by Assistant Solicitor General Daniel Duke, issued from the press yesterday. His associates and members of the bar generally received it with high praise.

Mr. Duke, who is professor of law at the John Marshall Law School, explained that he had prepared it chiefly for the use of his own classes, but lawyers said it would be invaluable to all practitioners.

The work delves thoroughly into the philosophy of human relationships, from the legal point of view. Chapters are devoted to the nature of crime, the mental element in crime, offenses against the person, property and public justice, and the wide subject of defenses.

Duke is the son-in-law of Tarleton Collier, southern sociologist, former newspaperman and author of the masterly "First in the Sky," dealing with the life of southern cotton share-croppers.

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in the Want Ad section of The Constitution.

REPORT PROGRESS—Progress was reported yesterday in the effort to compose differences between council factions over administration of the police department, following the compromise committee's first meeting. Here are the committee members (left to right): Aldermen Ed A. Gilliam, L. O. Moseley and G. Dan Bridges, Preston S. Arkwright, chairman, and Councilman J. Allen Couch at the conference table.

Progress Seen In Council on Police Dispute

No Definite Agreement Reached; Meeting Grounded

Progress was reported yesterday in the effort to compose differences between warring council factions over administration of the police department but no definite agreement was reached, following the compromise committee's first meeting.

Arkwright expressed confidence that the committee can find a "meeting ground on which all members can agree unanimously," and said further conferences will be held early next week.

Meeting in executive session from which the public and news reporters were barred, the committee spent about two hours in preliminary discussions.

Aldermen G. Dan Bridges, Ed A. Gilliam and L. O. Moseley and Councilman J. Allen Couch, other members of the group, referred all queries to Arkwright, who was designated as committee spokesman.

The group, however, indicated it was impressed with the following four-point program submitted to it in writing by Mayor LeCraw and which has been urged many times in the past:

1. Creation of a real merit system for selection of new officers with requirements raised from fifth grade students to at least high school graduates.

2. Merit promotion of officers with special examinations and selection to be made from the first three qualified candidates as is now done under civil service for other municipal employees.

3. Establishment of police schools for patrolmen, detectives and superior officers.

4. Tenture for the department head, whether a chief of police or any other officer, based solely on a performance record.

Fain Peek, spokesman for a citizens' committee sponsoring an election on an ordinance to give Police Chief Hornsby exclusive administrative powers over the department, announced circulation of the petitions has been suspended pending a recommendation by the compromise committee. He said the petitions have 73 per cent of the required 10 per cent of the voters in the last general city election, the percentage needed to force a referendum on the ordinance.

Atlanta Leads In Organization Of Consumers

Housewives Fighting Rise in Food Prices Rate With Syracuse.

Atlanta is a step ahead of Syracuse, N. Y., in the organization of consumers to halt rising prices on food commodities.

Yesterday a story came in over the wires describing how housewives in Syracuse, aroused over a drivers' strike, suddenly had organized and conducted a kitchen-to-kitchen canvass in an attempt to stop an impending milk price rise.

Already Atlanta has an embryo Emergency Consumers' Committee and it is expected to expand considerably at its second meeting next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium when Miss Mary Hawes, of Birmingham, regional director of consumer work for the Office of Price Administration in Washington, will address the group on what consumers can do to prevent further inflation.

Mrs. Walter L. Fleisher Jr., secretary of the committee, explained that Atlanta, too, plans a home campaign but added "we have to move slower here in Atlanta than they do in Syracuse."

The Atlanta committee, which was organized with a nucleus of about 50 members, saw its first service in the last stages of a recent consumer campaign to prevent a 1-cent increase in the price of milk in Atlanta. Mrs. Fleisher pointed out, however, that her organization would not be concerned only with milk but would attempt to prevent higher prices on other types of commodities.

Turner's Wife Tells of Escape

Mitchell street on September 18. One night of their two-week flight, Turner and the girl spent in a tourist camp in south Georgia. The rest of the time was spent en route to the Florida Everglades and back, during which time she, Turner and Scarborough "camped out."

Excellent Cook. They refused to help Scarborough with the cooking, she said, adding he was an excellent cook. "We didn't dare stay in a hotel. A hotel was what caught us last time," she said.

Turner and his pal spent money freely, she admitted, but she didn't know where they got it, and she said she wasn't with them at the time of any holdup.

The reason they wanted to pick up Stewart, the convict from the Hamilton, Ga., prison, was that he was "a good holdup man," she said.

Married at 13.

Betty Ann told of her first marriage to a man named Johnson, when she was only 13 years old. A child was born of the marriage when she was 14, she said, but it died at the age of four months.

Since that time Betty Ann has earned her living as a waitress in cafes in Atlanta, and in other parts of the state.

She also once took a beauty course at Thomaston and was a beauty operator there and in Atlanta for a while. "I've had enough experiences in my life to write a couple of books," she said. "But I don't hold any grudges against the police, the public or anybody. They've treated me all right."

"Put in your article," for one thing, that I appreciate how well Miss Butler, the matron at Tattall, treated me while I was there the last few days," she said.

Betty Ann once served a year at the state prison in Milledgeville for a part in a cutting scrape in Marietta, she said.

During the entire 15 days with Turner, during which time they were chased several times by officers who had orders to shoot to kill, and were fired on in the Harris county escapade, Betty Ann insists she was not afraid or excited.

"The only time I got excited was when a policeman with a shotgun started shaking with nervousness when they stopped us at Ellenton."

The hunted convicts were on the way back to Florida for a second time at the time of the capture, she said. They had fished in the Everglades, and Turner liked it there.

Turner Did Washing.

Before the capture they had stayed several days with Scarborough's uncle in south Georgia, and Scarborough had "pulled corn" for two days, and she and Turner did the family washing. The girl, who now is 22 years old, may face a charge of aiding and abetting the escape of a felon, and possibly of kidnapping growing out of the abduction of the two prison officials.

She was a witness in Fulton superior court September 16 in the murder trial of Walter Whitfield, who was convicted of slaying Evelyn Martin in Whitfield's home on Bankhead highway several weeks ago. He is now under life sentence.

"I Love Forrest."

"I love Forrest. I wouldn't have married him and gone with him if I didn't," she asserted hotly.

"If he ever gets out again, I'll be glad to go away with him. As far as I'm concerned there are no regrets. I would do it all over again."

They were married in Conley, Ga. in 1938, during one of Turner's previous escapes, Betty Ann said. The minister was a man "by the name of Brown," she recalled.

Two Atlanta Socialites Elope

bonds of matrimony just a little while before the clock struck 12. "Why, my aunt, Mrs. A. W. Eckert, of Spring Lake, N. J., who is visiting us, was along," said Mrs. Dodson.

"We didn't do this so suddenly as all that," said the husbands when they were asked details about the weddings.

But the families of the two brides were surprised.

Accounts Meager.

Accounts of the weddings and the trip back to Atlanta early yesterday were meager—the couples weren't doing much talking.

But it was known Mr. and Mrs. Houston stopped at the Biltmore after the ride back to town and Mrs. Fitten, this bride's mother, received a telegram early from her daughter saying "We'll be home in two hours."

The Dodsons spent the night at his apartment on Peachtree road near the Robinson residence.

"They woke me up at 2 o'clock in the morning to tell me about it," said Mrs. Henry H. Robinson, mother of Barbara. "When they left here that night, they didn't say a thing to me about Jonesboro."

"You could have knocked me over with a ton of brick," was about way J. Turner Fitten felt when he heard the news, he said.

Mrs. O. E. Fisher, mother of Alexander Houston, was practically overcome when The Constitution society editor phoned her the news early yesterday morning.

"My son married? Who?" she said.

"That's wonderful! Who to?" The couple had "gone together" for a long time before Wednesday night but from the way the telephone at Mrs. Dodson's home was ringing it seemed like quite a few of their friends felt about it just like Mr. Fitten.

The new Mrs. Dodson and Mrs. Houston have long been chums and they decided they didn't want any big weddings, they said. Elopement, always as romantic as a church wedding is dignified, was the answer for them both.

Mrs. Houston is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Turner Fitten, of 1807 Peachtree road, and Mrs. Dodson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Robinson.

Son of Colonel. Houston is the son of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. O. E. Fisher, of 144 Huntington road, and Dodson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Dodson, of Decatur, Ill., where he formerly lived before coming to Atlanta.

Mrs. Dodson attended North Fulton High and Washington Seminary here and is a member of the Sigma Delta sorority, the Girls' Circle for Tallulah Falls and the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Junior Guild. Mrs. Houston attended Washington Seminary and was graduated at Oglethorpe University, where she was president of Chi Omega sorority.

Davis, Kaufman Prosecution Ended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—

The government announced today that it would make no further efforts to prosecute J. Warren Davis, retired judge of the U. S. circuit court of appeals, and Morgan S. Kaufman, former bankruptcy referee, on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States.

"In view of the fact that two previous trials have resulted in disagreement by the jury, the indictments will be nolle prossed," Attorney General Francis Biddle said after a conference with assistants who handled the case at Philadelphia. The first trial was last spring, the second in August.

Unadilla Youth Is Killed by Auto

UNADILLA, Ga., Oct. 9.—(AP)—

Henry D. Richardson Jr., 17, was struck and killed by an automobile about a mile from here yesterday. State Patrolmen W. D. Grier and J. B. Folks said the driver was held blameless.

Survivors include his father and a sister.

And now Bond introduces

Spartan Worsted

... the suit with a hundred lives

with two trousers

Go ahead—give it the works! Here's one suit you never need pamper. Tear into your busy day, give that Spartan Worsted a sound beating—then watch it come up with a smile, asking for more. Stretch, twist, rub it—crawl on your knees if you will—and there's your Spartan, crisp and smooth as though it had just come from under the tailor's iron. Expensive, long-staple yarn does it—brimming with vitality, primed with wrinkle-resisting spring. Double weaving adds the crowning touch—full-bodied ruggedness that feels silky soft in your hands. Yes, sir—it's probably a new experience to enjoy so much vigorous good looks for as little as $30, including two trousers. That's why "Bond's—today or tomorrow" should top your list of things to do.

BOND CLOTHES

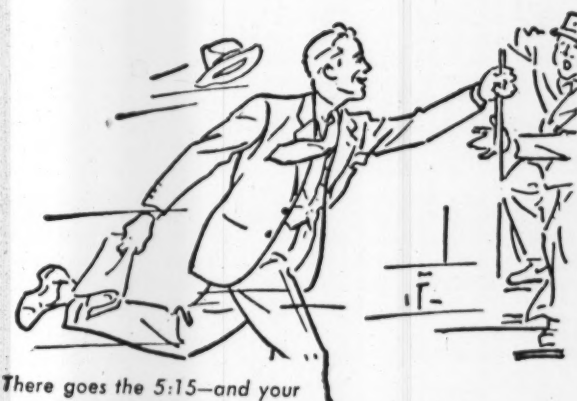

45 Peachtree St.

Listen to Larry Alexander on "Bond's Merry-Go-Round," WSB, Monday, Through Saturday, 7:30 A. M.

When most suits are ready to "get the air", your Spartan is just getting its second wind.

Collar button hunters will stalk their game with unruffled serenity in a stout-hearted Spartan.

Baggy knees and wrinkled back never spoil the fun when you "horse around" with Spartan.

There goes the 5:15—and your Spartan Worsted still as fresh looking as it was ten hours ago.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 10, 1941.

Can All Be Unselfish?

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, speaking before the National Foreign Trade Convention, warned the period following the war will be fully as critical for the United States as is the present time. There will be no quarrel with that forecast by any conversant with history.

Denominating selfishness as the prime cause of situations which produce economic chaos, world conflicts, widespread poverty and distress, Secretary Welles said, "in the economic field especially there is danger that special interests and pressure groups in this country and elsewhere will once again selfishly and blindly seek preferences for themselves and discrimination against others."

It was the class selfishness of capitalists and industrial magnates which helped Hitler to power in Germany.

It was the selfishness of a little group of British and French reactionaries which made possible the betrayal of Czechoslovakia, at Munich.

It was the selfishness of two hundred rich people and self-serving politicians which caused the downfall of France.

Going back, it was the selfishness of a wilful group of political opportunists in the United States senate which doomed Wilson's League of Nations to failure and made futile the victory won by aid of the A. E. F. in the first World War.

It is selfish desire for special privilege, whether political, economic or other, which causes the injustices against which ordinary man rebels, to end which he succumbs to the temptation to believe the efficacy of the panaceas held out by self-seeking demagogues.

There will never be full justice, lasting peace and a decent operation of the brotherhood of man, until selfishness ceases to exist in the hearts of men.

An ancient play asserted that a truly advanced civilization would recognize selfishness as the greatest possible crime and would punish it accordingly.

The world today is going through agonies which should, like the furnace, burn away some of the dross from human character. It is too much to hope that, when the last gun is fired, the last bomb dropped, in this world revolution, nothing but gold shall remain.

But, if the peace to follow only reveals greater unselfishness of man toward man, of group toward group, of class toward class, of nation toward nation, the agony shall not have been all in vain.

It is time, even as the outcome of the conflict is still in doubt, even as we gird ourselves to destroy the epitome of brutal selfishness—Nazism—that we pray selfishness may be smothered when the nations gather again about the peace conference table.

Traffic Utopia

Emmett Elliott, traffic engineer, after a survey of conditions at 40 downtown intersections, declares that what Atlanta must have, if her traffic problems are to be solved and her accident rate reduced, is "co-operation of every driver who gets behind a wheel, the constant vigilance of every enforcement officer."

Exactly. That is what must be had if traffic accidents are to be eliminated and if sorrow and death are to cease constituting the price we pay for modern transportation.

There is but one road to achievement of the conditions set forth by Mr. Elliott. That is the road of education. Constant repetition of the fundamentals of good driving, constant training of traffic officers in the finer points of their jobs, must be undertaken and never relaxed. Patience and never-slacking effort are the only means by which the desired end may be achieved.

And it might be well for all drivers to be told, again and again, that the foundation of all rules for driving, all regulations of traffic, is courtesy, consideration for the other fellow.

When the discourteous driver is barred from the streets, then will come the traffic Utopia for which Mr. Elliott has set out the conditions.

The tax bite begins to take hold. Asked what he would do if he had a million dollars, a victim of a western inquiring reporter only shuddered.

He Serves, Greatly

The truest measure of a man is the degree of service he renders to his age and generation. The greatest men are always the greatest servants to their fellows, the only worthy use of great talents is that use which most benefits the greatest number.

John Alford Stevenson comes to Atlanta today. He is president of one of the great life insurance companies of America, the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia. He was elected to that office a little more than two years ago, on January 11, 1939.

After graduation from Southern Illinois Normal University, Mr. Stevenson began his career as an educator, as a high school principal. At the age of 22 he was superintendent of schools of Olney, Ill. Later he did graduate work at the University of Illinois and he majored at the University of Wisconsin, eventually becoming assistant to the president of Purdue University.

It was still in the role of educator that he joined the staff of a school publishing house in Chicago, where he first came in contact with the art of salesmanship. He progressed to more important posts in the educational field until, in 1919, he was made director of the insurance school at Carnegie Institute of Technology. It was but a natural step from this position into the active insurance profession. He held important executive positions in insurance, until, in 1928, he became manager of the home office agency of his present company. The record he made there is sufficiently attested to by his rise to the presidency of his company little more than a decade later.

There is one, outstanding, significant feature of Mr. Stevenson's career that provides the key to it all. In Who's Who in America is listed the organizations with which he is affiliated, with most of them as director, officer or president. They constitute a list far too long for reproduction here. They cover a range of human betterment activity almost without limit. Each is vivid evidence of the desire of this man to serve his city, his state and his nation.

Such evidence of unselfish effort for the welfare of others is irrefutable proof that this businessman-educator is truly a great man—because he is a great servant to his people.

An Ohio game of pool has run on for 840 days. Thus the lag in our defense production is reduced to figures understood by one and all.

Whose the Fault?

Who, actually, is to blame because a scared youngster, trapped by a law he hates because he fears it, sits and damns the United States with pitiful bravado?

It isn't a pretty thing, this damning of our country, but is it the fault of the boy? Or is it our fault, the fault of the millions of other Americans who have passed him by?

His belligerence is just a shell. He hates and fears the men who represent the law to him, because he doesn't understand, because America never gave him a chance. "Why should I go out and fight for people with good jobs?" Why should he, a man of 26, who is still a boy whom America educated in hobo "jungles" and cared not one jot whether he lived or died? An America which took his mother to an "insane sanitarium" and sent him out on the road.

He has damned the United States—damned each and every one of us. But should we damn him? Or give him the chance he has never had and never would have if it hadn't been for the draft card he tore up because he couldn't understand why he should fight for "people with good jobs" and for a country he has never known.

The law will be pitifully inadequate if it grinds in a machine-like pattern and condemns Coleman William Faircloth to prison or reformatory before he has been given the decent chance he hasn't had. He may be a man without a country, but it is time the country found him and gave him a fighting chance. And shows it is a country worth fighting for.

When better warplanes are built, they are never good enough.

Georgia Editors Say:

BLESSING ON THIS MOVEMENT.
(From the Moultrie Observer.)

Encouraging word comes from Washington that the president has inaugurated a drive against red tape. Even in ordinary times business that has to pass through Washington departments or bureaus moves slowly. Since the war has multiplied the number of departments, directors and sub-directors, it is natural that the machinery for clearing government transactions would become clogged, and delays would be both longer and more numerous. The defense program requires haste. A week's delay in closing a transaction means a week lost in the drive for preparedness. Some changes have been made already that will give more speed, and other changes are in contemplation. It is a big job and it will probably not be completed, but any changes that give more speed will help. Congress, and the senate in particular, might take a hint. A lot of business that should be transacted in a week is taking a month or six weeks. It has often seemed that no one was in a hurry except the nervous fellow on the outside who was unable to do anything about it.

THE WORLD TODAY

By PERTINAX.

OUTBREAKS IN ITALY WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Fascist censorship has become more and more severe in recent weeks and the only reports available on the internal situation in Italy come through diplomatic channels.

But these reports are definite enough to convey a clear picture. The state of affairs in the peninsula is described as "pre-revolutionary." Popular discontent has broken out in Turin, Genoa, and the region between, which includes such industrial cities as Alessandria, Novara and Vercelli. Shops were plundered.

An interesting point about the disorders is that repressive measures were very far from being enforced in the old ruthless manner. Public authority seems to be disintegrating and some nervousness can be detected at the seat of the central government.

REVOLUTION BLOCKED Such is the gist of the information passed abroad. A note of warning must be sounded. No disturbances, however great, could lead to an overthrow of the Fascist structure, since Germany is close at hand and would not put up with any social and political upheaval. They merely point to an extension and all-round strengthening of the Nazi control. So far, it has not gone beyond the stage where key positions in the armed forces and in the administrative services—railways, ports, police, etc.—are being held by German officers and officials. In the future, to cope with the impatience of the masses, something more open and direct than a semiclandestine supervision may become necessary. The fast decaying power of the government must, sooner or later, be bolstered up from the outside. Italy, theoretically a victorious nation, bids fair to gradually sink into a regime not much different from the Vichy pattern.

As in France, there is a far cry from widespread discontent to organized opposition. Centers of unrest can easily be perceived, for instance in the universities, and it is remarkable that thousands and thousands of young men have not hitherto been called for active service in the army. But nothing like a common program, generally accepted leaders or connecting links is in view. A German commissariat is continuously on the move picking up men for compulsory work on the other side of the Alps for what is, indeed, forced labor. In the same way as the French, the Italian people can perhaps intimidate its own rulers, afraid as they are of what would follow a German defeat. But, against Hitler's might, the people feel helpless.

WISHFUL THINKING It has been said that the Duke of Aosta and the generals of the army were ready to come forward at the first opportunity and take the helm. This is another case of wishful thinking. To start with, the Duke, and before him, his father and mother, proved towers of strength to Mussolini in the early days of his dictatorship and they never changed. The responsibility of the entire royal family is too deeply involved in the Fascist undertaking for any one of them to ever take the lead once the great experiment has broken down. The military chiefs are not the men to forget that the independence of the country is still to be redeemed or to minimize the size of this task.

The mission entrusted to Myron Taylor sheds full light on the attitude of the great moral power to which Italians naturally turn in a critical emergency, the Holy See. Pope Pius XII was never asked to declare publicly that the war fought by Great Britain, with the support of the United States, was a just one. He was asked, however, to approve the "eight points" drafted by President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, and, moreover, on the spiritual plane exclusively, to denounce the doctrine of the church against all the ideas and methods of the Nazi revolution.

POPE WOULDN'T SPEAK Although the Pope probably was in general agreement with the "eight points," all the signs are that His Holiness did not regard it as possible to voice his approval publicly. He was surprised over the fact that in May, 1940, at the time Belgium was invaded, the French government tried to obtain a pronouncement of that kind from the Holy See. The efforts of the French ambassador resulted only in a letter of commiseration to King Leopold, drafted in perfunctory style.

Pius XII is known to have shared in all the feelings of his predecessor, but he is not cast in the same mold. He is more over, the Pope could hardly afford to pass judgment upon Nazism and, at the same time, seem to ignore that other form of totalitarian government called Communism. Pius XI was careful to keep an even balance. Yet to denounce Communism would be to incur some risk of impairing the British-Russian alliance.

In addition, it must not be forgotten that in the Lateran treaty a clause was inserted limiting the activities of the Vatican in international affairs of a political nature. The Holy See does not place upon this clause the same wide construction that Mussolini does, but, nevertheless, the Vatican avoids making it the reason for a conflict.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Wreckers And Progress.

Across the street from my office window a wrecking crew has been busy for a week or more tearing down an old brick building. I have observed their careful progress, step by step. How the old bricks are dislodged, one by one, and wheelbarrows away to be dumped. How the roofing and the wood flooring are removed, plank by plank. They are already down to the ceiling of the ground floor and, I suppose, in a few more days it will all be gone.

Someday a modern edifice will arise on the same site. And the old, red-brick building which has been so familiar, will be forgotten. Yet, it is safe to assert, when that old building was new, it was the pride of its constructor, its owner. It was probably the object of laudatory paragraphs in the newspaper of that day and it was undoubtedly acclaimed as a visible sign of Atlanta's progress.

Which reflections form a sort of text for this morning's column.

The Old Must Go.

I suppose it has always been true in every realm of man's interest that, before the newer and the better things of life can be established, the old and repudiated structures must be removed. And that each new thing, idea or belief, advanced and perfect for its time, ultimately becomes outmoded, discredited and bedraggled.

That might be called the evolution of progress.

In every phase of human life the same rule holds true.

In the social order, in economics, in government, in moralities, in religion. Nothing created by the hand or mind of man can be everlasting. By the very fact it is of human origin it is, like man, but transitory and impermanent.

Do you realize the classics of literature? You will find them in, if you do, thoughts expressed which are today unacceptable because of the advance in man's thinking and man's knowledge. Yet, at the time they were written these same thoughts undoubtedly were accepted as eternal truths.

When, in ancient civilizations, the rule was made that only captives of war should be slaves, that was accepted as a tremendous moral advance.

But what would you think, today, to find the problem of slavery revert to the status when prisoners of war toiled, in chains, in the galleys?

Once upon a time the utmost in humanity imaginable was patronizing charity extended by the lord of the manor to the serfs, bound to work upon his lands until they died.

Once upon a time government was merciful when it refrained from casual slaughter of its people.

The amphitheater of Rome fell to ruins and the Cathedral of St. Peter arose.

We Are Not Perfect.

We in America, are apt to consider that in many ways we have outlined the perfect way of government and of life. Not that we have made those ways work perfectly. We have merely set up the goal.

Yet it is not possible that the democracy and the freedoms of which we are so proud may someday have to be torn down to make way for better things? Of course, we can't imagine better things than a perfectly working democracy today. But that is not to say better things won't come, in some distant age.

Don't think, for one moment, that I am hinting any of these modern ideas of a totalitarian state are better. They are a retrogression, a reversion to barbarism. Democracy, even at its worst, is better than any of them.

But there might be a form of society yet undreamed of that will be closer to Utopia than democracy can ever be. We would be presumptuous to claim that democracy is the form of social order that exists in Paradise. For how can we know?

Even in religion, fashions of thought change, the new and the better is erected upon sites of the spirit where older and outworn forms have been torn down.

There are eternal facts in the Christian religion. But man's interpretation of those truths changes, and grows better, as man himself improves.

The narrow dogmas of Calvinism, of John Knox, would shock the most fundamental of religiousists of today. The truths proclaimed weekly from our pulpits, now, no one would have dared proclaim a century ago, save a man who was branded atheist and unbeliever.

The moral rules and regulations for which the Roundheads of Britain fought and died, for which the Puritans tortured and burned, not so long ago, are utterly abandoned today.

Yet the world could not progress without having known and accepted and defended many of the things we have now abandoned. The things we progress by as right and true today, but which may well have to be abandoned and wrecked, someday, to make way for newer and truer things to come.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.
From the news columns of Tuesday, October 10, 1916:

"Special trains from as far west as Kansas City are scheduled to leave today for Atlanta, bringing great herds of thoroughbred cattle and hogs for the Southeastern Fair."

And Fifty Years Ago.
From the news columns of Saturday, October 10, 1891:

"Atlanta will have a fire department headquarters, located on Alabama street, between Forsyth and Thompson streets."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The opinions expressed by Mr. Pegler in this column are his own and do not necessarily represent the opinion of The Atlanta Constitution.

What Is True Story?

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—No man can know less than I about life in Russia, both before and since the revolution, but there are millions of other Americans who know as little and therefore I suggest that we, who are prattling so much about religious freedom there, should be told what really were the causes of the long blackout.

The Russian, we are told, are deeply religious as a people but we were told also that under the Czar they were ignorant, loutish and docile victims of exploitation and superstitions. Their clergy, by all accounts that came to us in those days, were not faithful to their sacred responsibilities and, if this version be true, were largely responsible for the decline of religious practice, although, apparently, not the obliteration of religious faith. I wish some of those authorities who have been taking part in the recent discussion would frankly go into that phase of the question because, if the restoration of religious freedom means only the revival of such a system, that obviously is a project in which Americans will not want to involve themselves.

Monopoly Not Freedom

Moreover, religious monopoly is not religious freedom, although freedom is commonly said to exist in countries which protect and subsidize one official or favored religion or sect to the exclusion of others. Religion apparently is thoroughly at home under the dictatorial form of government, provided that the dictator tolerates one or more religions, and we of the United States have no mission to assist in the restoration of religious freedom or monopoly under any dictator.

That religion will outlast Hitler and Stalin and will revive in Germany and Russia after these little men have vanished, no mind can doubt. But there is a distinction between religious faiths and the properties and personnel of a church, as a well-known Catholic priest reminded me some time ago in urging that men should not permit the failures and misdeeds of erring clergymen to drive them to apostasy.

Yet clergymen have a terrible responsibility and are guilty of a terrible wrong when they undermine the confidence of people in their government by giving out and connot to dishonest public officers. We have areas in the United States in which men of the church have openly sided with corruptors or with the rich and powerful, and it is a fact, which would be laughable if it were not so solemn that any man who attempted to preach and practice Christianity would be scorned in any Christian American neighborhood. There is neither black belt nor ghetto in heaven but the Christian American can't bring himself to practice the brotherhood of man on earth.

Cited Georgia

In Georgia, under the present state administration, Jesus Christ, Him self, doubtless would be lynched for stirring up the Negroes with false notions of equality and the same Georgia Governor who lately availed the calamity of equal learning for white and black would not be happy sitting on a cloud beside a Negro field hand. The church-going suburban snobs who so proudly exclude Hebrews from the boardroom of their locker-room smut-sessions after golf will be physically ill when they find the Cohens right next door to yonder but they will be no more at ease in hell where the zoning ordinance again is set at naught. Yet, all or, themselves to be Christians and believe that they would be laughing if it were not so solemn that any man who attempted to preach and practice Christianity would be scorned in any Christian American neighborhood. There is neither black belt nor ghetto in heaven but the Christian American can't bring himself to practice the brotherhood of man on earth.

We know why religion fell in Spain because it has been admitted that the people were oppressed and exploited under the eyes of churchmen who failed in their solemn responsibility to correct these wrongs. Yet, when Franco won and his massacres were going, religion was restored by force without a note of regret or apology by those whose negligence had caused the disaster. If religion fell for the same reason in Russia certainly there should be some open admission on the fault and some attempt to assure the world that the clergy will now serve the people, not the masters, in the name of Christ.

But meanwhile, in this country before we undertake to enter the export trade, it would be well to examine our own understanding and practice of Christianity which has nothing to do with the shape of one's nose, the size of one's feet or the color of one's pelt.

Word Stories

By W. Worthington Wells

Grantland Rice, who is frequently referred to as the Dean of American Sports Writers, described a rookie shortstop as "A UBIQUITOUS infielder."

UBIQUITOUS. An adjective pronounced u-BIG-uh-tious, with the accent on the second syllable like (bik). The third syllable (ui) is pronounced like (wi) with a short (i). It is not a difficult word to pronounce.

Ubiquitous is most frequently used when referring to those friends or acquaintances who seem to be everywhere at the same time, often with humorous exaggeration. The humorous application of ubiquitous seems to be the preferred usage.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

NIGHT PLANE FLIGHT NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 9.—Man, I remember back a dozen years ago when flying to New York was something. One left Atlanta fairly early in the evening and saw the dawn's early light come burning over the eastern rim of the world along about Baltimore. We flew the big old Condors then and they just seemed to float along. They were biplanes, and I still think they were swell. They could land in the dinky little fields they had then and take off from them. You couldn't begin to get one of the present-day transport planes into those old fields.

Now and then the old Condors, when going in, would be caught by a gust of wind. They floated like kites. That would send them floating upward. The pilot patiently would gun her up, go around and come in again. They were slow but sure. I always will have a fond feeling for the Condor.

Flying at night then there were just a few lights to guide one. The fields were small and badly lighted. The Condor was the only plane that could have done the job in those days.

They stopped everywhere. There were the dinky little fields with the small wooden shacks on them. The curious crowds came out as they still do. The stops were about 10 to 20 minutes. There wasn't much to the fields. They were just fields. A few had cinder runways and they were, we thought, swell.

Radio was new. I was acquainted with most of the pilots. I remember one night I was the only passenger and I was allowed to talk to the pilot of another plane we were passing and tell him about the flight I'd seen that night. It was not so scientific in those days.

I remember another time, going up, I was the only passenger past Richmond and I borrowed a razor from the pilot's kit, to keep from opening mine, and shaved in the back of the plane, talking with the co-pilot. It was a good service. There weren't many people flying, although now and then the planes would be packed. The small planes went every other day. It was a lot of fun.

AFTER A DOZEN YEARS Time really does get along but nowhere has it got up and gone as in the plane business.

A night flight now requires not more than five hours and a few minutes and includes three stops.

There is no more of this stopping at small wooden shacks for a meal. The airports have grown. They all have runways and most of them are concrete or of some sort of pavement. I never get over the surprise, no matter how often I see them, of looking out at the new airports and remembering what they were a decade ago.

The airports have fine administration buildings. They do business. The old shacks and cow pastures are gone. The planes serve hot meals and good ones. The hostess and the steward have been added. Today, one gets a reservation well in advance and the whole thing is as well planned and as flawless as man can make it. The airlines sold travel by service. They didn't have any great service to offer. They just passed out chewing gum, offered hot coffee or hot chocolate, and between hours in night travel have hot soup and sandwiches. All this and the meals are served without charge and even if figured in the rates, as they must be, they still come as a service. The courtesy and the always present personal service in every branch of the airlines, from getting tickets and reservations to the actual travel, sold the airlines.

They will begin to lose favor when they become so busy they forget to have the icy water handy, the soup hot, the hot chocolate ready on demand. And when their ticket office becomes casual and disinterested and their operators barely courteous as some of the railroads did.

The planes today fly to New York in time which gets by fast. It begins to slow up on their non-stop flights. One of these days there will be individual radio service for each chair and perhaps a movie in the front of the ship.

TODAY'S PLANES The Douglas that all the airlines use in their ordinary flights today is regarded as the finest passenger plane ever made. The stratoliners and the clippers are for greater passenger hauls and are, in their field, as good as the Douglas. It is a magnificent plane.

Yet, the airline operators, and the Douglas people themselves, say that only the war need has kept them from having a much better one in the air. The plane of today is as obsolete as my old Condor, yet they have to keep them.

Aviation is advancing faster than any other field of development unless it be the various developments in new fields of radio. When the war is done we will see new lines develop to take in the small towns, flying morning and afternoon planes just as the old "accommodation" trains used to send morning and afternoon trains.

Already the local planes are being criticized because they stop so much. I was coming out of Washington not many weeks ago and two travelers were complaining:

"This is nothing but a milk train, stops at every crossroad," complained one. (He was flying from New York to Atlanta in six hours.)

The sleeper planes, where one calmly goes to bed in an upper or lower berth, is another development that we didn't think about a dozen years ago.

Well, I just got to thinking about all this, flying to New York. It seemed to be what I wanted to write about.

Every Accused Person Seems Guilty to Those Who Are Looking for Evil

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

In A. J. Cronin's latest masterpiece there is an incident that should trouble the conscience of every adult who has power to judge and punish.

The hero of the story, while attending a Catholic seminary, walks away without permission and is gone four days. Upon his return he is called before his superiors for examination. His offense is serious, yet he will give no explanation.

One of his judges suspects the worst, and says as much. He even calls the young man a liar. And in his heart he longs for the old instruments of torture with which to force a confession.

But later, when he comes upon a secret diary, which not only establishes the youth's innocence, but gives proof of his blameless and almost divine purity, he beats his breast in shame and contrition. His fault was that he judged another by his own capacity for evil—or his own incapacity for goodness.

It is typical of all self-righteous fathers—and all self-righteous men who have authority to judge the conduct of boys. Made cynical by their own past sins and their adult knowledge of human depravity, they take it for granted that every boy is guilty of the charge against him.

They place the worst possible construction on everything they do not understand, and attribute to the boy a knowledge and capacity for evil that only years of adult experience could develop. A bashful and decent kid does many innocent things that he would not confess to adults lest they think him silly. In his innocence he does some things that would seem evil to any adult who is seared and soured by hard experience and incapable of believing anybody innocent.

Misjudged by such a person, any proud and sensitive boy, bitterly aware of his helplessness, will take refuge in a shell of silence and grimly endure unjust punishment.

But there is no better way to turn a decent kid into a criminal and a rebel against all authority. The mischief is done when he can justly say: "Aw, what's the use?"

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

I want to go back to the small town, the sort of a town you were raised in, away from the rush to the peaceful hush of the kind of a town you are praised in, I want to go back to a little place where the shadows are long and creepy, away from the din and the city's sin, to a town that is slow and sleepy.

I want to go back where men are men and women still act like women—and among the joys of the local boys is a creek they can go in swimming—where the little stream in the sunshine gleams around the bend is sweeping and the moon's shade spreads in the glade where the willow trees are weeping.

I want to go back where the trains come in and people go down to meet them; though you travel the earth from the day of birth you will find no folks to beat them; they're the simple folks, they're the friendly folks who always are kind to neighbors, who will understand and with helping hand give ease to the hardest labors.

You may sing the praise of the city's ways—the cities with lights and glamour where the buildings rise in the towering skies and the sound of the saw and hammer and the driven nail tell the endless tale of progress that's undiminished—but I want to go to a town that's slow and live till my time is finished. Where the grass is sweet beneath the feet—away from the city's dizziness—in the sweet, pure air where everyone there knows every one else's business!

Most of our men readers have read—or are reading—this paper at breakfast, though your wives have been struggling to tell you about what Mary Ellen told her last night over the phone.

So I'd like to remind you that this is "Forget-Me-Not Day." You'll be reminded of it when you get off your trolley or emerge from your parking lot. So you might as well get fixed with a quarter. Or more. Or less. Let your heart be your guide.

Your contributions go to the Disabled American Veterans and their families. To supplement government pensions.

"Oh, the devil," you say. "The government is taking care of all those heroes. Why call on me?"

Yes, the government is taking care. Average pension for the disabled is $40 a month. How'd you like to live on $40 a month?

Mrs. Henry M. Nicholas has been chairman of this annual "drive" ever since it started. What does she get out of it? Nothing, except a lot of hard work.

Athens Banner-Herald editor has inspected a rattlesnake—dead—which he reports is as big around as a man's arm. What man? Arms come in assorted sizes, like collars. Fellow I know down in the composing room has arms which would split my pajama sleeves, which are so loose on me I get lost in them. On the other hand—or arm—I have acquaintances with arms admirably suited to reaching down a lavatory drain pipe and retrieving lost articles.

Airplane engines are measured down to a ten-thousandth of an inch. If I am expected to complete my volume on Georgia rattlesnakes I insist on definite measurements.

There's a most readable book called "The Ugly Dachshund" which tells of a pup raised in a family who loved dachshunds. They got in everybody's laps and were welcome, but as this pup grew up everybody threw him out the back door. At last he discovered he wasn't a dachshund, but a Great Dane, weighing about 150 pounds. It was quite a shock to him.

Beth Williams has in her column in the Quiltman Free Press a story somewhat similar. It appears that Mrs. E. R. McRae, of that city, raised a set of fox terrier pups along with a tiny pig.

They all ate together and slept together and were household pets. Now the pig has grown to weigh around a hundred pounds and can't understand why he isn't as welcome on a living room couch as the fox terriers are. If he keeps on brooding over it he won't be worth butchering come hog-killin' time.

Cut Speed to 45, Save Gas. Drivers Are Urged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A government official declared today that American motorists could save 185,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year and conserve important quantities of oil and tires by holding their top speed to 45 miles per hour.

John Carmody, Federal Works Administrator, said also that such a program of moderation would prevent "wastage of human material resources of the nation through accidents."

Carmody said studies of the public roads administration, a unit of the FWA, showed that traffic on state highways was running 17 per cent heavier than last year and that traffic deaths were up in about the same proportion.

Camp Fire Girls Give Birthday Party at the Old Ladies' Home

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

A birthday cake ablaze with candles softens the shadows in the room and a dozen or so feminine voices—half of them young and strong, half of them wavering and maybe a little cracked—join in the chorus:

"Happy birthday to you—happy birthday to you!"

The singers are residents of the Old Ladies' Home and their young friends, the Camp Fire Girls.

It's hard to tell whether the old women or the young women were the hostesses. The young ones brought the cake and as many gay songs and amusing stunts as they could to entertain their old friends. But in a moment the old ones will be inspired by all the giddy foolishness and will be getting up to sing and play and recite pieces for the young ones.

"Birthday Girls' Party." That happens once a month out at the Old Ladies' Home. It's a Camp Fire Girl innovation and every month one of Fulton and DeKalb counties' 65 groups takes a turn at staging a party for all the month's "birthday girls" at the home.

The event is a party for both the young and the old girls and it is typical of the Camp Fire Girls' attitude toward community service.

Ald Salvation Army. They dress dolls for the Salvation Army Toy shop, and because of their interest in conservation of natural resources they are enthusiastic sponsors of the "Light-the-Living-Christmas Tree" program staged annually in Atlanta.

Sprightly little favors that find their way to the breakfast trays of sick and lonely men in the Forty-Eight hospital on holidays were made by the Camp Fire Girls. The girls join in the collection of aluminum for defense campaigns.

"But that's enough about our service program," Mrs. Virginia W. Beals, executive secretary of the Camp Fire Girls, says firmly. "Ours is primarily an organization for fun."

By fun, Mrs. Beals means the kind of fun that will keep alive the Camp Fire Girls' tradition for playing and learning and serving with whole-hearted enthusiasm. The girls spend a few weeks each summer at Camp Toccoa, learning wood lore and handicraft, cooking and living in the open. Contrary to the popular belief that their activity centers around a camp fire, "Fire" in the name of the organization symbolizes the home hearthside. Much of their program prepares them for becoming competent homemakers.

For their individual projects the Camp Fire Girls devise their own means of raising funds but the cost of administering the organization of the 65 local groups is paid by the Community Fund. The need for character-building agencies is an ever-present one but in time of national stress it seems more important than ever to prepare the next generation for shouldering the task of bringing order out of a chaotic world.

Camp Fire Girls are being equipped for their part in the job. And the Community Fund is making it possible. You can help with a generous gift to the Community Fund.

ABOUT RALEIGH.

Impressions gained in Raleigh this week which I shall cherish through all the days.

The cordial welcome of the pastor and people of the First Baptist church—the atmosphere of reverence on the part of the worshippers; the stately old meeting house, erected in 1859, the exquisitely beautiful window in the front of the building; the loyalty of the people to the present pastor and their love of the ministry of those who have gone before; the blessed benediction which lingers in their hearts of the life and work of the late Dr. Thomas W. O'Kelley, a Georgian who labored so nobly in Raleigh.

The fellowship with other cherished friends through my brief stay in Raleigh—Ambassador Josephus Daniels, Editor Jonathan Daniels, Editor John Park, Governor J. M. Broughton, President Carlyle Campbell, pastors of the other churches of Raleigh.

Visits to Meredith College, Duke University, the University of North Carolina, Wake Forest College—four truly great institutions of learning. Never shall I forget the thousands of young men and women I saw on those campuses. They offer bright promise for the long tomorrows.

The boys and girls of Raleigh—high school boys and girls, younger boys and girls, tiny tots in their mothers' arms. Raleigh puts worthy appraisal upon the child within the midst. Its streets are made safe for their lives. Its parks are made beautiful for their sakes. Its homes are the citadels for their inspiration.

The trees. Nowhere have I seen more trees, nor more beautiful trees. And the flowers in the private yards and in the parks. Raleigh has a mind for the beautiful.

The public buildings. They are outstanding, the state capitol leads the list. And the monuments. One could never forget the Confederate monument on the capitol square, with its inscription: "First at Bethel, Last at Appomattox." And the monument to Henry Lawson Wyatt, first Confederate soldier killed in action, June 10, 1861.

The stores. Distinctive window displays that fairly beckon you inside. Strolling about the downtown section late at night, one gains the impression that the merchants of Raleigh know their business—that they have been here a long time, and expect to stay in business.

The courtesy of the taxi drivers, hotel waitresses, police, newsboys. How far these people go in forming one's impression of a city.

I have thoroughly enjoyed my little visit to Raleigh. I shall treasure up in my heart through all the days to come these pleasant impressions.

OPPOSES HARVARD IDEA FOR DENTAL TRAINING

Editor, Constitution: Your editorial in the October 6 issue of The Atlanta Constitution brings up the old problem of "Dentistry and Medicine." It is old because the status of the two professions was determined a little more than a hundred years ago when the medical men interested in teaching medicine in Baltimore, Md., refused to carry on a dental department headed by Chapin A. Harris and Horace H. Hayden and their associates. As a result of this action, the first dental college was established in 1840.

The progress made in dentistry since then is now history and American dentistry is recognized as leading throughout the entire world.

Your editorial refers specifically to the "Harvard Experiment" where nine students entered as freshmen are taking medicine for three and a half years and dentistry added for one and a half years, upon the completion of which they will receive both the M. D. and the D. M. D. degrees.

Under the present accepted plan it requires two years of accredited college work and four years in a regular dental college to complete the course of study leading to the D. D. S. degree.

It does not take much thought to decide which course will turn out the best dentist. In the present set up, physicians and surgeons teach in the dental schools the subjects which deal with medical problems and which are deemed necessary for the dental students. This is done in every dental school in the country.

The need today is for more dentists. We are losing about 2,000 yearly by death and retirement and the colleges graduated less than 1,600 this year.

In the September 29 issue of Time appeared a short reference to the "Harvard Dentists." It closed by quoting the editor of the Texas Dental Journal when he said, "This plan will not produce M. D.'s nor D. M. D.'s, but B. B.'s (bewildered bastards), illegitimate offsprings not acceptable to either dentistry or medicine." I quote without comment. It might be noted, however, that there are only nine men taking this course out of some 1,600 regular freshmen in the United States and Canada and of that total number there are over 100 here in our own city.

The accusation that dentists are too busy to do research is unfounded. The writer was asked by the Research Commission of the American Dental Association to find out how much research is being carried on by the 39 colleges in the United States and Canada and the result of that investigation is that approximately $148,000 are allocated to dental research yearly.

In addition to that, the Research Commission has been spending from $15,000 to $23,000 annually on physical and biological research in the dental field—a total of more than $400,000 since 1912.

Only this year, this same commission established a fellowship in dental diseases, caries, and pyorrhea, at the National Institute of Health at Washington, D. C., spending $5,000 annually. There, too, the government is already spending $35,000 to $40,000 yearly on dental diseases.

Under the auspices of the Research Commission, the second edition of "Dental Caries" is being distributed to the interested. This book sets forth the summaries of the work of 237 outstanding research men from all parts of the world, most of these seeking the cause and cure of dental decay.

In justice to the dental profession and its accomplishments, your readers should have these facts and figures.

ASSERTS RUSSIANS NEED NO ASSISTANCE

Editor, Constitution: A problem in simple arithmetic. The highest estimate of German strength is 6,000,000 men. Of these a million, at least, are stationed in occupied territory. That leaves 5,000,000 men who started fighting against Russia over three months ago. Of these, and we have the unimpeachable authority of the Russians themselves, the Germans have lost 3,000,000 men, with tremendous amounts of material.

That leaves just 2,000,000. The Russians themselves had at the very least, 9,000,000 men to start with and have lost 1,128,000. That leaves them with 7,872,000 men. No wonder the Russians consider themselves in "stronger positions" than at any time since the beginning of the invasion. Nearly 8,000,000 against 2,000,000 ought to be enough to make them so.

The question arises, why is it so urgent to send them help when our own army is entirely without adequate material? Why should anybody, which includes England, send help to people who are better off than anybody else?

FACTS CONTRADICT GOVERNOR ON MILK

Editor, Constitution: A letter from Governor Talmadge appeared in your columns under date of October 7 in which the Governor questioned your editorial on a basis of statement of fact. In the Governor's letter he made many generalizations but offered no facts. We wish to submit the following:

From the State Department of Agriculture we learn that only some of the counties in Georgia are Bang free. Fulton and DeKalb are not listed as those having no Bangs diseased cattle.

The United States Department of Public Health has set up a model ordinance which cities may adopt voluntarily. Ratings are made on the enforcement of the ordinance and only those cities with scores of 90 per cent or more, are listed by the public health service. Only one city in this state made that grade of 90 per cent—Waycross, Ga. Atlanta has been slow in enforcing the ordinance which means that our rating is not what it should be.

Atlanta is the only city of its size today which doesn't require pasteurization or certification of its milk supply.

We would like to feel with the Governor that Georgia's milk supply is one of the best in the country but the facts do not point to this. Much progress has been made in recent years but we have a good way to go before we can boast.

Z. S. FLEISHER,
Secretary Atlanta Emergency Consumers Committee, Atlanta.

WANTS LEASE-LEASE AID FOR GEORGIA

Editor, Constitution: There will soon be before congress for action the new lease-lease bill for nearly six thousand million dollars for Joseph Stalin and other Europeans and Asiatics. This will be, of course, in addition to seven thousand million dollars of American tax money already appropriated to foreigners.

But would it not be wise to offer an amendment to the bill, to provide that aid voted under the measure shall go not to European warmakers, but to homemakers right here in America in their ceaseless war against underprivileged living conditions?

Such a war will eventually have to be won "over here," and lease-lease aid to the American state of Georgia, for instance, might be more appropriate than aid to the atheistic and bloody regime of Josef Stalin and other European and Asiatic powers.

It would be a matter of simple justice to Americans, who are even now striving to meet rising costs in the face of a tremendous tax bill for nations across the sea: seven billion dollars plus the six billion dollars yet to be donated by a generous congress to foreign governments.

Government handouts are not desirable, as a rule, but surely if they must be given it would be better to employ them to save the health and homes of honest Georgia farmers and workers than to save the thrones of European princelings.

Episcopal Auxiliary Meets at Cedartown

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. CEDARTOWN, Ga., Oct. 9.—The semi-annual session of the Atlanta district, Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church, was held here with members of St. James church acting as hosts.

A number of prominent state officers were present, including the Rev. S. C. W. Flemming, rector of the Church of Our Savior, of Atlanta, who made the afternoon address.

Representatives from churches in Atlanta, Carrollton and Rome and other cities of the diocese were here. Lunch for the visitors was served at the First Methodist church Sunday school building.

Two steps to amazing new pep and vitality—look years younger!

A marvelous change can be brought about by overcoming miserable digestive complaints, underweight, sluggishness and loss of appetite—all by two important steps—

Restore vital digestive juices in the stomach... energize your body with rich, red blood. Here's how!

If you are one of those unfortunates who have been ill, or have suffered with colds, the flu, worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, or have been vexed by overtaxing worries... yet have no organic trouble or focal infection... and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number... if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is good news for you!

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build back deficient blood strength... to revive and stimulate those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat... to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Build sturdy health

Yes, when you tone up the stomach and get its digestive juices flowing freely, you should enjoy again that old-time zest for food... stomach digestive juices should vanish. S.S.S. Tonic also gives you the mineral matter in soluble and digestive form to restore your blood to its rich, red color... this makes for greater strength... color in your cheeks... resistance against disease attacks.

Because S.S.S. is in liquid form it begins its work as soon as you take it. Make the S.S.S. treatment a part of your daily diet. You will be delighted with results. Scientific research shows that S.S.S. Tonic usually gets results. Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits it has brought to them—that's why so many say "S.S.S. Tonic builds sturdy health and makes you feel like yourself again." © S.S.S. Co.

HOSE SWALLOW BULLETS
Airplane fuel hose that will swallow bullets one-half inch in diameter has been developed by the United States Rubber Company and is in mass production in Passaic, N. J.

Already a half-million feet of the self-sealing material has been delivered for use by the Army and Navy. W. H. Cobb, general manager of the mechanical goods division of the company, says:

The unusual capacity of the new defense product to absorb sustained punishment has been illustrated in severe tests, he said. In one case a piece of one-inch hose only three feet in length was pierced by 13 .50-caliber machine gun bullets with the loss of only a slight amount of the 100-octane aviation gasoline.

SMALL BUSINESS AID
Added protection for small business in the national defense program is forecast as the result of the creation of a special small business section in the antitrust division of the Department of Justice announced recently.

Appointed to head the section was Guy Holcomb of Atlanta, organizer of a chain of small gasoline service stations in Atlanta and a vice president of the National Association of Petroleum Retailers. He was a representative of the retail gasoline industry before the National Defense Advisory Commission.

In explaining for retailers the role that the new section will play in national defense, Mr. Holcomb commented that the defense work of the retailer is indirect, but that upon freer competition, unsubsidized, and uncontrolled business economy depends. Among the unfair practices the new section will investigate are: Undercover discounts, secret rebates and subsidies given one type of retailer over another.

THIRD-QUARTER PROFIT

Quill Club Plans Party Sunday For Dr. Anderson M. Scruggs

By SALLY FORTH.

• • • WHEN THE QUILL CLUB decided to entertain for one of its most distinguished members, Dr. Anderson Scruggs, the ban on its publicity was lifted. And, taking advantage of her opportunity, Sally FORTH gives you the "low-down" on this cultural and energetic organization.

The publication of "Ritual for Myself," Dr. Scruggs' latest book of poems, provided the inspiration for the club's cocktail party to be held Sunday from 5 to 6 o'clock at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Greene on Peachtree. This affair will be one of a number of festivities given in compliment to the gifted author.

The Quill Club, now headed by attractive and vivacious Marguerite Steedman, was organized 18 years ago at the home of Mrs. Ward Wight. It boasts of five charter members, including Mrs. Wight, Mrs. Spencer Morrow, Mrs. A. A. Greene, Daniel Whitehead Hicky, and Agnes Gray Harrison, now of Daytona Beach, Fla.

The group meets once a month, and its most unusual feature is its lack of dues and assessments. Members' literary efforts are read aloud at meetings in order that constructive criticism can be offered by fellow members. Thus the organization fosters real encouragement to embryo authors.

Seven or eight novels written by Quill Club members have been published to date, and any number of exclusive magazines have enlivened their pages with stories and articles by members of this talented group.

There are 12 active members, including the above, and James Warren Sr., Wilbur Kurtz, Dr. Scruggs, Parker Hord, Frank Rowsey, Sammie Tucker, Mrs. Sam Evans Jr. and Marguerite Steedman.

It is interesting to note that Daniel Whitehead Hicky, known as "Jack" to his many friends, was the first member of the organization to break into print, his poem, "Requiem for Lost Aviators," having appeared in Literary Digest magazine some years ago.

Among other parties to honor Dr. Scruggs will be the reception at which the Macmillan Company will entertain Monday evening at the Athletic Club from 8 to 10 o'clock.

Receiving with Dr. Scruggs and his wife will be their daughter, Jean Scruggs, who arrives Saturday from Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla., and Lucien Harris Jr., southeastern manager of the Macmillan Company, and Mrs. Harris; Norman Berg, manager of the trade department of the Macmillan Company, and Mrs. Berg. Members of the city's literary and newspaper circles have been invited.

Earlier Monday Miss Helen Parker will entertain at a luncheon at Rich's tearoom, and in the afternoon Jean Scruggs will be seated beside her father at the autograph tea to be held in his honor at Rich's.

• • • WHEN Mary Elizabeth (Mrs. Ralph) McGill, as chairman, was making arrangements for the first A. W. V. S. luncheon held last Tuesday at the Georgian Terrace, Graham Jackson, who always stands ready to lend a helping hand, generously offered to play during luncheon. But when Tuesday came, Graham did not show up. Nor was there any word from him.

Later in the afternoon, however, the doorbell rang at the McGill residence on Myrtle street, and a large florist's box was delivered for Mary Elizabeth. It was filled with beautiful asters, chrysanthemums, and gladioli. And there was a polite note from Graham.

"I would not have disappointed you for anything," he wrote. "I was in a 11:15 meeting and circumstances made it impossible for me to leave until after 1 p. m. Please accept my sincere regrets for this gross mishap."

Of course his absence was as deeply regretted by the A. W. V. S. workers as by the pianist himself, for his music can always be counted on to make a success of any occasion.

• • • MARY HEROD, who becomes Mrs. Robert Bradford Newman on October 18, is the great-great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bryant Oliver, who came from Virginia and were founders of Troup county, Georgia. Her great-grandfather went to Texas soon after its annexation to the United States in 1846, and became an early educator in the eastern part of the state. Her grandfather journeyed to west Texas and became a pioneer ranch owner.

Mary's paternal grandparents went from Tennessee to east Texas, where they were influential in educational and religious circles. Her grandfather is the late Rev. Newton Herod, of Grapeland, Texas, and her father, Dr. Newton S. Herod, is professor of physics at Georgia School of Technology.

The October bride-elect graduated from the University of Texas with Phi Beta Kappa in 1940. During her senior year she was president of Littlefield Dormitory Council and was selected one of ten outstanding women students. Mary also held membership in Alpha Lambda Delta, Orange Jackets and the Mortar Board.

Robert is the grandson of the late Dr. A. H. Newman, who was professor of church history at Mercer University, from which he graduated in 1870. His father, Dr. H. W. Newman, is an outstanding pediatrician in Austin, Texas.

He graduated from the University of Texas in 1938 with Phi Beta Kappa and took his master's degree in physics in Miss Jeannette Davis, whose engagement to Elmer Richard Marcus is announced today, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davis. The groom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Marcus, of Chicago, Ill., and Atlanta. The date for the couple's marriage will be announced later.

1939. He tutored in physics, and worked under a research fellowship in the same department. At present he is a member of the Cruft research laboratory at Harvard, working under the National Defense Research Council.

• • • JOHN WINN, who was married last Saturday in Florida to Alidene Bruner, enjoys very much the affection of his niece and nephews, Patsy Joe and John Hurst. To them he is not only their favorite uncle; he is their only uncle, and the children rate tops with John.

In announcing his marriage to Miss Bruner by telegram to the members of his family, John did not overlook the children. Requiring only five words, instead of the usual ten, John was brief almost to the point of being laconic. What he said was: "You have a new aunt."

• • • ALICE FRANCES is the name Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Barnes have given their daughter born October 3 at Emory University hospital. The baby timed her arrival so that she and her maternal grandfather, Perry M. Smoak, might celebrate their birthdays on the same day, for October 3 is also Mr. Smoak's birthday.

The baby's paternal grandparents are Mrs. D. F. Barnes, of Wilmington, N. C., and the late Mr. Barnes. Alice Frances is the great-granddaughter of those late beloved pioneer Atlantans, Professor and Mrs. T. A. E. Means. Professor Means, you remember, conducted the Means High school on Carnegie way in years gone by. Later he was the second principal of Lee Street school in West End and then principal of Walker Street school.

Alice Frances has the distinction of being the third generation in her family to be born in Atlanta, for her mother, Frances Smoak Barnes, and her maternal grandmother, Alene Means Smoak, were both born here.

Tuck-Krieger.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tuck announce the marriage of their daughter, Freda, to Maurice Krieger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Krieger, of this city. The marriage took place Sunday, October 5. Only the immediate family attended.

Miss Bruner and Mr. Winn Marry at Florida Ceremony

ORLANDO, Fla., Oct. 10.—Announcement is made in Atlanta of the marriage of Miss Alidene Bruner to John Llewellyn Winn, which took place last Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in Orlando. Rev. Father Bishop officiated and the ceremony was performed at the rectory of St. James Catholic church.

F. E. Frazier, of Orlando, Fla., attended Mr. Winn as best man and the bride had as her only attendant, Miss Glenna Kirch, of Orlando.

The bride, who is a lovely blonde, wore a fall model of light blue wool with navy accessories. Her flowers were white orchids. Mrs. Winn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bruner, of Fort Myers, Fla.

The groom is the popular son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Winn, of Atlanta. He graduated from Marist College, the University of Georgia, and belongs to Sigma Chi. Mrs. Harris Hurst and Miss Mary Margaret Winn, of Atlanta, are his sisters.

After a honeymoon at Daytona Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Winn will reside in Orlando, where Mr. Winn holds a responsible position with the Western Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Are Honor Guests

In compliment to Mr. and Mrs. John T. Carlton, whose marriage was an event of recent interest, Dr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Shackelford entertained at a steak fry last evening at their country place on the river. Mrs. Carlton is the former Miss Louise Mackay.

Before supper the guests enjoyed badminton and quarts. The hosts were assisted in entertaining by their young daughter, "Winifred Shackelford," their sister, Mrs. Calvin Prescott, and their niece, Miss Sally Prescott.

Invited to meet the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Angus Perkinson, Mr. and Mrs. John Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Medlock, Mr. and Mrs. John Raine, Mr. and Mrs. Mercer Poole, Mrs. E. E. Lyon, Miss Kathleen Mackay, Miss Manita Swann, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Cottrhan, Frank Daniel, Bob McKee and George Gerakitis.

Add the enjoyment of WINE to your dinner tonight!

Now—as the nation joins in observing National Wine Week—try out this pleasant custom of serving wine.

Come dinnertime, for instance, choose a light California red or white table wine—such as Claret or Chablis. Pour out medium size glasses for everyone as the main course comes to table. You'll find the flavor of wine sharpens appetites, helps make even a simple meal seem like a feast.

Try, too, offering guests small servings of nutty-flavored, amber Sherry at the appetizer-hour.

Or in the evening, bring out rich red Port or golden Muscatel with refreshments like crackers and cheese.

You'll find California wines sound, well-developed and reasonable in price.

Local Pen Women To Give Luncheon For Virginia Clare

Virginia Clare, whose book, "Thunder and Stars," will be released on October 15, will be guest of honor at the luncheon to be given by the Atlanta Branch, National League of American Pen Women, on October 16 at the Biltmore hotel. In private life the author is Mrs. Stewart Clare, and her book deals with the life of the late Miss Mildred Rutherford. The announcement of the luncheon was made by Mrs. L. A. McKinley, book chairman, at the recent luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Branch.

Mrs. Walter Bramblett, poetry chairman, issued invitations to all the poets of the branch to attend a luncheon at her home in Forsyth on October 23 in honor of Mabel Brown, author of "Red Hills," and Mrs. Tom Crabtree, president of the branch. Plans for the poetry division for the year will be outlined at this time.

Mrs. Jane Mattingly, music chairman, announced plans for the annual musicale to be held in November and Mrs. Stewart Clare requested material for the exhibit which will be held in connection with the event.

The appointment of two new chairmen was announced. They are Mrs. C. Gainer Turner, defense chairman, a new office created by the national organization, and Miss Mary Virginia McConnell, a new member, who was named national correspondent.

Mabel Brown told of her visit to the Tampa Branch, National League of American Pen Women, at which time she was honor guest and spoke on "Writing Red Hills." Mrs. Maude Lay Elton, state president, reported her radio broadcast in Macon, given in the interest of organizing a branch there.

Miss Elise Boylston, whose new book, "The Boylston Stories for Children," has just been released by John C. Winston Company, was a guest of the Atlanta Branch, National League of American Pen Women, at the recent meeting. Mrs. Earle Johnson, poet and dean of women at LaGrange College, was also a guest.

Johnson Estates Club To Meet.

The Johnson Estates Garden Club will open its fall activities at the October meeting, to be held today at 3 o'clock, with Mrs. J. C. Atkinson, 1690 Noble drive.

New officers for 1941-42 who will be installed are as follows: Mesdames Stewart F. Carver, president; H. P. Whitehead, vice president; J. B. Cheatham, recording secretary; G. C. Gardner, corresponding secretary; Claude Grizzard Jr., treasurer; R. Y. Dean, parliamentarian.

R. E. Hudson, of H. G. Hastings Company, will talk on the care and growth of "Bulbs and Lilies."

Bride-Elect, Debs Will Share Honors.

Mrs. Forrest Adair III and Mrs. Julian Harrison Jr. will entertain at a soft drink party on November 14, honoring a quartet of prominent belles.

Sharing honors will be Misses Clare Hewlett, Mimi Pappenheimer and Josephine McDougall, popular debutantes, and Miss Mary Jo Brownlee, fiancée of Dr. Harry Crosswell.

George Burns Coaches From the Sidelines As Gracie Begins Work

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.—(INS) The dynamic and always interesting Gabriel Pascal is back in town with an RKO contract in his waistcoat pocket—and plans galore. Pascal, the lad who first persuaded the reluctant George Burns to permit his stage plays to be filmed, has now sold Ginger Rogers on the idea of starring in "Arms and the Man," the first Shaw play he will produce and direct in Hollywood.

According to Pascal, whose "Pygmalion" with Wendy Hiller won G. B. S. an academy award, Ginger has consented to do two movies for him—one next year, and one the year following. Then, of course, he has Paul Gallico's "Snow Goose" to bring to the screen and three others for RKO. Pascal always amazes me. No matter what he sets out to do he accomplishes. He had never even met Shaw up to the moment he convinced the movie-hating G. B. S. that he, Pascal, was the one person to bring the Shaw plays before the cameras.

Gracie Allen, already on the M-G-M lot, was joined today by William Post Jr., who plays the Mr. to her Mrs. in "Mr. and Mrs. North." Young Post was just married last month to Joan Castle and he brings his bride with him to Hollywood. He was signed by a Metro talent scout who saw him on the Broadway stage in "My Sister Ellen" and this is his first motion picture. But don't look for a minute that Gracie has lost George Burns, who is going out to the lot with her and she wouldn't have it otherwise for she is always influenced by what he thinks and that is as it should be and one reason why their marriage has lasted for 17 years.

From Lana Turner to the tulip festival in Holland, Mich., is quite a production jump—but this is the schedule lined up by M-G-M for Joe Pasternak, the wonder boy. As we told you last week, Joe's first at Metro is "They Live by Night" and his second is this very unusual story with the festival background, "Tulip Time in Michigan." If Walter Reich, who wrote the original, will pardon me, that title sounds too much like a technical travelogue but perhaps it will be changed. The story itself concerns a tulip grower with seven daughters and the publicity value of the background is a natural with every newspaper, magazine and newsreel featuring it. A most interesting letter from Charles de Grandcourt brings word that Robert W. Service, distinguished Canadian poet who has been living in Cannes, is coming to Hollywood, "though many people think that Service died some years ago, which I can assure you is far from the truth." Not only will the famous author of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" complete his new novel, "Pursuit," here, but he will collaborate with De Grandcourt on two scripts for pictures to be financed, produced and released through one of the major companies. The first is "The Lady Known as Lou" and it is the first story Service ever wrote directly for the screen, although not the first sold for pictures.

Grey or white hair is strikingly smart and flattering when cut short and brushed upward all around the head in soft curls. It's a dignified hair style, yet young in spirit.

Indifference Cures Childish Ranting

By DIXIE GEORGE.

Dear Dixie:

I have been married for 15 years and have tried to make the best of life, but instead of a happy life it has all been trouble. We have four children, all of whom are in school. I work every day and buy what we have at home. I have a car and drive a crowd of girls to work every morning. When I leave home there is a row, and I dread coming home for the same reason. My father tried to warn me what life with a drunkard would be, but I would not listen. I have stood it as long as I can. Something must be done. I have taken a crowd of girls to work every morning, and I am forever accusing me of going with other men, which is not true, and it is a hard mouthful to swallow. I have about decided to take my children and go to my sister's for awhile. I do not want a divorce for one man is enough for me. I have to do all my house work and work to save all I can to live on and it is getting me down. His people try to tell me what I should do and oftentimes it does not suit me. I go to church and take my children with me, but my husband does not go with us. He really could not care for us and treat us the way he does. What can I do?

A. READER.

If you do not want a divorce and want to keep your home together, the only thing you can do is to go on as you are going on, but with a different outlook. When you come home at night, just ignore him when he starts fussing. The less you argue with him, the sooner he will stop ranting. Since you are the breadwinner for the family I think you deserve more consideration. You should assert yourself and let him know that you have little time to humor him. When he finds that his unpleasantness gains no attention for him, he will be less likely to continue.

FORGET LOVE ANGLE FOR THE PRESENT

Dear Dixie:

I am 17 and have been in love for over a year. I have not dated him for a month, but I cannot forget him and I keep wondering if he wants to be with me. He has never told me that he loves me but he has been into the store where I work several times. I met another boy a week ago who says he is in love with me and he even sits up until 12 o'clock at night to have a date with me. I told him I was in love with him, but I am not. I could love him if I did not think so much of the other boy. Tell me, please, whether I should fall for this one who says he loves me, or wait for the one I first mentioned. The first one is not worth waiting for, but I love him so much. What can I do to forget him?

ONLY ONE.

Until you can make up your mind between the two boys, I think you had better forget the love angle and just go on and have a good time with them. If you have been in love with the first one for over a year, why do you want to forget him? If you have sense enough to realize that he is not worth waiting for, you should be able to give him up. I think the second one sounds attractive.

Today's Charm Tip
The trick of overcoming self-consciousness is not in doing things to get people interested in you but getting your self interested in them.

Attractive Apron Makes Work Pleasant

By Lillian Mae.

When you're "chief cook and bottle-washer" of the family, a pretty apron helps to get your work done pleasantly and quickly. Pattern 4906 by Lillian Mae is made quickly, too, with the Sewing Instructor to aid you. The shoulder straps come down to the waist in front; in back, they button together to keep from slipping off your shoulders. You'll like the way they may be prettily accented with ruffling or ric-rac, and you'll like the roomy pockets, too. A tie belt begins at either side of the slim center front panel and ties in a bow in the back. Make up several of these charming aprons—start them now perhaps as Christmas gifts!

Pattern 4906 is available in sizes small (32-34), medium (36-38) and large (40-42). Small size, apron A, takes 2 3/8 yards 36-inch fabric and 1 3/4 yards ruffling; apron B, 2 1/2 yards 35-inch fabric and 3 7/8 yards ric-rac.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Just the cream of the 1941-42 fashion crop is shown in the new Lillian Mae Pattern Book. Order your copy today—you'll find page after page of original, easy-to-make modes for every age and hour. New Beauty Treatment Gives a Quick Pickup To Drab, Lifeless Hair

By Winifred Ware.

Hair that has been treated roughly by a summer of neglect and exposure needn't be cause for despair. Getting it back into healthy condition will take time and care, but while waiting for this you can produce glamorous hair for a special occasion with one treatment.

The treatment does wonderful, lasting good for your hair, but what will thrill you most will be the immediate beauty it produces. A single treatment acts like a quick pick-up for the hair. It removes that lifeless look of drab, dry hair by producing highlights and sheen. It gives back a softness to hair that has become harsh and brittle.

Those of you who are planning to have new permanents will find that one of these treatments will beforehand will make your hair take the softest, most satisfactory wave you've ever experienced. All types of hair, whether in good or bad condition, will appreciate this treatment before a permanent. Simplest thing is to have this treatment given to you in a beauty salon, but if you prefer you can buy the preparation and give it to yourself. It's not as complicated as it sounds, once you get started. The preparation comes in a tube. Break the seal and empty the whole contents into a cup. Then work the emulsion over the length of your hair. Next wrap your head in ordinary wax paper sheeting and over this place a hair net. Around all this wrap hot towels and steam your head for 20 minutes. At the end of this time remove the net and paper and again work the pack well into the hair. Then rinse with warm water, no soap.

I'll be glad to tell you where you can buy a tube of this pack to use at home or where they will give you a treatment with this preparation. Call Winifred Ware at Walnut 6565 or write in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Three hair styles designed by local hairdressers under the direction of a nationally famous hair stylist show the upswep tendency in hair fashions. His theory is that upswep hair takes years off a woman's face, and indeed it seems to! Above is a style for the young girl. The top hair is short and brushed up in ringlets, while the side and back hair remains long. Call Winifred Ware at Walnut 6565 to find where these coiffures were styled.

Raw Liver Is Best for You If You Can Learn To Take It

By Dr. William Brady.

Supply and demand are the two immediate factors determining market price. When you and I were young, Maggie, the supply of liver was so large that the butcher gave it away and felt sorry for your abject poverty. Later on, the butcher got wind of the notion of some doctors that liver might be not only good food but even of remedial value against anemia. The supply of liver thereupon decreased steadily and the price, oh, my.

Wild animals instinctively consume the liver and other interior appetences first after the kill. Savage tribes likewise make marked preference for the liver, heart, etc., when the hunters bring down a large game animal.

Mammalian liver (boof, swine, sheep, deer, etc.) yields 600 calories per pound, approximately the number of calories derived from a pound of lean beef. Liver contains slightly more protein (nitrogenous material), slightly less fat than lean beef. It also contains carbohydrate (glycogen, animal starch), which is as nourishing and as easily digestible as the sugar in milk, for instance, and contributes to the characteristic taste of liver.

Animal livers generally contain large amounts of vitamins A, B-complex and D. Not that wild animals and savages know this, but there it is. Vitamins A and D are little affected by the heat and oxidation of cooking, but some of the entities of the B-complex are destroyed by heat. Therefore cooked liver is excellent food, but raw liver is better food in some circumstances.

Raw liver contains a substance which is essential for the development of red corpuscles. One of the factors, called the "intrinsic factor," for this substance is destroyed by heat. The other factor, probably derived from the vitamin B complex, is not so easily destroyed by heat. So that cooked liver has some value in the treatment of anemia, but raw liver is much better—if you can take it.

One way to take raw liver (beef or calf liver is best) is in a tomato juice cocktail, seasoned as you like—about a tablespoonful of ground raw liver in the cocktail.

Another way, as described by a reader who has been apparently cured of pernicious anemia by eating liver, is as follows: I started out with about one-fourth pound at a meal two or three times a day. After having tried various ways I finally settled down to this way. I would cut it up on a board, as fine both

Merle Oberon's Beauty Aids Include Pair of Roomy Shoes

By Ida Jean Kain.

If there is a woman in the whole United States more fascinating than Merle Oberon, I don't believe it! And if that opening statement strikes you as a trifle mixed-up, it's only by way of preparing you for what is to come. Miss Oberon is a delightful assembly of contradictions.

The daughter of an English Army officer, she was born in Tasmania, which sounds like a proper cradle for a siren, and was brought up in the Orient, which adds an aura of mystery. But she's not like that! Her almond-shaped green eyes are not in the least sombre—they reflect a refreshing sense of fun.

And although in appearance she suggests an exquisite, fragile ivory figurine, she is really a hardy outdoor girl who insists on a swim every day and who likes to walk—at a terrific pace, her friends say—for two or three miles.

The final blow came, however, while I was waiting for the secret of some mystic beauty secret. She lightly discarded a Garbo-size shoe from a Cinderella-size foot and remarked that there was nothing like having your shoes roomy! So the smooth brown which I had mistaken as a reward of Oriental serenity turned out to be just an extra dividend for foot comfort. Miss Oberon certainly confirms my theory that crooked toes make crowfeet.

Her calisthenics, which she does daily, are the stretch-bend variety plus rolling. She reaches over to touch fingers to toes from a sitting position, stands erect and stretches, and goes in for rolling like some of the stars go in for massage.

Your Dietitian,
IDA JEAN KAIN.

Points for Parents

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Grandmother: "I'd make Jim play with his little cousin."
Mother: "No. He'll eventually come to like Billie if we don't force him."

Mother: "You should love your little cousin because he is your cousin. Look at him! Isn't he a darling little fellow?"
Affection is a matter of feeling and cannot be telled into existence.

Miss Roberts Becomes Bride Of George W. Himelright Jr.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10.—The St. Anne's church in Annapolis was the scene on September 30 of the wedding of Miss Geraldine Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Roberts, of Spencer, W. Va., and George Washington Himelright Jr., U. S. N., of Atlanta and Annapolis. Rev. Dr. Edward Darlington Johnson performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. The lovely bride wore a blue crepe dress with matching hat and navy accessories. Her flowers were pink roses and baby's breath.

Miss Ann Roberts, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. Her dress was of navy blue crepe with matching accessories. Her flowers were roses and chrysanthemums.

Lieutenant George Holmes, U. S. N., was Mr. Himelright's best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Commander and Mrs. Frank Wallace.

The table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered cake decorated in pink with pink roses. On each side of the centerpiece were silver candelabras.

For traveling the bride wore a costume lightweight wool suit in RAF blue. Her accessories and hat were wine-colored, and she wore

Georgia-Ole Miss Game Is Rated Toss-Up With Sinkwich Hurt

BY JACK TROY

Why, Indeed?

Now that Frank Leahy and Notre Dame's Fighting Irish are on the scene, it is apropos to ask the following question: "Why give Stanford all the credit for success with the T formation in college circles last year?"

FRANK LEAHY

ham, went on his own at Boston College, installed the old, reliable Notre Dame without the shift—"Tee for Three"—and enjoyed an unbeaten year which was climaxed by a Cotton Bowl battle with Clemson College.

Last year, when Stanford was suddenly getting all the notoriety because of the T formation, Boston College was going unbeaten again and wound up by "T-eeing off" on Tennessee.

But I haven't read anything anywhere giving Frank Leahy any credit. I have only read up to now about Stanford and the Chicago Bears.

Spectacular Offense

The writer followed Frank Leahy's Boston College team all over the country last year. First of all, there was the game against Tulane at New Orleans when a backward pass and a long forward pass bottled up the Green Wave. A quick opening touchdown was followed by other scores and there was a rout.

I next saw the Elephantine Eagles oppose Auburn at Boston, Mass. It was almost another Boston Massacre; certainly it was no "T" party, except in the football sense of the word.

As a grand windup, I saw B. C. give Tennessee a terrible headache in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. Boston had used the spread against Georgetown and brought it out against Tennessee for one of the touchdowns. Late in the game there was a pitching and catching exhibition the like of which can be recalled only in the Duke-Southern Cal Rose Bowl game.

The great passing exhibition, sparked by O'Rourke, was also climaxed by the same thin Irish lad, who galloped for a touchdown in the closing minutes to win the game.

Notre Dame, under Leahy, is looking much the same as the great Boston College team of last year, according to scouts to whom I've talked this year.

They're using both Old Model T and the shift. They are employing the spread and the wide-breaking plays around end with the fullback, usually Dippy Evans, carrying the ball. There are spectacular variations from the T and the spread, and there usually is a man in motion on the former formation.

It's going to be a much-changed Notre Dame team on attack.

Joins Irish

I'll never forget the chain of circumstances leading up to Frank Leahy's appointment as head coach of Notre Dame. He had been a tackle under Knute Rockne.

During the Sugar Bowl game there were certain Notre

Rogers Takes Three Events In Fall Shoot

Greenwood Gunner Powers Clay in First Day of Annual Firing.

By JOHN MARTIN.

It was murder at the traps every time J. O. Rogers took a look down the barrel of his 12-gauge pumpgun yesterday in the opening round of the eleventh annual Fall Festival Trapshooting tournament.

For every leaf that fell from the sweet gum and poplar trees fringing the Capitol Gun Club, the Greenwood (S. C.) gunner dropped a bird. He piled up enough clay on the sloping range to build a skyscraper and a network of streets around it.

Rogers won everything within reach of his 30-inch choke. And that was the whole works.

SLIDE WINNER

In the class championship—200 targets—he broke 99-99-198, and was one target ahead of Jack Tway, of Atlanta, in Class A. Then in the tough Larry Grant sliding handicap he powdered 25 straight to become the fourth shooter in seven years to win a medal in this event. Topping his performance, he tied with Bert Geiger, of Miami, in the special handicap, with 48x50, but won the toss and the trophy.

The newcomer to these parts, a garage man by trade, thus became a hot favorite to capture high over-all in this popular shoot, which continues today and tomorrow with a small but classy field competing.

Rogers was straight through his 116th bird in the 200-target championship. Lon Davis, Atlanta pro, likewise piled up a long run of 108 in this event.

B CLASS DOGFEAL

In Class B, C. I. Cooper, of Greenwood, tied with the veteran Isaac Andrews, of Spartanburg. Finishing with 192, they ran straight in the shoot-off and Andrews won in a coin flip. Grant captured Class C with 193 and H. J. Lewis, the gun artist, took Class D with 181.

Mrs. Isaac Andrews took Class B honors in the special with 48x50 and Cooper and Lewis were runners-up.

In a brisk warm-up for the bird season, O. B. Keeler ambled over the traps as an unattached gunman and wrecked 194 birds to push Rogers for the top performance of the day. He ran a straight 100 after breaking 94.

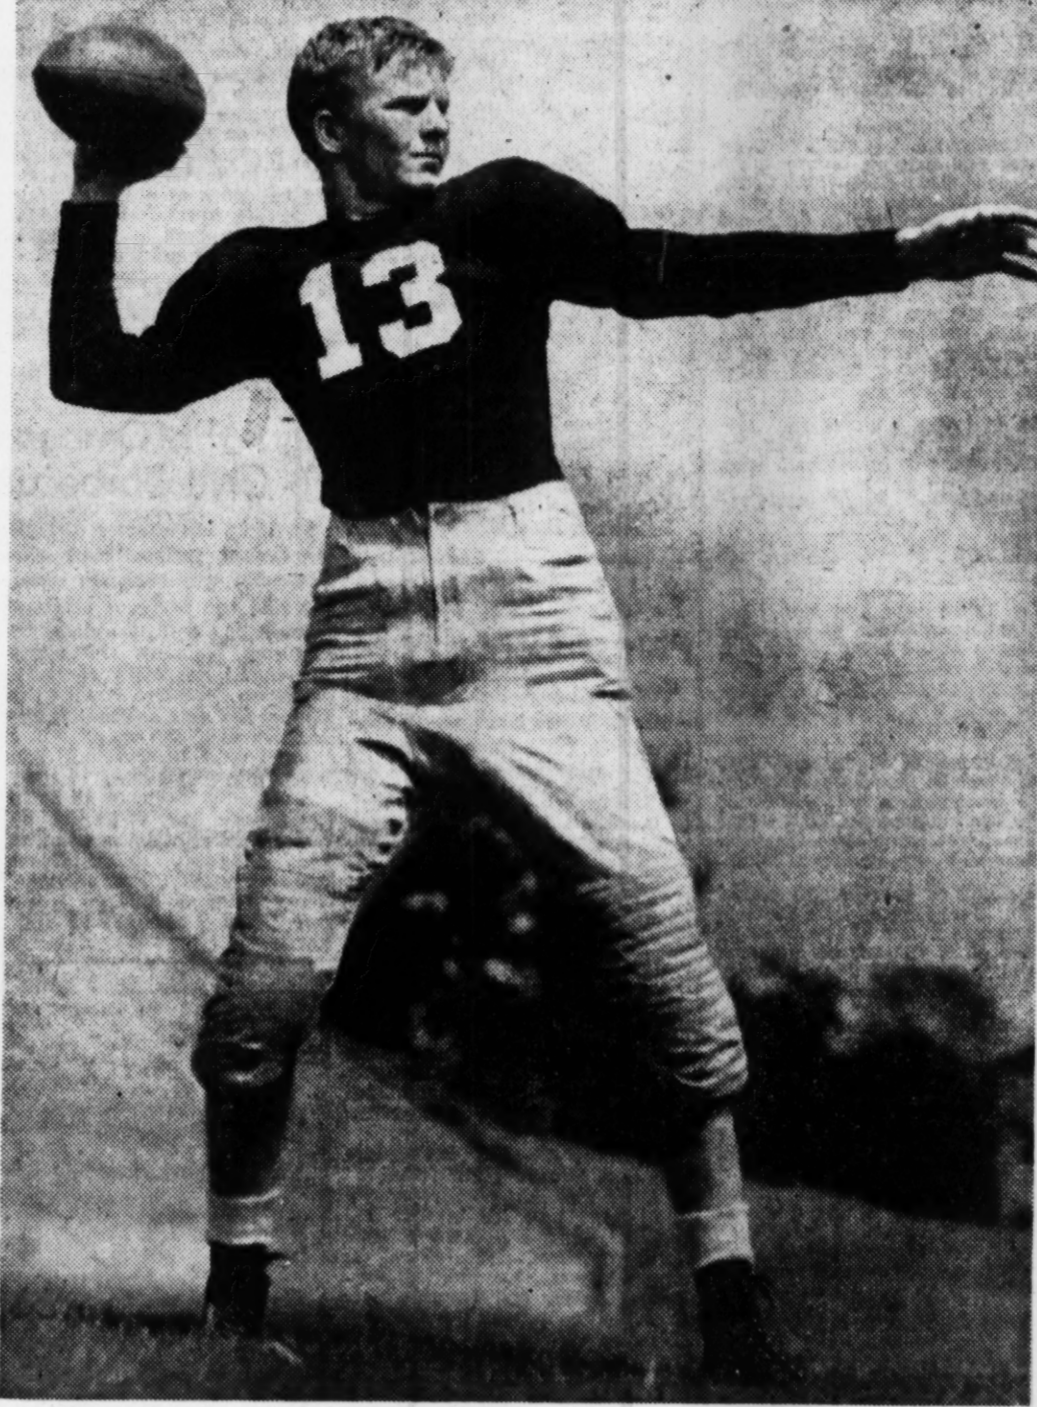

Golf Stars Leave For Buenos Aires

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Golfers Jimmy Demaret and Sam Snead will leave by Pan-American Clipper tomorrow morning for a series of exhibitions in South America. They will go first to Buenos Aires.

They will compete in the Argentine Open before starting their return journey up the west coast.

DOUBLE THREATS.

PALO ALTO, Cal.—Stanford's Indians take on a double-barreled threat this week. Not only do they play a tough rival in Oregon State, but they will be trying for their 13th consecutive victory.

FLEA FLICKER FLACK—The gent drawing a bead on a pass receiver is known as Jack (Flea Flicker) Flack, and he's something of a star passer, although Butch Hovious, with whom he alternates for Ole Miss, grabs a bigger share of the glory. Where he got his nickname is doubtful, at least no one seems to know. That's beside the point, though. The idea is that Mr. Flea Flicker is going to try to beat those Georgia Bulldogs tonight at Athens.

Mrs. Horacek, Mrs. Rhyne Vie In Golf Finals

Defending Champ Defeats Cagle; Rhyne Trips Mrs. Bright.

Mrs. Joe Horacek Jr., defending champion, who is seeking her third title, will meet Mrs. J. O. Rhyne in the finals of the city-wide Atlanta Women's Golf Association tournament at East Lake this morning.

Mrs. Horacek advanced yesterday on a 2-and-1 victory over Louise Cagle, while Mrs. Rhyne was defeating Mrs. Morton Bright, 3 and 2.

For the second straight day, Mrs. Albert Donnaud went to the 19th hole in a first-flight match. This time she lost to Mrs. Jesse Wright. Peggy Gude will meet Mrs. Wright in the finals, having trimmed Mrs. W. S. Eakin, 1 up.

Sportsmen Gather At Weekly Lunch

Sportsmen will gather again today for the weekly luncheon at the Kimball House.

This will be the 10th consecutive Friendly Sportsmen's luncheon, which was inaugurated in July by M. E. Harkins, president of the Atlanta Fly and Bait-Casting Club.

As Mr. Harkins points out, "this is where all good hunters and fishermen and fellows get together" every Friday at 12:30.

Sinkwich 2d to Dudley In Ground-Gaining Race

Gafford, of Auburn, Leads Nation's Punters With Average of 48 Yards.

SEATTLE, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Bill Dudley, the man of the hour in Virginia football, became the man of the week in the American Football Statistical Bureau's first weekly individual ground-gaining compilations today.

Dudley, who as a junior last year was named as a back on the Associated Press third team All-American, this week rates first in total offense—gains both rushing and passing—second in rushing alone and fifth as a forward passer.

In 43 rushes he made 281 yards. He completed 12 out of 20 passes, with one interception, for 117 yards, and totaled 398 yards in 63 ball-handling attempts while his team was winning two of its first three games, losing only to Yale's second-half surge, 21-19.

SINKWICH NEXT. Next to Dudley in the total offense division comes Georgia University's sensational Frankie Sinkwich, whose jaw was broken last week in the South Carolina game. Playing in only parts of the Bulldogs' first two games against Mercer and the Gamecocks, the Youngstown flyer has picked up a total of 371 yards.

Grigas, of Holy Cross, is the top rusher, collecting 328 yards in 49 tries. Cantini, of Carnegie Tech, completed the most passes, hitting the target 20 times in 52 attempts with one interception, for 265 yards. The bureau ranks passers on the number of completions. On a percentage basis, Dudley's 12 out of 20 gave him a .600 percentage rating to lead in that classification among the top five.

GAFFORD PUNTS.

Auburn, for the past few years one of the nation's best punting teams, boasts this week's punting leader in Gafford, whose five points in two games averaged 48 yards apiece.

Four players head the passing department with eight apiece. Ranked secondarily according to yards gained, they are Keating, Detroit, 122 yards; Spivey, Texas A. & M., 107; Anderson, Carnegie Tech, 105, and Henderson, Texas A. & M., 72.

Other leaders: Total offense—(gains rushing and passing)—after Dudley and Sinkwich come Moser, Texas A. & M., 352; Grigas, Holy Cross, 328; Cantini, Carnegie Tech, 322; Madarik, Detroit, 309; Weber, St. Louis, 270; Porto, Creighton, 265; Pete Layden, Texas, 235, and Thomas, Tulane, 210.

GEORGIA DEFENSE LEADER.

Rushing Defense—Georgia, minus 54 yards yielded per game rushing; Rice, minus 7; Duquesne, 45; Nebraska, 13; Texas, 13.5.

Rushing Offense—Northwestern, 389 yards per game average rushing; Georgia, 353.5; Clemson, 340; Syracuse, 306; Creighton, 294.7.

Butts Definitely To Use Frankie Portion of Tilt

20,000 Expected To See Hovious and Hapes Lead Assault on Bulldogs in Athens Tonight.

By JACK TROY.
Constitution Sports Editor.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 9.—Georgia and Ole Mississippi, meeting for the second time, are figured stand-offs for the game which gets under way at 8:15 under the lights of the arcs and the silvery moon on Stanford Field.

Georgia ordinarily would have entered the game as the favorite, in spite of last year's 28-14 setback, but a broken jaw suffered by Frankie Sinkwich in the Georgia game has altered the outlook for the Bulldogs.

LIQUID DIET.

Sinkwich has been on a liquid diet for almost a week. The stars on whom Harry Mehre is basing his hopes—Hapes and Hovious—are in top condition, on the other hand.

Flying Frankie may play part of the game, but whether or not he will be anywhere near as effective as he was before injured remains to be seen. He was fitted with a special brace to protect his jaw by the equipment man of the University of Tennessee today.

There is another way of looking at the Georgia-Ole Miss game, and it has nothing to do with the presence or absence of Sinkwich. They do say that when Harry Mehre sets for a team it's just too bad. This has been Mehre's history. He seldom has set for a game, lest it be Tennessee or Mississippi State, and not come out of it with his school's colors on high.

A TOSS-UP.

For this reason, the game cannot be figured otherwise than a toss-up. And there is the further disadvantage to Georgia of a brilliant back on the "if" list.

Georgia breezed through the first two games with Sinkwich going at top speed. Mercer was hurled easily and South Carolina, under coach Harry Hays, was just fair opposition, although the defeat may prove very costly. It was in this game that Sinkwich suffered a broken jaw. It was late in the game, too.

Regardless of outcome, and Georgia will pin high hopes on a rush line that has held the first two opponents to minus 44 yards rushing, the game should be a thriller.

Ole Miss throws quite a few passes and certainly has outstanding backs in Junie Hovious and Merle Hapes. Captain Wobble Davidson is called a brilliant end.

ALLEN TO START.

Georgia's Captain Heyward Allen, Frankie Sinkwich's sub at tailback, probably will start the game. Allen is a fine passer.

Working out at Decatur late tonight after a mix-up in the time of arrival, Coach Mehre was quoted as saying he thought his team might

Lloyd Waner Given Release By Cincinnati

Move Is Made To Make Room for Jim Prendergast.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds last night gave veteran outfielder Lloyd Waner his unconditional release to make room on their roster for Jim Prendergast, 25-year-old south-paw pitcher drafted from Little Rock, of the Southern Association. "Little Poison," who with his brother, Paul, starred for the Pittsburgh Pirates for years on end, came to the Reds last spring from Boston in exchange for Pitcher Johnny Hutchings.

Lloyd batted .256 with 42 hits in 164 times at bat for the Reds.

Whether you have a few suitcases or many items of furniture to be removed, you can find somebody for the job by turning to Classification 84—"Moving and Storage."

READY TO GO—Walter Ruark, hard-blocking Georgia guard, looks as if he's really ready to go against Ole Miss tonight.

Leahy Eleven Arrives Today For Workout

McHugh, Anderson, Marshall To Be Ready for Action.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY. For the past two years, Johnny Bosch has thrilled fans at Tech's games against Notre Dame with brilliant running, passing and kicking performances. And Little Johnny hopes to make his final appearance against the Fighting Irish Saturday his most impressive.

However, his effort to do so will be handicapped in that a knee injury suffered in the Chattanooga game last week has kept him out of all rough work during practice for Saturday's battle.

SLIGHT LIMP. He was running around in sweat clothes during yesterday's light session, but there was a noticeable limp in his walk. But Tech coaches figure he doesn't need any too much work and figure on him being ready to go at top speed Saturday.

Pat McHugh, the sophomore wingback sensation; Tom Anderson, veteran tackle, and Jack Marshall, husky end all were in sweat uniforms, but are expected to be on deck when the kickoff rolls around.

The Yellow Jackets stressed signals and defense against passes during the drill. Today's workout will be the usual limbering-up affair.

Notre Dame will arrive in Atlanta today and will take its final workout this afternoon on Grant Field. The team is stopping at the Biltmore hotel.

PASSES GAIN. The Irish pass patterns thrown against the varsity yesterday gained considerable ground. There was no rough work, but Freshmen Bill Bailey and Jim Luck tossed the ball quite accurately at the green-shirted receivers. Jim Wright looked good on pass defense from his center post.

The Techs also worked on their own offense, with passes stressed. Bosch looked good, throwing the ball and Davey Eldredge also got off some nice ones.

Blocking assignments, both on the part of linemen and backs, were also checked and the club ran through its running formations with the Red Devils furnishing dummy opposition.

Fulton Beats Richardson 11 By 19-6 Score

Thrilling Pass Play of 58 Yards Scores for Losers.

By HENRY BAILEY. Coach C. C. Wills' Fulton High Redbirds won their first game of the season last night as they defeated Richardson 19 to 6, on the Russell field. The larger Fulton outfit pushed over a touchdown in each of the first, second and last periods, and then yielded a score in the final minutes. Grady Akins hurled a long pass to J. C. Blackstone, good for 58 yards.

The Redbirds drove from their own 40 for the first score. Ralph Dennard, a speedy little halfback, carried the ball over after a series of five first downs had set the ball on the Ram 3-yard line. In the second period, Dennard got off two 10-yard runs in the Richardson 4. Sam Spurlock plunged through the line for the touchdown. Their final score came on a drive of 74 yards, featured by a 24-yard pass from Spurlock to Coley Daniels. Spurlock hit the line for the score from the Richardson 1.

Richardson carried a drive to the Fulton 6-yard line just before the close of the first half, but it ended when Akins' pass to Cleveland in the end zone fell incomplete. Akins got off a 70-yard punt from his own 29 to the Redbird 1-yard stripe to get the Rams out of a tough hole in the third period.

Dennard, Spurlock and Daniels starred in the backfield for Fulton while Gary Gambrell was doing the best in the line. For the Rams, Akins and Jack Collier were best. Blackstone, Captain Doug Pece and Ralph Crawford did well in the line.

Mehre To Be Early Bird

Coach Harry Mehre and his University of Mississippi Rebels are going to get an early start for Athens today. They're a little leary about the state's time. Last night they had been told they would arrive here at 6:10 p. m. Someone forgot to tell 'em that was train time and not Atlanta's.

So the team got here too late for the scheduled practice at Ponce de Leon, and it was darn near 11 o'clock when they finished a drill at Decatur High's field.

They aren't planning on being late for those Georgia Bulldogs—not by a long time.

Furman Tackle Breaks His Neck For Slinging Bat

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Merritt Morris, strapping junior tackle, was through with football at Furman yesterday when it was announced that the Olanta lad suffered a broken neck in a tackling session Monday night.

At first it was believed the injury was only slight but an X-ray revealed that two vertebrae had been broken.

The outlook in the Purple's grid camp was darkened as the injury list lengthened with the addition of Roy Hilliard, regular guard, and Roger Gregory, second-string guard. Hilliard has a badly bruised arm and Gregory is out for the rest of the season with a neck injury.

Petrels Battle Troy Teachers This Afternoon

Oglethorpe concluded drills yesterday afternoon for their game this afternoon at Hermance field with the Troy State Teachers' eleven. The Petrels are in pretty fair shape for the fray with the exception of Joe Tosches and Pete Maman.

Harry Dodd, a junior baseball player who saw some service last year, will replace Tosches. It appears now for the first time in two weeks, that the Petrel eleven will be able to click as a team unit.

Oglethorpe licked the visitors last year, 20 to 7, but the contest this time promises to be a much closer affair.

Tom House and Ferrar starred in the long scrimmage with Ivey, Waller and Dodd circling the flanks for long gains. In addition, Ferrar and Waller were connecting rather consistently for pass completions.

The contest will get under way promptly at 2:30 p. m. with the home team ruling a slight favorite.

Five Texas Aggies On 1st Train Ride

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Thirty young men, five of them taking their first train ride, were rolling toward New York tonight for their first look at the big city and to give the big city its first look at a Texas A. & M. football team in many a moon.

The Aggies, a by-word of the nation last year, will meet New York University here Saturday, and chunky, baldish Byron Winstead, who came ahead as a carrier pigeon to bring tidings of the invasion from the southwest, doesn't know quite what to expect, although he admits Homer Norton has practically a senior team, and has a reasonable facsimile of Jarrin' Jawa Kimbrough in Sophomore Dennis Andricks.

Barefoot Griddler Fears Bad Frost

MURFREESBORO, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The coming frost in Dixie is of more concern to William Ross than the sharp cleats on shoes of opposing football players.

Reason: The State Teachers' College freshman plays barefoot.

The Smyrna youth will be looking to his toes tomorrow when the State frosh play the University of Tennessee Junior College at Martin.

Ross' coaches say he can kick the ball better without his shoes.

Terrapins Bank On Pass Attack To Upset Duke

North Carolina Juggles Line in Effort To Halt Fordham.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 9.—(AP)—All the signs in the sky indicate that the Maryland Terrapins will hurl lots of passes across the Baltimore ballyard when they tangle with Duke's Blue Devils on Saturday.

They will have everything to win and not a great deal to lose in doing their best to spoil Wallace Wade's 100th game as Duke's coach. But they have to remember that the Durham gridiron master has a football batting average of .813 with 78 won, 18 lost, and three tied.

Dispatches from College Park said, however, that Maryland showed no inclination to pin all its hopes on an aerial attack. Running plays from both single wing and double wing formations were rehearsed yesterday, together with a lot of blocking.

Maryland has on its early record an 18-0 victory over Hampden-Sydney and a 6-6 tie with Western Maryland. Duke smashed Wake Forest and then took Tennessee to demonstrate beyond any doubt that it has the championship caliber of goods this year.

The Blue Devils held a clear edge over both of its first two opponents in all the games except punting, being outkicked an average of nearly four yards. Steve Lach and Tom Davis limbered up at Durham yesterday on that phase of the game.

North Carolina, getting set for the Fordham Rams, is juggling its line in an effort to get something which can stop the northerners. Coach Ray Wolf even ran two left tackles, Sieck and Michaels, and two right guards, Marshall and Faircloth, in the same unit during practice.

With Virginia particularly interested in the scrap here this weekend between William and Mary, state champion, and Virginia Tech, which upset Georgetown, Blacksburg reported that Alton Belcher, 190-pound junior punter, being outkicked an average of nearly four yards. He played only a few minutes of the Kentucky game and has been out since.

STILL THEY LOST—Bob Jones (left) and his father, Colonel Bob Jones, did a lot of choosing up yesterday before the annual fall losers-pay dinner tournament at East Lake. Then Colonel Bob, who was doing the choosing for Scott Hudson Sr., joined his son's side. It didn't work. The Hudsons won.

Dame representatives present. They casually asked questions, here and there, relative to what newspapermen and others thought of Leahy.

One thing led to another, and finally it became evident to this writer that something was in the wind. The evidence became stronger all the time, and after the game there was enough information for a story declaring Leahy would be the next head coach of Notre Dame.

Leahy went from New Orleans to Palm Beach for a secret meeting after the Sugar Bowl game, but nothing happened then. It was some time later, at the annual Boston College banquet, that it was announced prematurely Leahy had been re-signed.

There was a clause in his contract, however, which stipulated he would be released if offered a contract by Notre Dame.

Well, he was offered the contract all right, and he accepted. Elmer Layden resigned to become pro football commissioner.

Only The Constitution had this story, from beginning to end. It was called the scoop of many years in national football circles.

NASHVILLIAN DIES. NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Guthrie Coke Kimbrough, 61, who as a young man captained an amateur baseball team here that in-

Hudson Team Takes Dinners In Fall Event

Joneses Get Together, But They Can't Score E. L. Victory.

Even with Colonel Bob Jones joining his son, Bob Jones, captain of the team, for the annual East Lake fall losers-pay battle yesterday, the Joneses didn't win. Scott Hudson Sr.'s team took honors with 1,525 strokes to 1,571.

On the winning side were George Phillips, M. C. Seaborn, S. L. Mathewson, F. M. Swanson, S. E. Smith, C. O. Long, Les Weisiger, S. M. Haw, J. W. Welch, D. F. Coleman, L. A. Scott, Keith Conway, J. A. Barnes, E. D. Key, W. C. Davis.

It took 117 to win the dogfight. J. A. Farmer, H. A. Vance, L. A. Burdett and A. G. DeNormandie had the score. Other prize-winning teams:

120. A. C. Spinks, R. H. Massey, T. B. Willard and W. C. Thompson, 122. U. C. Jones, E. S. Humphreys, Russell Gill and J. H. Layman; R. D. Ison, Dave Ison, S. P. Murray and Dr. J. C. Wright; R. P. Purples Meet Lanier Eleven In Macon Go

200 Supporters To Make Trip; Russell To Play West Fulton.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS. While Boys' High is in Macon tonight to defend its unbeaten, unscored-on record for the year against the Lanier Poets, one of the toughest G. I. A. A. rowdies, Allen Shi's crippled Tech High Smithies will back in the local spotlight at Ponce de Leon Park, where they must keep the Wolf from the touchdown door if they are to tame a very good Columbus High eleven.

Said Wolf is big and bad Ed Wolf, Columbus halfback who is tied with Boys' High's Clint Castleberry for the conference scoring lead. "As Wolf goes, so goes Columbus," they tell you down-state, so the Blacksmithe must defang the shifty galleon early. Coach Red Maddox, one-time member of Georgia's flaming sophomore brigade, already has seen his charges slaughter Newman and upset favored Lanier, 19-12, in a close game, so the Smithie task is a hard one.

STILL CRIPPLED. The bruising battle with Savannah High here last week did the already crippled Ninth Streeters no good. Marcy McWhorter, Smithie passing ace, still limps badly and will see little service, but Lamar (Whitley) West is about recovered from an auto accident and Donald King is improving from his injury and may play some. They should be a big help to the weary, overworked Jack Couch, and Harvey Prater in the backfield. Big Ed Lowe should be more efficient at fullback, too, since his infected leg has improved considerably.

The injury-riddled Smithie fore-wall should be in somewhat better condition with Coley Whitaker improving from a leg injury rapidly. Jack Whitaker is still in no condition to see service, however, and Fred King, stand-out guard in the Smithie first line of defense, still must favor painfully bruised and battered shins.

Some 200 students and supporters, including the Boys' High band, will accompany Shorty Doyal's Purple powerhouse when it chugs out of the Terminal station at 10 o'clock on the Central of Georgia this morning headed for Macon and the Lanier backyard.

What will be somewhat weakened for the fray by the loss of Right Halfback Don Paschal who suffered a shoulder injury, Charlie Ewing, who played a great game against Jesup last week, is being groomed to take his place. Young Bobby Chastain, recently promoted from the B squad, also did some fancy galloping last week and may see quite a bit of service before the season terminates. Gordon Clay, fine end whose educated toe has booted so many points after touchdown from placement, also has a shoulder injury which will keep him sidelined except when he is needed to boot an extra point.

JENKINS RETURNS.

Of cheering note to Purple supporters, however, was the return to practice this week of husky Chub Jenkins, 220-pound tackle who recently ran into scholastic difficulties. He has mastered the pesky "book larnin'" now and is set for the Poets. Too, Left Halfback Joe Kenimer, who missed the game last week, has a special brace for his injured knee and appears ready to go for part of the game. Milton Miller may see some action at his guard post, but his damaged knee is still stiff and it is doubtful he will be of much value.

Russell High will attempt to pass another milestone in their serious bid for the N. G. I. C. title when they engage the hustling West Fulton eleven of Coach Vic Hansard. Wildcat Coach R. L. Bowen's charges will be playing on their home grounds in East Point and should take this one in stride.

all but 40 minutes of the two games played so far—and how, he asked Coach Dana Bible, are the regulars going to win their letters that way? Bible assured Kutner—and the others—they would find the answer on the field Saturday against Oklahoma.

Strong Rice Ready To Deflate Wave

Bowl-Minded Owls To Put Pressure On

Tulane Supporters Are Afraid Auburn, B. C. Weren't 'So Hot.'

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Tulane's big Green Wave, which doesn't yet know its own strength despite easy victories over strong eastern and southeastern teams, left tonight to try one of the best from another section—Rice Institute's Southwestern Conference Owls.

The fact that Tulane outclassed both Boston College and Auburn has left some of the Wave's supporters highly pleased, others rather puzzled.

"It's the best team Tulane has ever had," shout the former, who include some of the local sports writers.

The attitude of the more puzzled ones was expressed by a member of the team, who said: "Wait and see what we do under pressure; maybe B. C. and Auburn weren't so hot."

If the pressure is going to be applied, Rice is the club to do it. Already the more rabid Houston fans are planning to accompany the Owls to a major bowl, right over the carcasses of the Texas U. Longhorns whom the Owls licked last year and plan to lick again.

Thirty-one Tulane players were in the party scheduled to leave at 9:30 p. m. (CST) arriving in Houston at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow. The team will work out in Houston tomorrow afternoon.

Marist Trims Typists, 13-6, In Fast Battle

By MALCOLM DAVIS.
Unexpected and spectacular fireworks broke loose last night at Rouse de Leon park as the Marist Cadets beat a never-thing Commercial team, 13 to 6, before 1,500 fans.

Both underdogs who had been trampled on earlier in the season by such scores as 46 to 0 and 40 to 0, the off-beaten teams promised little more than haphazard playing. But the teams kept the crowd yelling with thrilling football.

Capitalizing quickly on a Commercial fumble early in the first quarter, J. D. Berry hurled a high 25-yard pass to Mays, who galloped over the goal. Dye kicked the point.

Both teams scored in the first half. The Cadets continued to turn on the steam with Jim Heinold keeping things hot for the Typists by his persistent line-lunging and passing. Heinold put his team on the Typist 26, J. D. Berry tore away from half a dozen Commercial clutches and landed on the 5. Heinold went over his left guard for a score. Dye rushed in to kick, but the Typists rose up and batted down the ball.

TYPISTS COME BACK.
With the score 13 to 0 against them, the Typists immediately began fighting for the goal line.

Claude Boyd, from his 40, tossed one to Wilson and then carried the ball on the next play to the Cadet 25. Buddy Wilson picked up a full 10 yards to the 15, where Boyd raced over but had the score nullified by an offside penalty.

NEVER OUTDONE.
Wiggins ran around right end and went over as Cadet Dickerson leaped around his shoulders.

The second half was sensational but scoreless, with Claude Boyd outstanding as he struggled to lead his team to victory. Fumbles ruined scoring opportunities for both teams several times. A 25-yard pass to Typist Wiggins on the Cadet 30 was broken up by the fingertips of Walker, who shot the oval off its beam by a fraction of an inch.

As the clock neared the final minute, it looked as if the Typists would score when Cadet Walker's punt was blocked and recovered by Commercial on the Cadet 24. But the men from Marist poured through the Typist line and smeared Thornton for a loss, then kept the Commercial players from pushing the ball up another inch. As the final whistle blew, Claude Boyd was tossing them to anyone in sight.

Wolf a Bear for Optimism; Thinks Team To Beat Rams

By FRANK B. GILBRETH.
CHAPLAIN HILL, N. C., Oct. 9.—

(AP)—A diligent search has uncovered only one person who believes that North Carolina's once-defeated Tar Heels will upset Fordham in their football game here Saturday.

That person is the Tar Heels' head coach, Ray Wolf, a unique species of gridiron mentor whose peculiarity is that he continually views life through rose-colored glasses.

Wolf admits Fordham has perhaps the nation's strongest ball club. He confesses that the Tar Heels haven't done a thing which would convince even their strongest supporters—himself included—that they could whip the New Yorkers.

"Looking at it logically," he said today, "I can see that that we're going to take a licking. But logic and thinking are two different things."

"I never came up to a ball game yet that I didn't think our boys were going to win. I can't help it. There have been plenty of times when I've been wrong, but I've still got that old feeling."

Athletic officials here expect a crowd of 20,000 at the game. Fordham will arrive tomorrow morning in nearby Durham, and will work out here tomorrow afternoon.

Fordham is the only opponent which Wolf-coached teams have been unable to score on. The Rams and Tar Heels have met three times—in 1937 and 1940 Fordham won by identical scores of 14-0, and a game in 1938 ended in a scoreless tie.

Ray has the highest respect for the ability of the New Yorkers. If his cheerful attitude is whistling in the dark, he prefers it to singing the blues. If a towel has to be tossed in, it isn't going to be a crying towel.

His optimism has boomeranged now and again. But it's gotten some surprising results, too. Take, for instance, the 6-3 licking his boys pinned on a heavily favored Duke team last year.

The bookies here are spotting North Carolina 13 points, but Wolf still says:

"I think we're going to win. Logically, Fordham can't lose, but I always think we're going to win."

Alabama Team Whips Cadets As 1,500 Watch

Alexandria High Scores 25-13 Victory Over G. M. A.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.
A clever football team from little Alexandria (Ala.) High dampened the spirits of some 1,500 fans at G. M. A.'s homecoming last night as they whipped the Cadets, 25 to 13, but the gala half-time show featuring Wild Bill Curry, Charlie Dorch, supermen de luxe, the Cuban Maracas Orchestra, Louisiana accordions and the G. M. A. band gave them solace aplenty for the defeat.

Irishman Lewis Kelly didn't need the luck of the Irish to lead the Alabamans to victory. All the 150-pounder asked was that his mates get him past the Cadet line and give him shirt-tail distance. Then he streaked to pay dirt like a runaway rabbit. Three times he raced for touchdowns on jaunts of 23, 27 and 6 yards and the rest of the time was scoring the Cadets with long scampers. On his first two touchdown excursions he blasted off tackle, cut back to the weak side beautifully and fought his way into the clear.

Ed Diggs, center, was another thorn in the Cadet flesh. He played heroic defensive ball, blocked one kick which Teammate Roy Smith scooped up and took 40 yards for the other touchdown for the Valley Cubs, and came close to blocking two more. Captain Laverne Webb, at end, and Lamar Heathcock, at tackle, also were defensive standouts.

DIXON STARS.
Henry Dixon was a definite standout for the charges of McKay and Hyder. Late in the second quarter he circled right end and spurred 52 yards to place the oval on the visitors' 15-yard stripe to set up the first Cadet score. He ran and punted well all during the fray.

Albert Fritchle rammed over the first Cadet score after a penalty put it on the six and Dixon had smashed to the four. Robinson passed to Dixon for the extra point. Fritchle also tallied the last Cadet touchdown from the seven on the last play of the game after great running by Dixon and a newcomer, L. E. Parker, who looked great the few minutes he was in, had been responsible for a 48-yard march. Ed Lennox, at tackle, was a defensive standout for the home-ings.

The fans got their biggest thrills and did most of their "Oling and Aching" over Bill Curry's piano stunt in which he supported a piano and two men while one played a clarinet and the other the piano. A few screams greeted the act in which a man jumped off a 10-foot ladder onto Curry's stomach as he lay on his back.

Curley, Dalton Dog, Captures All-Age Title

DUBLIN, Ga., Oct. 9.—A Walker male fox hound named Curley, owned by T. W. Bryant, of Dalton, late today was named Georgia grand champion all-age dog of the State Fox Hunters' Association of Georgia for 1941, as the group's annual field trials came to a close.

Taking top honors in the derby class was Lady Davis, a Walker female owned by E. M. Cannon, of Abbeville.

At the business session marking the close of the meet, A. B. White, of Douglasville, was named president of the association for the next year, succeeding W. V. Ward, of Dublin.

Named with him were T. W. Bryant, Dalton, first vice president; E. H. Johnson, Savannah, second vice president; Dr. J. E. Bedingfield, Dublin, third vice president; and H. G. Gunby, Atlanta, secretary-treasurer. Henry J. McKenzie, Ashburn, is retiring secretary-treasurer.

The new board of directors includes W. A. Bunch, Lincolnton; W. V. Ward, Dublin; Henry J. McKenzie, Ashburn; C. D. Prescott, Wrightsville; Walter Wikle, Clarksville; James Reed, Dalton; Scott Hendricks, Dalton; Johnnie Greene, Atlanta; E. M. Cannon, Abbeville, and Dr. Bruce Mongie, Bristol Tenn. New finance committee is John Howard, Barnesville; Walter Wikle, Clarksville; Fred Greene, Atlanta, and E. M. Cannon, Abbeville.

C. D. Prescott, Wrightsville, took second place in the all-age division, and E. M. Cannon, Abbeville, was second in the derby

Rides 6 Winners in 7 Races

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Jockey Alfred Robertson, the veteran little Scotch riding star, wrote a new record into the turf books today by booting home six winners on the seven-race card at Jamaica.

Available records show several other jockeys have ridden as many as half a dozen winners in one day's riding, and one had 7, but the 30-year-old Scot, by his performance today, became the first rider to turn the trick twice in his career. He did it first back in February, 1928, at Havana, during his first year in the saddle.

Although he was stopped aboard the long-shot Picture Hat in the fifth race today, each of his other mounts paid handsome odds. They were Sorgho at $15.80 for $2, in the first race; Running Lights at $29.30 in the second; Gun Galomar, at $23.40, in the third; Grand Party, at $20.80, in the fourth; Paul Pry, at $12.70 in the sixth, and Starlike at $46.30, in the seventh.

Ad Man, Bank Employee Face Federal Count

Bill Charges Conspiracy To Abstract, Misapply Funds.

Charging that they conspired to "abstract and misapply" funds of the Trust Company of Georgia by presenting and approving for payment bills for bank advertising which was never published, the federal grand jury yesterday indicted James Clay Wilson, president of Newspaper Features, Inc., and Harold McDonald Keen, advertising manager of the bank, on a charge of violating the national bank act.

One true bill named both men and charged them with engaging in "a continuing conspiracy to abstract and misapply" a total of $1,085 belonging to the bank. Another true bill named Keen alone and charged him with issuing vouchers for a total of $308.38 "purporting to be in payment of a bill for services which were rendered and for which no bill was submitted."

Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Wilson and Keen shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday and they were released under $1,500 bond each.

Robert Strickland, president of the Trust Company of Georgia, issued the following statement: "The alleged embezzlements are supposed to cover several years and any loss is fully covered by insurance. The charges on which the indictments were returned being federal violations, the entire matter is in the hands of the federal authorities. The Trust Company of Georgia reported the matter to the federal authorities, who investigated it and to whom all facts were furnished by the bank."

Canners Meet Here To Study Food Program

Expanded Production Is Aimed at Aiding Army and Navy.

Canners from all parts of Georgia met here yesterday to make plans for expanded production to meet the food requirements of the Army and Navy and the leasehold countries.

Plans for enlisting county agents, Department of Agriculture representatives and state agriculture agents in a program to grow more fruits and vegetables for canning were formulated at the meeting, held at the Federal Reserve Bank building.

Joel Edwards, president of the Georgia Canners, opened the meeting, and presented Walter Graef, of Griffin, who presided.

The meeting was called at the suggestion of the Georgia State Industrial Advisory Location Committee and the Contracts Distribution Service of the OPM.

W. C. Cram Jr., chairman of the committee and district manager of the Contracts Distribution Service, presented an outline of the ever-growing needs of the defense program.

Hitler's Chiefs British in Need Seize German Of More Food, Big Industries Parran Asserts

Business Interests in Occupied Lands Also 'Bought Out.'

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(INS)—A "handful of Nazi chieftains," an official British government statement said tonight, has seized the greatest part of Germany's industries and "now is busy getting a strangle-hold on industry and banking in the Nazi-occupied countries."

Such famous industries as the Hugenburg, Thyssen, and Krupp interests, Britain charged, have been "expatriated" and turned over to such men as Goering, Ribbentrop, Terboven, Himmler and Heydrich.

The British statement went on: "Goering has seized the iron works; Ribbentrop the banking and industrial interests of Thyssen, and the huge dye works are being 'administered' by a coterie of new kinds of industry closely associated with the Nazi government."

"In the occupied countries, the I. G. Farbenindustrie, one of the most really deadly parts of the war industry, has 'bought out' the Kuhlmann plants, its only competitor in France. Buying out, as a rule, simply means taking over in exchange for worthless German paper."

Similar inroads, the British charged, are being made in other occupied zones, and even in Spain. The statement added that German banks "also are carrying on a process of absorption by the same methods."

'Newspaper Week' Is Called Success

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(AP)—National Newspaper Week has given "the reading public a wider appreciation of the part newspapers are playing in our democratic country," Executive Secretary Walter C. Johnson, of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, said today.

Johnson, a member of the national committee which sponsored Newspaper Week ending yesterday, said approximately 90 per cent of the southern newspapers used their columns to acquaint the public with their problems and the services they perform.

"Observance of the special week was a grand success," he said.

Declares Margin Between Present Ration, Malnutrition Narrow.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The United States must step up its food production in order to strengthen the foe of Hitler, Surgeon General Thomas Parran, of the United States Public Health Service, declared tonight.

In one of the few speeches he has made since his inspection tour of England last spring, Dr. Parran told the American Academy of Pediatrics: "There is a narrow margin between the present British food ration and widespread malnutrition there. In the interest of their strength and our own safety the British food position must not be allowed to worsen. We dare not permit the diet of the British workers to be less than now. Only from America can they get the concentrated protein food they must have now. We must provide it, both by conservation of what we have and by expanded production."

He urged a mass speeding up of farm production, particularly in the raising of more cattle, hogs and sheep and the increasing of such supplies as dried and evaporated milk, cheese and eggs. Until farmers can increase production, the American people may be forced to share more generously their supplies of concentrated protein foods with England's defenders, he said.

Wells Seeks Steel For School Work

Superintendent Jere A. Wells, of Fulton county schools, conferred here yesterday with Senator Russell over priorities for steel needed in system construction.

Work upon nine buildings would be expedited by an enhanced rating, he pointed out.

"Our greatest immediate concern is the $160,000 College Park school," Superintendent Wells declared. "It requires 130 tons of steel, of which 30 has been delivered. It has been given a B-1 rating, but it must receive at least one of the lower 'A' ratings, if the work is not to stop within two or three weeks."

Russell promised to look fully into the proposal.

Mass Timber Sale by Farmers Is Discouraged

Specialists Say Growers Lose Heavily by This Method.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Farmers who sell their timber to contractors on the lump sum basis get only a fifth to a half of what it is worth, says the Agriculture Department.

In testimony made public today, agriculture officials told a House Appropriations Subcommittee this kind of timber marketing had become a serious problem in 38 states, especially in the south and New England.

M. S. Eisenhower, land use coordinator, said the contractor or purchaser offered the farmer a flat contract price of all the standing timber on the property. If the farmer accepted, he said, "the contractor comes in and cuts the area clean."

"What he is getting for his product on a lump sum to one-half of what the timber is worth," he said. "Furthermore, his property is stripped clean and is no longer a productive piece of property."

He added that the situation was "acute" in southern states and "very bad" in New England. Earle H. Clipse, acting chief of the Forest Service, said, "I think a large percentage of the farmers take their woodland almost as a matter of course, and they do not know how much timber they have; they do not know what it is worth; they do not know how to measure it; and they do not know how to sell it."

The agriculture men advocated selection of the material to be cut. In this way, said Eisenhower, the farmer could retain a productive woodlot, usually better than it was before the cutting.

Big Steel Plant Resumes Work After Walkout

SWOC Director Asserts Operations Will Be Normal Tonight.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 9.—(AP)—All major units of the giant Fairfield Steel Works resumed operations tonight as the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company announced the mills would be kept open and the CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee sent its members through AFL picket lines.

There was no official word on the number of employees who work. Noel Beddow, SWOC executive director, said operations would be at normal levels by tomorrow night. An AFL spokesman, however, forecast that "the whole TCI operation in Birmingham will be down by Saturday night."

The plant, a vital cog in the south's defense program, was closed shortly after midnight by a walkout of AFL machinists and electricians, who struck in protest against card inspections by the Steel Workers Organizing Committee (CIO).

Crossing Picket Lines. SWOC sources said their members were crossing the AFL picket lines tonight.

Robert Gregg, TCI president, signed the posted notice which declared needs of the national defense program "call for a maximum effort in our mines, mills and furnaces."

"It now is the policy of the company," the notice said, "to keep the plants in operation and afford work to all employees who desire to work."

The company previously had been silent concerning the AFL-CIO dispute and the strike, and made no estimate of the volume of operations there tonight.

Strike at Edgewater. Meanwhile, the steel situation here was further complicated tonight by a strike of United Mine Workers of America (CIO) in TCI mines at Edgewater and Hamilton mines.

William Mitch, UMWA district president, said the walkout was unauthorized, and he would attempt to get the 3,000 idle miners back on their jobs tomorrow. He said the miners walked out because of the long delay in negotiating a permanent contract covering the Alabama coal fields.

The Fairfield Steel Plant, largest in the south, employs approximately 11,000 men. The 30,000 TCI workers and manufacturers most of the steel for southern shipyards.

Bridge Wreckage Partially Cleared

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Great Lakes' biggest freighters, with passage to blocked-off locks partially restored, steamed on today with iron ore for the steel-makers after two restless days of lying idle.

Toward midnight workmen had cleared aside much of the obstruction to the main locks of the St. Mary's Falls canal, and early today the first freighter nosed through the channel eastward—46½ hours delayed.

Opening the way to one of the two main locks, stout tugs and a boom derrick pulled a submerged train locomotive off one arm of a buckled bridge span and made it possible to free the other arm and let the boats through.

The locomotive, carrying two trainmen to death, plunged into the canal when one 165-foot arm of the large bascule bridge collapsed early Tuesday. The 280-foot-wide channel leading to the main locks was blocked and more than 50 freighters coming in from Lake Superior were stalled.

Broiler meals are easy for even a new housekeeper.

Broil for Good Flavor

It's the flavor of broiled foods that sets them distinctly apart. Cooked over direct heat, foods have a "fresh cooked" taste, a tantalizing odor, and appetizing brown edges, which are highly prized by the connoisseur of food. Originally broiling was done over hot embers, in the way that we barbecue out of doors today. Homer's famous traveler, Ulysses, often tells us in the Odyssey about the fires in great banquet halls over which whole animals were turned, roasting in preparation for a feast. That probably was the beginning of broiling, but today it is done, daintily, without the building of fires and the stirring of embers, in the broiling oven of a modern stove. And whole meats cooked on the broiler have become quite popular with the modern housekeeper.

Foods that cook in a short time are suitable for broiling; steaks and chops, of course, but the less expensive chopped beef and lamb patties, fish fillets, frankfurters, corned beef hash, sausages, sliced left-over meat, liver and bacon all can be deliciously broiled. Bananas, peaches, canned pineapple, apricots, plums and apple rings are among the fruits that broil well. Tomatoes, onion rings and mushrooms cook in a few minutes and are fine for broiling; carrots, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, turnips, parsnips, squash, whole onions, eggplant, cauliflower and broccoli all should be parboiled first, then broiled with the meat on the broiler dinner. In choosing fruits and vegetables for a broiler meal, select those that will cook in the same length of time as the meat, or that cook in half the time, and put them on the broiler rack when the meat is turned.

Here are suggestions for broiler meals:

Broiler Meal No. 1.
Pineapple and Ham Rolls
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Buttered Broccoli

Sweet potatoes should be par-boiled in jackets; broccoli cooked in boiling salted water until barely tender. Drain 1 can pineapple sticks. Use ham sliced thin. Lay a stick of pineapple on a piece of ham, cut to serving size, roll up and fasten with toothpick. Slice potatoes 1-2 inch thick, drain broccoli. Place broccoli in pan beneath rack and dot with butter. Put ham and potatoes on rack. Sprinkle potatoes with salt and pepper and brown sugar, dot with butter or margarine. Broil about 15 minutes under moderate flame, turning ham rolls once.

Broiler Meal No. 2.
Fish Fillets
Mashed Potato Patties
Onions and Gratin

Place thick fish fillets in lightly greased broiler pan, brush with butter or margarine, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Form well seasoned mashed potatoes into patties, place next to fish, brush with melted butter and sprinkle with paprika. Place whole boiled onions next to potatoes. Brush onions with butter, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Broil about 10 minutes, under moderate flame, then sprinkle onions with grated cheese, and continue broiling until cheese is melted and fish and potatoes are browned. Serve this meal with a raw green salad for color.

Other combinations are: Lamb patties, with bacon, pineapple rings, buttered asparagus. Broiled ham, glazed peaches, buttered peas. Broiled chicken, parsley potatoes, grilled tomatoes. Grilled baked bean sandwich with bacon, broiled apricot halves.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
Edited by SALLY SAVER

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1941.

Oysters cooked or on the half-shell with a zestful sauce please those who like this rather sophisticated seafood. Above, are oysters benedict with Hollandaise sauce, and right, half-shells on ice with a cup of sauce.

Punch, Cookies Make Easy Refreshments

As the weather turns a bit cooler we are reminded that the entertaining we've been putting off until hot weather was past now can be put off no longer. For afternoon refreshments nothing can beat the old standby, punch and cookies. Here are recipes for a gallon of punch and for refrigerator cookies which can be prepared with a minimum of expense and effort.

Harvest Punch.
(1 Gallon, Serves 30 Small Punch Cups.)

2 cups boiling water
8 teaspoons tea
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 cups orange juice
1 cup lemon juice
2 cups grape juice
2 quarts boiling water
Orange and lemon slices for garnish.

Pour 2 cups boiling water over tea and steep 5 minutes. Strain and dissolve sugar in warm tea. Add fruit juices and remaining boiling water. Garnish with orange and lemon slices and serve immediately, while hot. It may be served cold by chilling fruit juices and adding iced water last instead of hot.

Bran Butterscotch Refrigerator Cookies.

1 cup butter
2 cups brown sugar
1 egg
1 cup bran
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and beat until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in bran. Sift flour with baking powder and work into first mixture, a small amount at a time. Knead and shape into rolls about 1 1/2 inches in diameter; wrap in waxed paper, covering ends so that dough will not dry out. Store in refrigerator until firm. Cut into thin slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Yield: 7 1/2 dozen cookies (2 inches in diameter).

Note: One tablespoon water or milk may be added to dough if it is difficult to shape into rolls.

Make the Most of Oysters

If your family is one who likes oysters, make the most of them these months when oysters are at their best, using the suggestions here for making delectable dishes. Oyster stew is much liked, and easily made, but never serve up one that is curdled. Solve the curdling problem in this way:

1. Use two utensils for preparation. Heat the oysters separately in melted butter and seasonings, adding their own liquor after the edges begin to ruffle—about two minutes. Heat rich milk, or part milk and cream, to scalding point in another saucepan.

2. Never allow combined hot milk, oysters and oyster juice to boil. Boiling invites curdling. Combine two mixtures, bring almost to boiling point; serve at once. Do not reheat. Oyster stew is definitely a "short-order" dish. Overcooking toughens oysters.

Extra Flavor: See that the vendor adds oyster juice when you buy oysters for soup. Never use water in oyster stew. The Creoles like to strain the liquor, cooking it with chopped parsley and six whole peppercorns—8 season 24 large oysters. Mince parsley and a dash of paprika may garnish each serving. Add 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce to salt and pepper for flavor variation. Here is the dependable recipe and complete method:

Oyster Stew for Six.
1 1/2 pints or 24 oysters
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
Few grains white pepper
Oyster liquor
1 quart (4 cups) milk, scalded
Paprika or minced parsley
Crisp oyster crackers

Remove bits of shell from oysters, drain and reserve liquor. Melt the butter, stir in seasonings, add oysters, cooking about two minutes as directed. Add reserved oyster liquor, and when heated, add scalded milk. Heat to boiling point and serve at once, garnished.

Tomato Oyster Stew: Follow ingredients and directions for plain stew, scalding milk in double boiler. When scalded, stir in 1 can tomato soup. Add oyster, cooked in butter and seasonings, to milk and soup mixture, stir well and serve at once.

Cream of Oyster Soup: Simmer about 24 oyster in their own liquor until edges curl. Combine with 4 cups hot thin white sauce, well-seasoned. Flavor with 1/2 teaspoon grated nutmeg. Garnish with parsley. Serves 6.

When oysters are broiled or prepared for frying, they must be patted thoroughly dry between towels. Fried oysters often are rated as "indigestible" merely because they are not prepared properly. It is impossible to crumb a damp surface. Pat the oysters dry, roll or pat in fine dry cracker dust, dip in oyster liquor or beaten egg, then pat in more cracker crumbs, which may be seasoned. Then fry in hot shortening.

To broil oysters, select large oysters, wash, drain and dry between towels. Melt butter, allowing 1 tablespoon for each large oyster. With a silver fork, lift each oyster by the muscle and dip first in butter, then in seasoned crumbs. Broil, turning often until brown and the juice begins to flow. Serve plain—garnish with parsley and lemon, or on cream toast.

Oysters a la Poquette.
(Oysters in White Sauce.)
1 pint oysters
1 1/4 cups milk or cream
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons flour
Salt and Pepper
Nutmeg
Cayenne
2 egg yolks or 1 egg

Heat oysters in their own liquor. As soon as they begin to boil, skim carefully and drain, saving

Prize Winning Recipes For This Week

Sweet Potatoes and Prunes.

Submitted by Mrs. Sanders Garrett, Loganville, Ga.

Boil potatoes until tender, peel and slice 1/4-inch thick. Dip each slice in melted butter. Arrange in pan or baking dish and sprinkle generously with brown sugar. Over this put a layer of prunes, cooked without sugar and stoned. Alternate layers of potatoes and prunes with sugar on top. Pour a small amount of water in which prunes were cooked over this and bake in slow oven for ten minutes. Serve with pork or chicken.

Date Nut Cake

Submitted by Mrs. C. P. Shook, 1031 N. 30th St., Birmingham, Ala.

1 cup raisins
1 cup dates
1 cup walnuts
1 cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
1-2 cup butter
2 egg yolks
3 egg whites
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-4 teaspoon allspice and cloves

Chop the raisins, dates and nuts and pour over them the cup of boiling water in which the soda has been dissolved.

Cream butter and sugar. Add beaten egg yolks then the spices and fruit with water. Add the flour, then fold in beaten egg and white and vanilla. Bake one hour in loaf cake pan in moderate oven.

Lemon Cheese Butter

Submitted by Mrs. Dale Craig, 516 Ponce de Leon, N. E., No. 2, Atlanta, Ga.

1 cup lemon juice
1 cup water
3 teaspoons grated lemon rind
3 teaspoons butter
3 eggs
3 cups sugar
2 heaping teaspoons cornstarch

Beat eggs until well mixed. Add sugar, water and lemon juice. Place in top of double boiler and stir constantly. Add butter and grated rind, then cornstarch mixed smooth in cold water.

This makes 8 or 10 jelly glasses full. It will keep for some time in refrigerator. Use as a filling, spread for sandwiches or in pastry shells as dessert.

Chamoisette

Submitted by Mrs. John D. Bailey, Route 4, Newnan, Ga.

1 pound lean pork (ground)
1-2 pound noodles (cooked till tender in boiling salt water)
3 medium sized onions (chopped fine)
1-2 pound sharp cheese (cut in pieces)

1 can tomato soup
Brown pork and onions, then add cheese, noodles and soup. Season to taste. Mix thoroughly and place in casserole. Bake slowly, in loaf cake pan in moderate oven. 3-4 to 1 hour.

Breakfast Egg Variations

1. Moisten 3-4 cup finely chopped cooked ham with 1-2 cup milk and beat in 2 tablespoons butter melted in a saucepan. Spread the hot ham on slices of toast and top the toast with a poached egg. Garnish with watercress.

2. Heap creamy scrambled eggs on slices of buttered toast spread lightly with anchovy paste. Garnish with a slice of fried or broiled tomato.

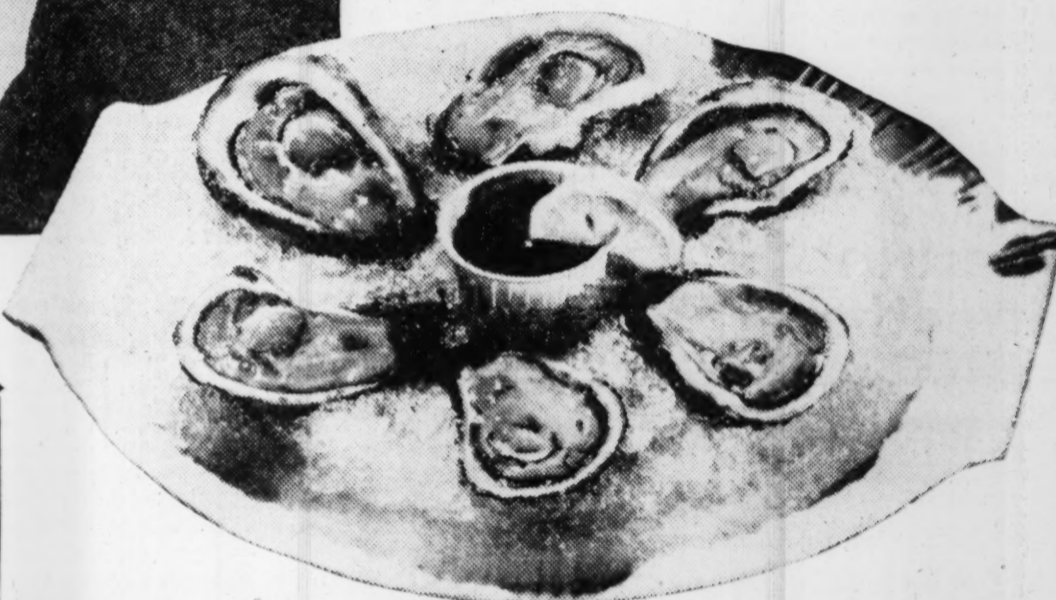

3. Heap creamy scrambled eggs on very thin slices of boiled ham fried in a little butter.

4. Put a tablespoon of cold, cooked rice in buttered ramekin, break in an egg, season lightly with salt and pepper, pour a teaspoonful of thin cream or milk over the egg and spread two thin slices bacon criss-cross over the top. Bake in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes or until the egg is set and the bacon cooked.

5. Butter individual casseroles and put a tablespoon thick stewed tomato in each. Sprinkle with a few grains of sugar, salt and pepper to season. Break in an egg, sprinkle the egg with salt and pepper and fine bread crumbs. Dot with 1-2 teaspoonful of butter and bake in a moderate oven for about 10 minutes or until the eggs are set.

6. Serve poached eggs on thick slices of broiled tomatoes, and garnish with crisp bacon.

7. Butter individual custard cups and break two eggs into each. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper and dot with 1-2 teaspoon butter. Place the custard cups in a shallow saucepan half full of water, cover and boil gently for about 8 minutes or until the eggs are firm. Meanwhile fry slices of bacon until crisp and, when the eggs are done, crumble a slice or two of crisp bacon over each portion of eggs.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

The real test of a good cook and housewife is: can she produce a good meal even if "there isn't a thing in the house." By "nothing in the house," of course, is meant nothing which was bought or planned particularly for the occasion. Given enough time and money, anyone can do almost anything. It is the exceptional woman who can, with the use of simple, homey foods and a good portion of imagination and skill, turn out a main dish which satisfies the appetite and pleases the eye. Here are suggestions for main dishes which cost so little they deserve the title "dollar stretchers." They also have an eye to good nutrition.

Cheese Puff.

1 cup left-over cooked ham chopped fine
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 tablespoons margarine
2 half-inch slices soft bread
1-4 lb. cheese
2 eggs, separated
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1 1-3 cups hot milk
1 tablespoon margarine
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Combine ham and onion and fry in the hot fat for three minutes, then transfer to a greased baking dish. Break up the bread and cut the cheese into very small pieces. Combine bread, cheese, beaten egg yolks, melted tablespoon margarine, milk and seasonings. Let stand 20 minutes or until ready to bake, then fold in parsley and stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into the baking dish; and bake in a moderate oven, 325 degrees, 45 minutes.

A hot soup may serve as the main dish if it is filling and nourishing. Most youngsters like tomato soup; the following recipe makes a chowder with more staying power because it is fortified with a bit of meat and other vegetables.

Tomato Chowder.

2 medium onions, sliced
2 cups pared potatoes, cubed
2 cups boiling water
2 cups tomatoes
2 cups evaporated milk
1-1 teaspoon soda
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon butter

Cut the salt pork in small pieces and fry until crisp in a deep kettle, add the sliced onions and cook five minutes. Add the potatoes and boiling water. Turn heat to simmer and cook until potatoes are nearly done, then add the tomatoes. Continue cooking slowly for 20 minutes longer. Stir in the soda. Bring the milk to the scalding point and pour into chowder gradually immediately after the addition of the soda. Season and bring chowder to boiling point, then thicken with a paste made of the flour and butter. Serve with split hot biscuits.

To the man, woman, or child with a sweet tooth—a meal is pretty thin without dessert. Even the most budget-minded meal hits the spot when topped off with a delicious baked concoction like a fruit pie or a Brown Betty. There's a nice combination of flavors in this:

Two-Fruit Betty.

3 cups cubed bread
3 tablespoons margarine
2 large tart apples
3 bananas
3-4 cups sugar
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
Cut the bread in small cubes; pare the apples and slice thinly; slip peel from bananas and slice thinly too. Melt the margarine in a skillet and cook bread crumbs in it until they are golden brown. Place half of the bread cubes in bottom of an oiled casserole; cover with the sugar and cinnamon. Top with the remainder of the bread cubes. Have the oven heated to 375 degree F. and bake for 30 minutes. Remove the cover and continue baking for 15 minutes. Serve warm.

Tip: To liquefy honey that has granulated: Place container in a bowl of warm (not hot) water, until all crystals are melted.

For luncheon or afternoon coffee or just plain good eating serve apple sauce on toasted enriched bread and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Or serve it with cinnamon toast for breakfast.

Ground beef, browned in bacon fat and well-seasoned, makes an excellent meal when served on toast. Tomato sauce poured over all adds flavor and color.

"Harvest punch" looks pretty surrounded by fruits of the harvest season.

Food Crop Gain Urged at Athens

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 9.—Increased demand for food and feed crops and conservation of the soil and plant food materials makes it necessary for Georgia farmers to plant a good acreage to such crops as oats, wheat (for home use), rye, barley, Austrian winter peas, vetch, crimson clover, or mixtures of these crops, workers of the Agricultural Extension Service declared today.

E. D. Alexander, agronomist for the Georgia Extension Service, says that these close-growing crops protect the soil from erosion and leaching, give early grazing, hay or grain, and when incorporated in the soil as a green manure crop, add organic matter and nitrogen collected by the legumes and return the nitrogen taken from the soil in plant growth.

To get most from the fall-planted crops, farmers are urged to contact their local county agent for detailed information. Farmers may also write the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service in Athens.

Engineers To Map Columbus Airport

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 9.—R. L. Harris, U. S. Army engineer, arrived from Mobile Wednesday with a party of six to prepare a topographical map of the new airport to be constructed about five miles northeast of Columbus. Harris said his work would require two weeks, after which Muscogee county and the Civil Aeronautics Authority will agree on contracts and runways and work will begin.

FUND FOR UNIFORMS.
WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 9.—The city commission has appropriated $125 for the purchase of uniforms for the local unit of the State Defense Corps. An equal amount has been appropriated by Ware county.

Gallup Poll Reveals:

New Deal Popularity Still High

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP.
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion (Copyright 1941)

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 9.—Only two congressional contests—one in Pennsylvania and one in Colorado—are scheduled to be held this fall. But if the whole nation were voting for a new congress, what would be the political strength of the two parties as measured by the number of congressional seats gained or lost?

Many Republicans claim that President Roosevelt's foreign policy, as well as certain aspects of his domestic policy, have lost him votes.
To find the answer the Institute is now completing a check-up of sentiment in each section of the country, using the same methods by which it forecast that the Democrats would win 264 seats in 1938 when they actually won 262.

Final returns for the first two sections—New England and the Middle Atlantic States—indicate that the Democrats would suffer no loss of seats in that area if election were held today. In fact, in the New England states they would actually gain one seat, the poll shows.
In each state and in every important section of each state, the Institute has interviewed voters in each income group and age group, farmers and city voters, men and women, and all other important groups upon whose opinions the fortunes of American political parties depend. Voters were asked two questions—which party they would vote for if congressional elections were held today, and also which party they would like to see win more seats in congress.

On the basis of the returns, the picture for New England and the Middle Atlantic states shapes up as follows:
NEW ENGLAND.
(Me., N. H., Vt., Mass., R. I., Conn.)
Seats Won in 1940 Election 14
Estimated Division of Seats if Election Were Today 15
Net Change +1
MIDDLE ATLANTIC STATES.
(N. Y., Pa., N. J., Del., Md., W. Va.)
Seats Won in 1940 Election 61
Estimated Division of Seats if Election Were Today 61
Net Change 0

The above returns should not be interpreted to mean that every present Democratic seat in each of the New England and Middle Atlantic states is safe. The results show only the net result for each section as a whole.

Experiment Plant Plans Dahlia Day
Seventh annual Dahlia Field Day will be observed Sunday at the Georgia Experiment station, two miles north of Griffin, the director, H. P. Stuckey, announced yesterday.
More than 200 varieties of Dahlias, many of them new in the south, will be shown under the conditions in which they grow in Georgia. The experiment station for the past seven years has conducted tests on Dahlia growing in co-operation with the Dahlia Society of Georgia and the American Dahlia Society. The test plots there are the only ones of their kind in the south. The public is invited to view the Dahlias from 1 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Daughter Is Born To Mother, Age 14
MACON, Ga., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Fourteen-year-old Mrs. Rufus Flanders was back home today with her five-day-old daughter, planning "to take care of my baby myself, of course."
Mrs. Flanders, probably Macon's youngest mother, is the daughter of Mrs. Annie Lou Winn, who also married young and became a mother at the age of 14. Now 28, Mrs. Winn is believed to be Macon's youngest grandmother.
The young mother and her child had been made the pets of the Macon City hospital during their stay there.

CONCRETE MIXER.
WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 9.—The concrete mixer recently purchased by the city has arrived. It is announced by O. M. Lenham, city manager. This will enable the city to replace wooden with concrete bridges; to widen streets and to repair pavements at a greatly reduced cost, official state.

CLASS OFFICERS.
ROCHELLE, Ga., Oct. 9.—The 19th grade of the Rochelle High school has elected the following officers: President, M. D. Brown; vice president, Mary Florence Bell; secretary-treasurer, Harold Kelley; reporter, Willadean Davidson; finance committee, Tommie Penn and Lillian Rhodes. The class has 39 members.

NO FIRE ALARMS.
MONROE, Ga., Oct. 9.—Local citizens are co-operating with the Monroe Fire department in the observance of "Fire Prevention Week." According to J. A. Hearn, fire chief, the department has not received a fire alarm this week.

Experiment Plant Plans Dahlia Day

Seventh annual Dahlia Field Day will be observed Sunday at the Georgia Experiment station, two miles north of Griffin, the director, H. P. Stuckey, announced yesterday.

More than 200 varieties of Dahlias, many of them new in the south, will be shown under the conditions in which they grow in Georgia. The experiment station for the past seven years has conducted tests on Dahlia growing in co-operation with the Dahlia Society of Georgia and the American Dahlia Society. The test plots there are the only ones of their kind in the south. The public is invited to view the Dahlias from 1 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Daughter Is Born To Mother, Age 14

MACON, Ga., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Fourteen-year-old Mrs. Rufus Flanders was back home today with her five-day-old daughter, planning "to take care of my baby myself, of course."
Mrs. Flanders, probably Macon's youngest mother, is the daughter of Mrs. Annie Lou Winn, who also married young and became a mother at the age of 14. Now 28, Mrs. Winn is believed to be Macon's youngest grandmother.
The young mother and her child had been made the pets of the Macon City hospital during their stay there.

CONCRETE MIXER.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 9.—The concrete mixer recently purchased by the city has arrived. It is announced by O. M. Lenham, city manager. This will enable the city to replace wooden with concrete bridges; to widen streets and to repair pavements at a greatly reduced cost, official state.

CLASS OFFICERS.

ROCHELLE, Ga., Oct. 9.—The 19th grade of the Rochelle High school has elected the following officers: President, M. D. Brown; vice president, Mary Florence Bell; secretary-treasurer, Harold Kelley; reporter, Willadean Davidson; finance committee, Tommie Penn and Lillian Rhodes. The class has 39 members.

NO FIRE ALARMS.

MONROE, Ga., Oct. 9.—Local citizens are co-operating with the Monroe Fire department in the observance of "Fire Prevention Week." According to J. A. Hearn, fire chief, the department has not received a fire alarm this week.

NEW PULPWOOD MACHINE—Morrell A. Knight, of Brunswick, is shown with the machine he has invented for sawing up pulpwood trees right where they fall. A motor mounted on a two-wheel carriage is linked by a belt drive to a circular saw which juts out several feet in front of the machine. The operator raises or lowers the saw with a handle sticking out in the rear.

Gray Reunion Called Legal By Sponsors

Commander-in-Chief's Attack on Meeting Is Answered.

The reunion for the aged sons of the Gray here October 14-15 "is entirely legal and in keeping with the constitution of the United Confederate Veterans," sponsors asserted firmly yesterday.

This statement followed one issued at Bristol, Va., by General Julius Franklin Howell, commander-in-chief of the U. C. V., terming the Atlanta reunion "illegal" and saying it would have "no standing with the constitution of the U. C. V."

General Howell said he would not attend the meeting, sponsored by the Fulton county chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

"We are dreadfully sorry to hear that General and Mrs. Howell will not be here," said Mrs. Howard McCutcheon. "We have used his name in all of our publicity and had counted on having him and Mrs. Howell in the receiving line."

Georgia U. C. V. Commander J. R. Jones, so sorry at 85 he can dance a reel, said by-laws permitted call of a reunion when issued by at least three former commanders-in-chief. The Atlanta meeting was called by former Commanders-in-Chief J. M. Claypool, of St. Louis; John O. Harris, of Oklahoma City; and Homer Atkinson, of Richmond, Va., he added.

General Howell said he had conferred with Chattanooga, Tenn., city officials and planned to call a reunion there in 1942. Mrs. McCutcheon said "we are planning a fine program for the old soldiers and already have reservations for 120 veterans and their escorts."

The average ages of the veterans hovers around the 90-year mark.

RAF at Cairo Reports Sinking 2 Freighters
CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The RAF reported tonight the almost certain sinking of two more enemy freighters Tuesday night. One was left blazing in Tripoli harbor and the other was bombed west of Tripoli. The crew of the latter abandoned it, and the vessel was last seen with its stern underwater.

Mayor Vetoes Resolution For Canceling Fi. Fas.

Mayor LeCraw yesterday vetoed a council resolution which sought to cancel fi. fas. totaling $16,439.10 against the Atlanta Title and Trust Company, and told council he could not approve the cancellation until ordered to do so by the courts.

Executives of the title company contended that they merely held the property in trust, and that they had provided the city with a list of the 300 owners.

1941 FALL

WILD FLOWER SHOW

sponsored by the Georgia Botanical Society

Mrs. Eugene S. Heath says: "It's a great idea; a challenge to amateurs and seasoned lovers of nature to come during this month of October and get acquainted all over again with your friends of the Spring and Summer in their autumn robes."

"How many will recognize at this harvest time the array of flowering plants that, with the help of the sun, rain, wind and bees, have laid up a rich store of fruit and seed against another year and are now ready for a well-deserved winter's rest? There is so much to be seen—so much to be learned, that interest will grow with each succeeding visit and something may be learned with each visit, as different displays and new contacts will be featured throughout the month of October."

Displays of handicraft from many sections are featured.
The American Women's Volunteer Service are featuring displays and suggestions to build up both demand for and supply of handicraft made by Georgia people.

CANADIAN VISITOR—John Crawford, of Montreal, was a visitor in Atlanta yesterday and said he liked the south a great deal. He is president of the National Office Managers' Association, which will hold its national convention in this city next year.

Canadian Says His Nation Sure Of Nazi Defeat

Office Managers' President Helps Plan Convention Here.

Canadians are absolutely confident that the British will win the war against Hitler, John Crawford, of Montreal, president of the National Office Managers' Association, declared here yesterday.

"There is no alternative to winning," he asserted.

Describing Canada's all-out effort, Crawford said Canadians are grateful to the United States for the help it has given and the greater help it will give later. They expect the greatest aid to come in 1942, he added.

Crawford, guest last night at a meeting of the Atlanta chapter of the National Office Managers' Association, of which G. A. Beattie is president, is here aiding the Atlanta group to plan for the association's national convention to be held here in June, 1942. Guy Woolford, chairman of the board of the Retail Credit Company, was a speaker at the session.

The association's national president is a native of Scotland and his speech bristled with Scottish britts. His philosophy and that of his organization is "a dollar saved is a dollar earned," and the 2,000 members of the office managers' association are working for greater efficiency and less cost in office management.

In Canada, Crawford said, the war effort has affected everyone, personally and in business, but added that greater sacrifices are to come. His country is controlling inflation through control of prices, wages and rents very successfully, he asserted.
Crawford declared that one of the biggest problems the office managers' association has is concerned with business education. "Too often workers take six months before their earning capacity is equal to the minimum wage," he said. Business educators are being urged to keep abreast of the times.

NEW INSECT FOUND.

ROME, Ga., Oct. 9.—An insect, rare in these parts, but common and a plague to farmers in Florida and south Georgia has been found by C. H. Hester, of Tubize. Agriculture experts identified the insect, about as long as a man's thumb, as a mole cricket.

Eleven Snakes Are Residents at State Capitol

If there's a noticeable quiver to the capitol these days it's nothing more than the mass shudders of its women employees.

Eleven live snakes of both poisonous and nonpoisonous varieties have taken a temporary residence on the fourth floor of the capitol in the state museum. They're stopping over for a brief span between personal appearances at fairs.

Included in the collection are a nonpoisonous Indigo seven- and one-half feet long, a family of water moccasins, a timber rattler, and a honey little group of nonpoisonous water snakes that spend most of the day cuddled up in a heap.

The troupe of reptile stars roomed with Miss Beverly Wallace, public relations officer for the Department of Natural Resources, for two days, but her nerves finally gave way and she ordered them out of her office. Now when she has occasion to walk across the hall to the office of Commissioner Zack Cravey, she carefully detours around her former companions.

Mrs. Pat Cooper, secretary to Cravey, has a more sympathetic attitude, however. She doesn't hesitate for a moment to take Chief Indigo, the seven- and one-half footer, out of his cage and make a big fuss over him.

"Why, the little darling," she cooed, as she fondled the big chief. "He's losing his skin. Look, he can see out of only one eye. I know he must be terribly uncomfortable."

Miss Wallace stood by and gulped.

ATTRACTIVE COTTON PICKERS—The cry of a shortage of cotton pickers in Georgia would not be heard any more if all the farmers had pickers as attractive as these two, Agnes Harbin, left, and Mary Ellen Blackwell, of Royston, who with 50-odd classmates braved a blistering sun and all the anguish associated with cotton-picking this week, to raise money for a senior class trip to Washington, D. C., next spring. One farmer paid them $1.50 per 100 pounds and they picked his field clean in a few hours. The trip is made annually.

Georgia Cotton Crop Is Set at 624,000 Bales

Ginnings Lower Than at Same Date Last Year.

ATHENS, Oct. 9.—(P)—Georgia should produce a cotton crop of 624,000 bales this year, the smallest since 1878 excepting 1923, the Crop Reporting Service said today.

The 1923 yield of only 588,000 bales resulted when the boll weevil plague swept this section. Weevil infestation this season has been serious. Much cloudy weather provided ideal conditions for the pest. The current forecast is 4,000 bales below the September 1 estimate of the Department of Agriculture's crop reporting board and 38 per cent under the 1940 production of 1,010,000 bales.

The forecast allows for a yield of about 160 pounds of lint per acre on the 1,863,000 acres estimated for harvest. This year's prospective yield is the lowest since 1932, when 154 pounds were harvested per acre.

During September weather conditions favored harvesting and ginning in most of the state. Picking is about finished in south

Georgia and about half completed in north Georgia. 404,000 bales ginned in Georgia as of October 1, compared to 507,000 The Bureau of Census reported the same date last year.

By GEORGE B. ANDERSON.

"I buy advertised brands of foods because I think they're better. A friend of mine buys non-advertised brands because she thinks they're cheaper. Who's right?"

The woman who asks that question brings up a problem with which every reputable food dealer is faced. Regardless of how low-priced any product in any line may be, it is theoretically possible for somebody else to produce something similar, to sell at a lower price. Similar does not mean "just as good," however, nor even "almost as good."

Advertised foods enjoy widespread distribution and sales. Because so many more sales are made on them, the profit per sale doesn't need to be large. Economies of mass production and mass distribution can be put into effect, and these economies can be passed on to the consumer.

A product doesn't have to be good to get people to try it once. Good advertising alone will do that. But if you don't like the product and others don't like it, no amount of advertising will make you or the rest of the public buy it a second time.

A product that is consistently advertised has to be good. There can't be any question about it. A grocer can make you want to buy a product by running attractive advertising on it, he can't induce you to buy it again if it doesn't meet the claims made for it.

Advertised foods are good foods. They have to be, or the advertising wouldn't be profitable. How about unadvertised brands? Maybe you'll be fortunate. Your guess is as good as mine.

For extra delicious flavor, shape into small balls, pop in smoking fat and serve sizzling hot. Try it.

Love Will Come Again

Pat Hastings Drives Up To See Cherry; She Tells Him That She Is Going To Stay

By Alma Sioux Scarberry.

April and Kent Hillier came to a parting of the ways after six years of married life. They are very much in love but Kent, or Hill, as he is known to April and his friends, refuses to settle down and go to work. He spends most of his time playing golf and living on the reputation he earned as amateur golf champion for two years. Even after most of his money is gone, he thinks it is all right for April to continue their extravagant life by giving voice lessons in the Hillier-Lorraine School of Music and Dancing, which she has formed with her lifelong friend and companion, Gay Lorraine. In route home from Reno he met Cherry, April's friend, who is a wealthy steel magnate. He sympathizes with April and relieves her mind during the plane ride by telling her of his own unfortunate marriage. Under the terms of her divorce, April gets custody of Kent Jr., who is now a young daughter. When April and April step out in a plane at La Guardia field they meet Hill. He has been drinking and is angry at seeing April with Kent. After a brief exchange with April, he leaves in a huff. The next morning she reads of his engagement to a wealthy and notorious divorcee, Drusilla Bayne. During April's absence in Reno, Cherry, her 18-year-old sister, has left college, broken her engagement to Pat Hastings, a young lawyer, and come to live with April. Cherry is very much upset by April's divorce and has decided to make her own way in New York as a model. Curt invites April to a Broadway opening. After considerable urging from Gay, she accepts the invitation and wears a stunning lipstick red evening gown. During intermission she meets Hill. When April returns home she has a long talk with Cherry and is troubled with Cherry's plans for her future. The next morning Pat Hastings arrives to see Cherry. But April convinces him that it would be best to leave Cherry have her best friend, Gay and April reopen their school with a new and enlarged staff of teachers on a heavy expense. They are worried about the future of the school when Gay informs April that she has arranged for a studio audition for her. The audition is successful.

INSTALLMENT XII.
Pat sat down listlessly on the tall stool near the kitchen sink. "Tell me the worst."

"I don't see much of Sis," she looked in the ice box for lettuce and tomatoes and some of the roast beef left over from dinner. "She keeps pretty busy." During the day she models at Madame Georgetown's and evenings she goes places. She just comes home to sleep.

"At least she does come home to sleep," Pat sighed. "That's something."

"Oh, yes," April said quickly. "Cherry lives here."

They were eating their sandwiches and drinking coffee when April heard the front door open.

She caught her breath. "Why, that must be Cherry now!"

Pat's face whitened. "Do you really think so?"

Cherry appeared in the doorway. "Yes! Believe it or not—"

When she saw Pat her pensive eyes widened with amazement.

"Pat!" she exclaimed, "what are you doing here?"

Pat stood up and held out his arms.

"Just visitin' April on my way through to Chicago on business," he said untruthfully. "Don't the visitin' fireman get a little kiss?"

Cherry hesitated, then went over and kissed him quickly on the cheek.

"Well, it's nice seeing you again," she said politely. "How is everybody in Salem?"

"Just fine," Pat replied, making an effort to match her nonchalance.

April got up from the table. "I'm so tired I've just got to get some rest, Cherry," she picked up her sandwich. "You take my place and visit with Pat."

Cherry gave April a warning glance which her older sister totally ignored. April smiled at Pat.

"I'll see you later, Pat. Let me know before you go. Wake me up if I'm asleep."

When she closed the door behind her Cherry said coolly: "I guess I'll have a sandwich, too. Well, what's the news?"

Pat stared at the girl he loved so dearly out of dark hurt eyes. Then he began unhappily:

"Let's not put on a show, Cherry. I'm not on my way to Chicago and you know it. I came because I couldn't stay away from you any longer. I want to know if you're ever going to come back home."

Cherry was not the fresh looking simply tailored girl Pat had loved since she was in pig-tails. She was in a close-fitting sophisticated gown that she had bought at Georgetown's, and the pearls she wore in a heavy strand around her neck were the only touch of color to relieve the severe black of her costume.

Her eyes were tired, and Pat thought she looked at least five years older than when she left home. Cherry saw his close look and dropped her eyes to the sandwich she was preparing.

"You'd no right to come here, Pat," she said sullenly. "You know I told you when I left home we were through. What I said still goes."

Pat's jaw hardened. "You mean all that stuff about not believing in love in a cottage. That rot about if a man leaves you holding the bag it's got to be filled with a lot of filthy lucre."

"That's right," Cherry raised her chin.

Pat pushed back his sandwich and stood up.

"So that's the way you still feel, is it?"

"Exactly," the bread knife slipped and Cherry almost cut her finger. "I'm having a wonderful time. And I'm certainly not going to give up all the grand times I have in New York and all my wealthy friends who have the money to show me good times, to live in a little tank town in Virginia. I'm too smart for that!"

Pat's heart pounded in his throat as he stood looking at the defiant Cherry. He didn't know whether he wanted to take her in his strong arms and crush all the resistance out of the black-gowned little figure, or whether he'd rather strangle her.

Bankhead Plays In 'Little Foxes' On Air Tonight

Brilliant Actress Heard in Role She Played on Broadway.

Tallulah Bankhead plays the lead in Charles Martin's adaptation of Lillian Hellman's play, "The Little Foxes," on "The Playhouse" tonight at 9 o'clock over WGST.

The play concerns Regina Giddens, who gains control of the family cotton mill through outwitting her two brothers. Not satisfied, she coolly sits and watches her husband die of a heart attack without helping him. She finally loses even the love of her daughter and becomes a lonely and bitter woman.

First produced on Broadway in 1939, "The Little Foxes" added another success to Miss Hellman's list, which already included "The Children's Hour" and "Days to Come."

Miss Bankhead is known for her work in pictures and on the stage in such plays as "Forsaking All Others," "Dark Victory" and many others. She created the role of Regina Giddens on Broadway.

Ray Bloch's orchestra supplies the music.

Kate Smith will present Errol Flynn, handsome leading man of the screen, in a dramatic story of Nathan Hale, and comedian Johnny Burke, "The Original Drafter," in his initial bow of the season, as highlights of her Variety Hour over the WABC-Columbia network and WGST tonight at 8 o'clock. Ted Collins, producer; Charles Stark, announcer; Jack Miller and his band, with other special features, will complete the program, Kate's second of the new season.

Flynn will re-create the role of Nathan Hale, Revolutionary War hero and martyr, in "Heritage," an original drama by Jean Holloway. This work not only recalls the tragic death of Hale, but is a reminder of the sacrifices made by the men who created a free and independent America.

"Heritage" is the story of Hale's last hours, the morning before his execution by the British as a spy. The play will reach a climax with his famous words, "I only regret that I have but one life to give for my country."

Johnny Burke, the man who fought World War I on K. P., will reveal former lamentations of a draftee of 24 years ago. Burke appeared on Kate's show twice last spring and is being recalled by public acclamation.

Deanna Durbin will try her first straight dramatic assignment when she appears on "Screen Guild Theater," over CBS Sunday, October 12, playing the title role in Booth Tarkington's "Alice Adams."

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. Why is the Defense Savings program truly national in scope?

A. Because it was devised to make possible participation by every individual—whether he buys one 10-cent Savings Stamp or a $10,000 Bond. Also it provides for enlistment in the program of every business enterprise and every kind of organization, great and small, all combined in a mass patriotic movement to save for national defense.

Q. How can an individual consumer help to prevent a rise in prices leading to an increased cost of living?

A. He should avoid buying goods that are scarce, and manufactured in competition with products needed for defense, buying instead things that are plentiful. Also he should purchase Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps on a regular, systematic, and continuing basis.

Parley Called To Study New Power Crisis

Group Will Meet in Charlotte on October Fourteenth.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Federal Power Commission announced today that another conference devoted to a consideration of problems brought about by the increasing problems of power requirements and power supply in southeastern states will be held in Charlotte, N. C., Tuesday, October 14.

Representatives of state commissions and electric utilities in nine states, including Georgia, have been invited to meet with Leland Olds, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, and Thomas R. Tate, director of the national defense power staff. Engineers representing utilities operating in eight other states also are expected to attend the conference.

In addition to Georgia, the states affected by the rising consumption of electric energy and in which drought conditions are adding to the potential danger of curtailment of power are Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Follow-Up Parley. Utilities in other states that are interested in the southeastern states' problems by reason of existing interconnections and the supply of power to this area during the present emergency are the power systems located in the states of West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

The conference Tuesday is a follow-up of a conference held on September 30, also in Charlotte, when a thorough canvass of the situation was made by the commission officials with representatives of the state commissions and those of 19 of the largest power systems in the area. During the two weeks' interim between the conferences, studies were to be made seeking the immediate power requirements in the hope of postponing or preventing, if possible, the necessity of civilian curtailment of power.

May Be Worst. Engineers of the commission are apprehensive that the drought, if continued, may affect power production even more adversely than that which prevailed in 1925 and 1939, which were the worst years of record. Without rain, acute conditions may be expected by November 1 in Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, and in the other southeastern states by December 1. The conference Tuesday is expected to consider that contingency.

Adequate supply of power in the southeast is regarded as being of vital importance to the national defense program, and has commanded the closest attention of the commission's defense power staff. Recent action included the transfer of energy to two plants of the Aluminum Company of America at Badin, N. C., and Alcoa, Tenn., from other sources in order to keep those plants in continuous operation when their own reservoir supplies were practically exhausted or insufficient to carry the aluminum load. Interconnections in addition to those already made have been ordered by the Federal Power Commission and will be placed in operation as rapidly as they can be completed. If these interconnections prove inadequate to supply the area with needed power, civilian curtailment may become necessary when the situation becomes acute.

Commission Date Is Set for 'Hornet'

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Navy's newest aircraft carrier, the $32,000,000 Hornet, will be commissioned in ceremonies at the Norfolk Naval Operating Base, Monday, October 20.

The Hornet is designed to carry a complement of 81 planes and 2,072 men and is about the same size as the Yorktown and Enterprise. The keel of the vessel was laid at Newport News September 25, 1939.

'Juke' Box Operation Curbed by Rome Body. Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ROME, Ga., Oct. 9.—Designed principally to curb the operation of "juke" boxes late at night, the Rome city commission passed an ordinance on second reading Monday night which makes it unlawful to operate a phonograph or "juke" box after 11 o'clock within the city limits.

The new law further bans the use of these machines at any time on Sunday. Section 2 of the ordinance makes it "unlawful to operate a phonograph, music box or radio where same will disturb the neighbors." Penalty for violations was set at a $10 fine, or 10 days in jail or both.

Heavy Rain Is Aid To Hancock Farmers

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. SPARTA, Ga., Oct. 9.—Hancock county farmers today are rejoicing over the first heavy rain they have received in several weeks as a backlash from the Florida hurricane, and they will now be able to plow up their lands and put in winter cover crops and fall grain. County Farm Agent J. D. Dyer reports that many acres will be sown now in crimson clover, Austrian winter peas and other cover crops in addition to a heavy acreage in wheat and oats.

The cotton stalks will be cut down and destroyed before frost and thus help kill the crop of boll weevils.
